WEALTH AWAITS MAKER OF TIRE MINUS RUBBER

U.S. Hopes Some One Will Have an Idea.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Government research laboratories are seeking a substitute for the family automobile, when its present tires are worn beyond repair.

However, the federal engineers frankly look to the inventive genius of private industry, rather than to their own labors, for an answer to the transportation problem, certain to be become more acute due to the rubber shortage.

[Industry ends production of passenger cars for duration of war. Story on page 21.]

"Big corporations," said one government engineer, "are employing the best talent in the world and providing ample funds to develop a vehicle without rubber tires to operate on our streets and highways. I'm convinced they'll have the answer on the market within two years.

The government engineer and an associate granted an interview on condition that they are not identified in this report.

Spurred by Profit Motive.

"The good old profit motive is spurring the big corporations into activity," said the associate. "Millions of dollars await the company that can develop a rubberless tire or wheel for the 28 million automobiles in America, or that can develop a vehicle without rubber that can carry the worker to and from his job, the farmer to and from his market and the housewife to and from her shopping.

"It may be patriotism, as well as the profit motive, that is inspiring many independent inventors thruout the country to wrack their brains for suggestions. Some of their suggestions are coming to us."

Suggestions for a leather tire have been discarded on the ground that leather is as critical a war material as rubber. Several ideas have been presented for a cotton tire, but chemists have not devised a satisfactory, resilient bond.

Others Termed "Promising."

Inventions described as "promising" additional mileage from existing tires would use the punctured or badly worn casing without an inner tube. The casing would be supported by cellular material, rather than by an inflated tube.

Several inventors propose a new type wheel. This idea, in its most common form, would employ spiral springs between a double rim to replace the cushioning of pneumatics. Suggestions for a tread include bonded fabrics and laminated fabrics.

Another inventor would equip automobiles with an extra set of retractable wheels to carry the vehicle on railroad or streetcar tracks. The suburbanite could drive on his rubber to the nearest car track and then save his tires for the rest of the trip to work. Or at least that's the theory.

Details Kept Secret.

Other inspired inventors are devising vehicles for use of the military—sleds with air propellers for use in the arctic and amphibians for use in the west tropics. Details are military secrets.

In the department of commerce is a National Inventor's Council, created in August of 1940 to encourage civilians to submit ideas for betterment of war materials. It will be recalled that civilians devised most of our important weapons, including the airplane, machine gun, smokeless powder, and rifled cannons.

"Informed persons, both within and without the government," reads one of its bulletins, "have come to realize that modern warfare is largely a battle of inventive ideas.

"Inventive genius is one of our greatest heritages.

"The National Inventors' Council will give full and sympathetic consideration to every idea submitted to it. It will see that every meritorious idea is brought to the attention of every defense agency which might find such an idea useful."

Halt Shipyard Work in Union Dues Squabble

BULLETIN.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 30 (Special).—More than 1,500 welders at five Seattle shipyards tonight threatened to follow the example of 900 welders in nearby Tacoma, who went on strike this afternoon.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 30 (AP).—Virtually a full crew of welders refused to report for work in the Seattle-Tacoma shipyards at 4 p. m. today after nine of their number were turned back at the gate.

Charles L. Brinkerhoff, secretary of the Tacoma Welders and Burners' council, said the nine men had been ordered discharged for failure to pay dues in the long-standing controversy between welders and the AFL international unions. Only two workers of the shift's 430 welders went into the plant, he said.

Brinkerhoff said he had telegraphed appeals to Donald M. Nelson, director of war production, and other officials to intervene.

Big Contracts Involved.

Day and night shift welders tonight voted 579 to 14 to back the men who earlier had refused to work.

The shipyards hold millions of dollars' worth of war contracts. They were tied up last fall in a similar dispute over welders' demands for a separate union.

Paul R. Porter, chairman of the shipbuilding stabilization committee, issued an appeal today to the patriotism of the welders, asserting he had confidence they would "put loyalty to the nation and to our besieged soldiers in the Philippines above all else."

Frey Assails Leaders.

John Frey, head of the AFL metal trades department, said he was certain the rank and file of the welders would "repudiate the leadership which has been deceiving them with false propaganda."

A spokesman for the United Brotherhood of Welders said that group was anxious to get all welders back to work in vital industries.

Earth Tremors Are Felt by Vancouver Residents

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 30 [Canadian Press].—An earth tremor shook buildings in downtown and residential districts of Vancouver tonight. The tremor, in two distinct shocks, was felt about 10:47 p. m. [12:47 a. m., Chicago time]. The first shock was mild. The second was distinct and residents reported chandeliers and lights swung by the motion.

AUSTRALIANS APPEAL FOR MORE PLANES IN NEW GUINEA DEFENSE

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 30 (AP).—Hopelessly outnumbered, flyers of the royal Australian air force in New Guinea are fighting large squadrons of Japanese bombers and fighting planes. The story of the defense of Australia's chain of island outposts was told in a message received from New Guinea and broadcast by the Melbourne radio. One hundred Japanese planes raided New Guinea on Jan. 20, the message said. One plane was shot down and crashed on a mountain top near Rabaul. Two days later 30 more Japanese dive bombers came over and killed 14 persons. "Fighters and yet more fighters" to meet the Japanese attacks were urgently appealed for in the message.

ARCTIC TRAPPERS HELP TO RESCUE 2 LOST ARMY MEN

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 30 (AP).—Aided by Indian trappers, Lieut. Col. Harold H. Carr and Corp. Richard Pompeo, have returned safely to Fairbanks, Alaska, after being lost nearly two weeks in the frozen Alaskan wilderness north of the Arctic Circle, the army reported tonight.

Their plane was forced down Jan. 17 about 250 miles northeast of Fairbanks, after they encountered bad weather during a flight to Whitehorse, Yukon territory. The pair landed on a frozen river. The plane was only slightly damaged, but they were out of gasoline and their radio was put out of commission. They waited two days, hopeful that aerial searchers would find them, then started down the river on foot.

They carried packs of bedding, food, camping equipment and firearms. After a long trek, they met an Indian trapper who guided them to the next trap line. They were relayed to successive trappers. Finally four days after they left the last trapper, they reached Fort Yukon, and obtained transportation to Fairbanks late Monday night.

2,752 Convicted as Food Law Violators in Britain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—During December, 2,752 convictions were obtained in 2,955 cases involving violations of food laws, the food ministry announced tonight. Last year 29,329 convictions were obtained as against 19,598 in 1940.

Add Pressing War Problems: 1 Pair of Pants

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The victory suit is definitely in, but an unsettled controversy is: Should it have one or two pair of pants?

R. R. Guthrie, head of the war production board's clothing section, said today WPB shortly would issue an order to clothing makers decreeing frilless male attire. It has been held up while WPB figures out a design which would not render present clothing obsolete, while accomplishing the aim of saving wool.

Hold Up Pants Question.

WPB fears that if the victory suit outmodes the clothes now in haberdasheries and on masculine backs, a buying rush for the new models will follow which, said Guthrie, "would be fatal" to the aim of the victory suit.

So, leaving the two pants question for future settlement, this is to be the latest in men's wear:

No vests with double breasted suits.
No pleats or cuffs on trousers.
No belted or fancy back coats.
No outside patch pockets.

No "Change" Pocket.

No continuous waist band on trousers [the overlapping, collegiate variety waist band].

No inside bellows pocket [the little pocket inside your right coat pocket, in which you carry ticket stubs and small change].

Guthrie, questioned at a press conference about the two trouser issue, fired the question right back.

"Would it be more advisable, in the opinion of the press, to limit each suit to one pair of pants or would this merely mean that men would have to buy a whole suit sooner?" he asked.

The reporters present voted for double pants, basing their judgment on the belief that the real pressure on wool will come not in 1942 but in 1943, when an army of perhaps 5,750,000 men will be in khaki.

Guthrie indicated he had almost made up his mind to a similar view.

Brazil Orders the Arrest of Axis Sympathizers

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 30.—Police thruout Brazil today received instructions to imprison persons who favored Germany, Italy, and Japan or who distributed axis literature. The order also banned the speaking of German, Italian, and Japanese in public places, the singing of axis anthems and the display of pictures of axis rules or officials.

CREW LEAVES SHIP; IS PICKED UP BY RESCUER

Attack on Rochester Is 15th in Area.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The navy today announced the 15th enemy submarine attack on Atlantic coastal shipping in three weeks.

The latest craft to be torpedoed was the 6,836 ton tanker Rochester, owned by the Socony-Vacuum Oil company of New York City. The tanker was abandoned within five minutes after being hit, presumably being given up for lost. Survivors were rescued by unidentified craft and were en route tonight to Norfolk, Va.

If the Rochester was sunk it would increase to 14 the total of ships destroyed by submarines, with a toll in dead and missing of more than 350 persons. The attacks have occurred from Florida to Nova Scotia.

Navy Silent on Steps.

The navy kept strict silence during the day on its own countermeasures, yesterday described as "increasingly effective," but there was no doubt in informed quarters here that they were being intensified.

The attack on the Rochester was made public soon after the navy announced that the 7,236 ton tanker Pan Maine of New York, owned by the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, had "reached an Atlantic port safely."

It had been reported Tuesday that the Pan Maine had been torpedoed, but the first naval district in Boston, Mass., announced today that no attack had been made on the tanker and that its crew of 30 men and nine officers was safe.

Crewmen Sight Periscope.

Officers of the naval district said the report of the attack resulted from a premature alarm which originated when two of the crew of the Pan Maine sighted a periscope so close to the ship that an attack was anticipated. It was said the periscope vanished in hazy weather five minutes later.

Only one other vessel officially reported to have been attacked has survived to make port. That was the tanker Malay, which was reported Monday to have been attacked. The Malay reached Norfolk.

43 Sunk, Says Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 30 [From German Broadcasts] (AP).—A special communique preceded on the German radio by a fanfare of trumpets today reported that U-boats operating off the United States and Canada had sunk 43 ships totaling 302,000 tons since the beginning of the war with the United States. The special announcement added 13 ships totaling 74,000 tons to the previous total claimed by the Germans.

The communique said:

"German submarines in continuing attacks on enemy supply shipping in American and Canadian territorial waters have sunk a further 13 ships with a tonnage of 74,000 registered tons.

"In these operations the submarine commanded by Lieut. Kalk particularly distinguished itself. Since their first appearance off the American coast our U-boats have sunk 43 enemy merchant ships with a total tonnage of 302,000."

A QUICK GLANCE AT NEWS OF ALL FIGHTING FRONTS

Latest developments on the world's fighting fronts:

The United States war department announced receipt of a message from Gen. MacArthur in which the defender of the Philippines reported that he had ignored a Japanese demand to surrender. MacArthur also said that Filipino troops laughed at enemy appeals to lay down their weapons. He declared there was lull in the fighting on Luzon Island.

The navy disclosed that an enemy submarine had torpedoed an American tanker off the Atlantic coast. The ship was abandoned and the survivors were rescued, according to the navy. It was the 15th submarine attack on shipping along the eastern coast in three weeks.

Grave Menace to Singapore.

The British admitted their great naval base at Singapore was in grave peril. They said the Japanese invaders of the Malay peninsula were within 18 to 20 miles of the island on which the base is located. Japanese bombers pounded the approaches to Singapore and the island itself, dispatches said.

From the Netherlands East Indies came word that reenforcements in men and material had reached there. The Dutch navy and air force reported they had sunk or damaged 54 Japanese ships in 54 days of war. The figures were exclusive of American and Dutch claims of Japanese losses inflicted on an enemy armada of warships and transports in the Strait of Macassar.

Raid Jap Base in Burma.

American volunteer flyers in Burma attacked a Japanese air base in southern Burma, according to a dispatch from Rangoon. British and Burmese troops were said to be holding the invaders in fighting near Moulmein, a gulf port across from Rangoon.

The British admitted axis forces in Libya had compelled their troops to abandon the port of Bengazi.

The Russians claimed the Red army had outflanked and encircled German troops in "scores of sectors" along the entire battle front. The Red army declared it was in possession of a big railway junction, which it described as the gate to both the Ukraine granary and the Donetz coal basin.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 [Special].—Navy personnel today was ordered to wear uniforms at all times "except when exercising or except when in the home with less than three guests present," by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. On the day of the attack on Pearl Harbor all naval personnel was ordered into uniform while on duty.

INVADERS CALL ON M'ARTHUR TO SURRENDER

Filipinos Greet Plea with Laughter.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported to the war department today that he had ignored a Japanese demand for his surrender and said his Filipino troops had only laughed at enemy appeals that they lay down their arms.

The war department said the demand for surrender was contained in leaflets dropped from enemy planes over the Bataan peninsula lines on Luzon Island on Jan. 10.

"Gen. MacArthur and his troops paid no attention to the message," the communique said.

The demand, signed by "commander in chief, the Japanese expeditionary forces," said, "The end is near," and asserted that "you have already cut rations by half."

Demands Truce Mission.

The message directed that MacArthur send a mission to negotiate an armistice and expressed hope that "your wise counsel will so prevail that you will save the lives of your troops."

This Japanese commander has been identified as Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, commander of the Japanese 14th army.

Enemy planes, the war department said, now are redistributing the leaflet with a message printed on the reverse side calling on Filipino soldiers to surrender and stating that "Gen. MacArthur has stupidly refused our proposal."

This appeal, the communique said, occasioned only mirth among the Filipino soldiers. It was written in stilted, Japanese schoolboy style English with many errors.

Text of Statement.

The text of the war department's statement, based on reports received here up to 3 p. m. Chicago time, said:

"On Jan. 10, 1942, Japanese airplanes dropped leaflets over our lines in the Philippines bearing the following message:

"'To Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander in chief, United States army forces in the far east.

"'Sir:

"'You are well aware that you are doomed. The end is near. The question is how long will you be able to resist. You have already cut rations by half. I appreciate the fighting spirit of yourself and your troops, who have been fighting with courage. Your prestige and honor have been upheld.

"Advised to Surrender."

"'However, in order to avoid needless bloodshed and to save your 1st, 31st divisions, and the remnants of other divisions, together with your auxiliary troops, you are advised to surrender. In the meantime we shall continue our offensive, as I do not wish to give you time for defense. If you decide to comply with our advice send a mission as soon as possible to our front line. We shall then cease firing and negotiate an armistice. Failing that, our offensive will be continued with inexorable force, which will bring upon you only disaster.

"'Hoping your wise counsel will so prevail that you will save the lives of your troops, I remain

"'Yours very sincerely,

"'COMMANDER IN CHIEF,
"'The Japanese Expeditionary Forces.'

Plea to Filipinos.

"Gen. MacArthur and his troops paid no attention to the message.

"Enemy airplanes are now redistributing this leaflet, on the back of which has been added the following message, directed especially to the Filipino troops:

"'To the Filipino soldiers:

"'The outcome of the present combat has been already decided and you are cornered to the doom. At this time ever generous commander in chief of Japanese expeditionary forces, in order to avoid further annihilation of your dear lives, has presented to your commander in chief, Gen. MacArthur, a letter as shown on the back page of this leaflet. But, however, being unable to realize the present situation, blinded Gen. MacArthur has stupidly refused our proposal and continues futile struggle at the cost of your precious lives.

Message Occasions Mirth.

"'Dear Filipino soldiers: There is still one way left for you. That is to give up all your weapons at once and surrender to the Japanese forces before it is too late; then we shall fully protect you. We repeat the last. Surrender at once and build your new Philippines for and by Filipinos.

"'COMMANDER IN CHIEF,
"'The Japanese Expeditionary Forces.'

"This message has occasioned much mirth among the Filipino soldiers, who are continuing their resistance with loyalty, courage, and resolution."

Expect New Jap Assault.

Earlier in the day the war department disclosed that the Japanese sent fresh troops to the Luzon island front and movements behind the Japanese lines contributed to a belief the enemy was preparing for "resumption of a large scale offensive," as the communique put it.

To President Roosevelt, MacArthur sent this message:

"Today, Jan. 30, the anniversary of your birth, smoke-begrimed men rise from the 1ox holes of Bataan and the batteries of Corregidor to pray reverently that God may bless immeasurably the President of the United States."

NEEDED MATERIAL SEIZED IN CARGO OF GERMAN SHIP

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The war production board disclosed today that the entire cargo of the German motor ship Willmoto, interned at San Juan, Puerto Rico, before this country's entry into the war, was among a variety of materials seized recently by the government at the WPB's direction.

The ship yielded 4,000 tons of crude rubber, 100 tons of truck tires, 360 tons of brass, 50 tons of copper and large quantities of raw wool, hides, grains, and peanuts, the WPB announced.

Another seizure authorized by the board's new inventory and requisitioning section included machinery, equipment, and supplies of an explosives plant, and 50 miles of railroad track and fastenings from a railroad company unable to make use of the material. The explosives plant, the board added, had been put back into operation.

CHINESE FORCES CHASE JAP ARMY IN CANTON AREA

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 30 (AP).—Chinese forces on the south Kwangtung front are continuing their counterattacks along both banks of the East river, a Chinese communique reported today.

One Chinese unit was said to have pursued the Japanese to the outskirts of Polko, 75 miles east of Canton, where the Japanese rushed up reënforcement. In fierce fighting the Japanese were believed to have suffered heavy losses. [Another dispatch said the Japanese were retreating in this area.]

The communique also reported constant raids during January on enemy outposts on the northern Kiangsu front in east China, with Suchow, a rail junction 170 miles northwest of Nanking, as the chief objective.

SHIP WAR RISK RATES CUT FOR SOUTH PACIFIC

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—Marine underwriters decided today, on the heels of allied naval successes in the Pacific, to cut cargo war risk insurance rates to southern Australian ports to 6 per cent from 7½ per cent.

The lower rate, effective tomorrow, will cover cargoes moving thru the Panama canal and trans-Pacific to most important Australian ports, except Brisbane and Port Darwin, and other points below the 30th degree of south latitude.

Pacific coast rates, for shipments moving north of the Panama canal are cut to ½ of 1 per cent from ¾ of 1 per cent. Rates between Puget sound and Cape Spencer, Alaska, were cut to ¾ of 1 per cent from ¾.

U. S. VOLUNTEERS WITH ALLIES FACE TRANSFER DELAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Americans who enlisted in armed forces fighting against the axis prior to the United States' entry into the war and now wish to fight under their own flag were notified today by the American embassy that there may be considerable delay before their transfers can be effected.

The embassy statement, estimating that hundreds of Americans have enlisted abroad, points out that their immediate transfer to the American forces would materially reduce the effectiveness of the units in which they now are serving.

JAPANESE POUND BRITISH 18 MILES FROM SINGAPORE

Invaders Press On; Island Curfew in Effect.

BULLETIN.

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—A Tokio broadcast said tonight that Japanese forces "hurdled the last barrier" before Johore Bahru by breaking thru at Kulai, 18 miles north of Singapore. The broadcast said "from Kulai Japanese forces are now streaming toward Singapore over a wide highway running parallel to the railroad leading to the Johore Bahru station."

(Map on back page.)

SINGAPORE Jan. 30 (AP).—The Japanese invaders had smashed down to within 18 to 20 miles of Singapore on both the British left and center fronts tonight, and this great, menaced base went under military curfew.

Only on the east Malayan coast, where fighting was inconclusive along the Sedili river, about 40 miles above this island, had the enemy been checked.

The afternoon communique of the imperial command told a story of grave British reversals.

"In the center there is contact with the enemy about Kulai [18 miles above the mile-wide Johore strait separating Singapore Island from the mainland], and heavy fighting took place yesterday in the Sedenak area [eight miles to the north]," the communique said.

Great Enemy Air Activity.

"In the western sector of the front some fighting has taken place in the Pontian Besar area [20 miles from Johore strait].

"Enemy air activity has been considerable against our forward positions and communications."

The Pontian Besar area, on the west, is near a junction of roads—one of which leads 17 miles southward to the southern tip of the Malayan peninsula, due west of Singapore; the other eastward to the main road thru Johore Bahru, capital of Johore strait; thence across the causeway which links the mainland with the Island of Singapore.

27 Planes Unload Bombs.

Widespread areas of Singapore itself as well as the base's outlying approaches were feeling the intensified aerial pounding mentioned so tersely in the communique.

The one cheering note was the announcement that another thousand British imperial troops previously cut off in the Batu Pahat section of western Malaya had been able to beat back and rejoin the main British bodies.

Singapore's anti-aircraft batteries shot down two enemy planes yesterday, and in enemy raids again this morning one Japanese plane was destroyed and several others heavily damaged. Twenty-seven Japanese planes took part in the attack.

Curfew became effective at 9 p. m. under the order of Lieut. Gen. A. E. Percival, commanding officer in Malaya and administrator of martial law in Singapore.

Japan Lists Claims.

TOKIO [From Japanese Broadcasts], Jan. 30 (AP).—The Domei news agency today gave the following picture of the fighting on the Malayan front:

CENTRAL SECTOR—The Japanese have captured the railroad town of Sedenak and are driving south toward Kulai, 18 miles from the Strait of Johore.

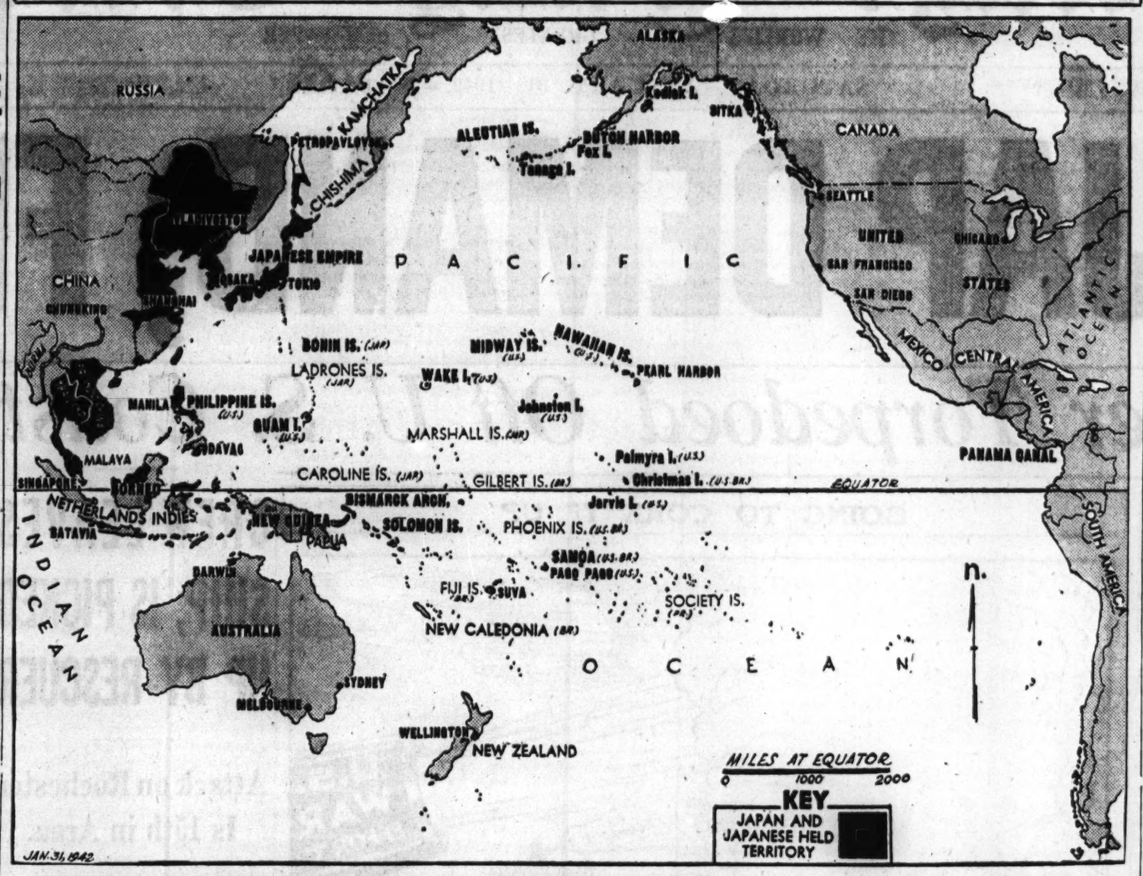
WEST COAST—Japanese troops have swept past Apiapi and are following the coast road leading to Johore Bahru, at the mainland end of the causeway leading to Singapore Island. [Apiapi does not appear on maps.]

EAST COAST—The defense forces are being engaged at Ulu Sedili, 40 miles north of Johore strait.

POSITION "MORE GRAVE."

A British military commentator in London estimated that the Japanese had six full divisions of 100,000 men in Malaya. The British Broadcasting corporation said plainly: "The position is more grave." It added, however, that some imperial forces were being held in reserve for the frontal assault on Singapore itself.

Pacific Area Involved in the War Against Japanese Empire



This map of the Pacific region will be helpful in following tonight's radio address by Col. Robert R. McCormick. It will be heard over W-G-N on the Theater of the Air program.

PLANES AND MEN REACH INDIES TO HELP OUT DUTCH

More Aid Needed; Call Situation Bad.

BULLETIN.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 31 [Saturday].—(AP).—Australian reconnaissance planes have sighted a Japanese convoy north of Amboina Island in the Netherlands East Indies and a Japanese landing there is expected today, Air Minister Arthur S. Drakeford said.

(Map on back page.)

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 30 (AP).—Reënforcements in both materials and men already have arrived in the Netherlands East Indies.

They provide new hope of aid, along with the Dutch-American successes in the Strait of Macassar.

Much more aid is expected and much more is needed, for the situation is admittedly serious.

Details of the reënforcements are military secrets. However, inhabitants of Batavia now are seeing low-flying American bombers.

Hit 54 Ships in 54 Days.

The sturdy little Dutch navy and air force was reported to have sunk or damaged 54 Japanese ships in that many days as Netherlands troops still battled the invaders inside the charred Borneo oil city of Balik Papan on Macassar strait.

This impressive one-a-day Dutch toll includes 1 Japanese battleship, 10 cruisers, 7 destroyers, and 25 transports carrying thousands of troops and tons of supplies intended for a quick conquest of the Indies before allied reënforcements arrive.

The figures given to the Aneta news agency were exclusive of the costly losses inflicted by the American ships and bombers on the Japanese armada pushing southward toward Java.

[United States army and navy communiques have listed 52 Japanese ships "definitely sunk" since the war began, including one battleship, four submarines, six destroyers, two cruisers, and 23 transports.]

Give Japs No Rest.

Absence of new details of the Macassar battle which began a week ago indicated the Japanese may be hesitating, or at least stopping to reorganize their depleted ranks at Balik Papan, about half way down the Borneo east coast.

But an official Dutch communique said the Japanese there were getting no rest. "Fighting continues not only near Balik Papan, but in the town itself," it said.

Bands of regulars and guerrillas also were reported in action on Minahassa peninsula in northeastern Celebes, at Kendari in southeastern Celebes, and in the Pontianak area of western Borneo, only 525 miles above this Indies capital.

Informed sources said the Japanese—dependent on ships for their widely scattered drives in the South Pacific—could not endure such heavy losses indefinitely, but they believed a new Japanese push in Macassar strait was imminent.

Air Power Stressed

America's strategy in the Pacific war will be outlined by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in a radio talk on the Chicago Theater of the Air program from 8 to 9 p. m. over W-G-N, FM station W59C and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Col. McCormick's speech will deal with the importance of air strength and the revolution it has made in warfare, and with the advantages and disadvantages faced by United States forces in the western Pacific.

Emmerich Kalman's tuneful operetta, "Countess Maritza," will be presented on the program, with Marion Claire and Thomas L. Thomas in leading rôles. Included in the cast are Ruth Slater, Luise Barclay, Bret Morrison, and Sharon Grainger. J. T. Ainley is producer and Henry Weber will direct the orchestra.

AMERICAN FLYERS IN BURMA STRAFE INVADERS' BASE

British Hold Japanese in Land Fighting.

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 30 (AP).—Burma's American air defenders shifted today to the attack, strafing a Japanese air base on the Moulmein fighting front in southern Burma while British and Burmese troops on the ground held fast to their positions.

The American Volunteer Group squadron lost one pilot, a Missourian. His Tomahawk fighter was seen to burst into flames while he was diving low at his target.

This is the second casualty for the American Volunteer Group in seven days, during which the former United States army and navy airmen have downed 50 Japanese planes. Their bag for the war is at least 111.

Situation Well in Hand.

Both south and east of Moulmein, Gulf of Martaban port across from Rangoon, the British said they had the situation well in hand.

"The troops are in good heart," the British command added.

Just where the eastern invading column had been engaged was not stated. The last previous reports had put the Japanese within 30 miles of Moulmein, which is across the Gulf of Martaban from Rangoon.

As to air operations the regular day British communique reported only that one British plane had been lost in RAF sorties over enemy territory.

Driving Ahead, Japs Say.

TOKIO, Jan. 30 [From Japanese Broadcasts] (AP).—The Domei news agency, under a "Burmese front" dateline, reported tonight that Japanese columns were smashing westward toward Moulmein from Mesod and northward up the Ataran river bank.

5,000 Interned Italians Taken to South Africa

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, Jan. 30 (AP).—Five thousand Italian internees from Ethiopia and Eritrea have begun to arrive in southern Rhodesia. Thirty-five followers of Rashid Ali al Gailani, former premier of Iraq, who led a short lived revolt against the British, including seven former cabinet ministers and four senior army officers, were also interned in Rhodesia. Rashid Ali was last reported in Berlin.

12,000 PARTIES MARK BIRTHDAY OF PRESIDENT

Many Celebrities Guests at White House.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—President Roosevelt celebrated his 60th birthday tonight by cutting a large birthday cake, greeting screen stars at the White House and delivering a radio broadcast of thanks to those who contributed to his favorite charity—aid to infantile paralysis victims.

President Roosevelt's birthday picture.

For years the chief executive's birthday anniversary has been made an occasion for celebration and raising funds to fight infantile paralysis. Thruout the United States 12,000 birthday balls were in progress and six formal balls were held in the capital's larger hotels.

Star of Day 4 Years Old.

The President was surrounded all during the afternoon and evening by artists of the films, stage, radio and other celebrities, but the star of the day was Gerry King, 4 years old, a bright faced New York youngster recovering from the effects of infantile paralysis.

Gerry stumped into the executive mansion on crutches to bring the President a model of an airplane carrier as a birthday present. Dressed in a sailor suit, he limped into the dining room where the President sat alone before luncheon.

At sight of Mr. Roosevelt, Gerry dropped his crutches and walked four steps, for the time without aid, the little ship clutched in his extended hands. Later, at a hotel, several persons watched him take six steps.

Mrs. Roosevelt invited Gerry to the White House party after he had sent a card of dimes contributed by himself and his little neighbors. He and his mother had luncheon with the group of movie stars who came to Washington to attend the balls and to help entertain, their donation to the President's charity.

Greetings from Churchill.

Thruout the day the White House communications system was busy carrying greetings to the President from crowned heads.

From Great Britain, where the chief executive's anniversary was widely observed, came a message from Prime Minister Churchill. Britain's first lord of the admiralty, A. V. Alexander, broadcast birthday greetings in the name of the British people.

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands sent a congratulatory message, as did Prime Minister John M. Andrews of Northern Ireland, who asserted that "Ulster has given a warmhearted welcome to the American forces now among us."

Message to Celebrators.

In his message to the thousands of birthday balls, President Roosevelt said:

"Our enemies must at this moment be wondering—if they are permitted to know what goes on—how we are finding time during the grim business of war to work for the cause of little children. We support our tasks of humanity in time of war, as in time of peace, thru the same old system of telling the public of the great need, and asking for the voluntary help of men, women and children to fill it.

"The fight against the disease of infantile paralysis has proven beyond doubt that the way democracy works—the voluntary way—is efficient and successful."

Among the 24 guests invited by Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt to the dinner tonight were crown prince and princess of Norway, Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Morgenthau, the President's White House aides and secretarial staff, Harry Hopkins, and the President's former New York law partner, Basil O'Connor.

OVERFLOW CROWD HERE.

An overflow crowd jammed the grand ball room of the Hotel Sherman last night to attend the President's birthday ball. These who attended were entertained by stars of stage, screen and radio, and from 10:15 to 11:15 heard Mr. Roosevelt's birthday address thru loudspeakers from the White House.

The party, an annual affair, is held simultaneously with similar dancing parties thruout the country to raise funds for the Infantile Paralysis Foundation. Ethel Barrymore, appearing here in "The Corn Is Green" was the guest of honor. She was introduced by Willie Shore, master of ceremonies from the Chez Paree.

Others who appeared were members of the cast of "Panama Hattie," including Arthur Treacher, Frances Williams, and James Dunn. Vivian Segal and George Tapps of the musical comedy, "Pal Joey" also were present. Morton Downey, Irish tenor, and Beverly Bayne, star of the silent pictures, now playing in Chicago in "Claudia," aided in the entertainment.

The Recruit of the Day

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Lieut. Col. Chester L. Fordney and Robert S. Wilinski.

He's a Fighter

Robert Stanley Wilinski is a pretty handy man with his fists and now he wants to become handy with a rifle. He'll have his chance, for yesterday he became a member of the Marine corps. Col. Chester Fordney, officer in charge of recruiting, swore him into service in front of the corps' newest poster, which was painted by Haddon Sundbloom, noted artist, and for which Fordney posed.

Robert locked up his gas station at 80th street and Exchange avenue to join up. He's 26 years old, lives at 8104 Manistee avenue, was graduated from Bowen high school, and is quite an athlete. He has played prairie football and in 1936 was middlewest and eastern heavyweight boxing champion of the Catholic Youth Organization tournament. Where does he want to serve? He jerked his thumb toward the poster where the word TOUGH is printed and grinned, "That's it, where it's toughest and hottest."

Roosevelt Birthday Cake Auctioned in City Hall

A huge "official" birthday cake was auctioned off in the city hall lobby yesterday for the benefit of the President's birthday party infantile paralysis fund drive. Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] was one of the successful bidders, paying $50 for a slice of cake and a kiss from Miss Nilah Brooks, one of several volunteer beauties whose presence lent an air to the occasion. Miss Brooks also hugged and was hugged by Mayor Kelly. Nine hundred ten dollars was raised after Ald. Mathias J. Bauler [43d] paid $65 for the first cake and kiss.

Australia Plans to Move Food Inland if Invaded

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 30 (AP).—The Melbourne radio said today plans were being made to distribute emergency food supplies to inland centers in event of an invasion of Australia by the Japanese. The station also mentioned that coal miners in New South Wales have asked permission to form a "people's army" for operation as guerrilla bands.

WORLD UNION BID FOR BILLION FUND BLASTED IN HOUSE

Members of Congress Get Written Demand.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Indignation was voiced in congress today as every senator and representative received in the mails a demand from World Fellowship, Inc., an organization espousing a commonwealth of world nations, that President Roosevelt be tendered, as a birthday gift, legislation authorizing the expenditure of one billion, 100 million dollars for the creation of a federation of the world.

The world fellowship group, headed by Charles Henry Davis of Massachusetts, professed aims similar to that of Federal Union, Inc., of which Clarence K. Streit is president and which has been indorsed by such persons as Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Urged to Back Resolution.

Legislators were urged to support a joint resolution giving Mr. Roosevelt "all the needed authority and powers of every kind and description without limitations of any kind" to set up a world government under the title "United Nations of the World."

The resolution would authorize the appropriation of 100 million dollars to the President to carry out the purposes of the act and another billion dollars as a working fund for the world federation.

Mr. Roosevelt was called upon in the house by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] to condemn the proposal.

Warns of Inferential Approval.

"If he does not condemn it, he by inference approves this proposal to destroy our form of government and substitute a world government," Hoffman told the house.

"If Ickes and Secretary Frances Perkins and the horde of Reds who surround the President are not content to live under our Constitution, why do they not migrate to Germany or Russia where the same idea of uniting all the peoples of the world under one rule prevails?"

Hoffman noted that American soldiers and sailors were dying in the Philippines and many other places thruout the world in the belief that they were fighting for the preservation of our government.

Branded Blow to Morale.

"At the same time, thru the mails of the United Sates government comes this propaganda which would destroy all that these boys have fought and died to save," he declared. "Such propaganda tends to sap the morale of our fighting men.

"It creates the feeling that this administration, by permitting such efforts to go unrebuked, is not carrying on a war to preserve the American way of life, to render our government secure and permanent, but, driven by ambition, seeks to make us a part of a world power.

"Let the President without delay assure the American people that he wants no part in the creation of a united states of the world. Let him assure us that when this war is won, our independence as a nation will be sacredly preserved and that we will not become a part of any world political union."

Hoffman introduced a resolution calling for an investigation of Federal Union, Inc.; World Fellowship, Inc., and similar organizations.

ACT TO RELIEVE FIGHTING FORCES OF TAX WORRIES

House Repeals Penalties in Present Law.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his men, making their historic stand against overwhelming odds in the battle of the Philippines, are to be relieved of income tax worries under legislation passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

The measure provides that members and civilian employés of the armed forces are under no obligation to file tax returns if [1] they are prisoners of war, [2] they are otherwise detained by enemy governments, or [3] they are serving outside the continental limits of the United States.

They must, however, file returns within 3½ months after the end of the war, or 3½ months after they return to this country, or, in the case of death, an executor, upon appointment, must file the return.

Penalized Under Present Law.

Under existing law, MacArthur and his Philippine garrison, the members of the new expeditionary force lately landed in Ireland, American nationals interned by axis nations, and the marines taken prisoner on Wake Island would soon be regarded as tax dodgers for failing to file their returns for 1941. The only grace now allowed those outside the United States is an extra month beyond the March 15 deadline, after which they automatically become delinquent.

There has been sharp criticism on the floor of congress of what was charged to be failure of the Roosevelt administration to send aid to the "heroic handful" in the Philippines while sending thousands of troops to the north of Ireland. Many members have pointed out that the British have 3½ million men, armed to the teeth and fully trained, "sitting on their bottoms" while MacArthur's men are making a last ditch stand alone.

Provides for Pay Continuation.

The delayed income tax legislation was part of a bill, approved by the house by a voice vote, which provides for the continued payment, or credit in the pay accounts of members of the armed forces missing in combat for one year following the beginning of their absences from their posts or until they have officially been declared dead.

In addition to soldiers and sailors, marines, and coast guardsmen, the measure applies to nurses and civilian employés of the war and navy departments. Deserters and those A. W. O. L. are, of course, specifically excepted.

Rep. Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the naval affairs committee, explained that passage of the bill would be assurance to the fighting men that their dependents will be adequately protected by the government. During the year allowed for absence, the regular allotments for dependents and insurance premiums will be kept up out of the individual pay accounts, he said.

Other House Action.

The house today concurred in senate amendments to three other bills which it had previously passed and sent the measures on to the White House. One called for the construction of 450 million dollars in naval shore facilities. A lump sum appropriation to keep secret details of the program; another authorized the construction of 1,799 combat, auxiliary, and patrol vessels at a maximum cost of 750 million dollars, while the third provided for time and a half pay for overtime for employés of the national committee on aeronautics.

Vinson said the latter measure was necessary to prevent the employés, now on the government pay roll, from reverting to private industry where they would receive higher salaries.

During discussion of the naval shore facilities bill, the naval affairs committee chairman promised his colleagues that cost of construction of officials quarters would be limited to $7,500 in most cases and there would be no "tile bathrooms, electric curling irons, or electric waffle irons" included.

The house also passed and sent to the senate a bill authorizing the government to lease the old naval hospital property in the capital as a temporary home for soldiers and sailors for another 15 years. Vinson explained that the present lease is due to expire this year. During 1941, he said, a total of 4,708 ex-service men found shelter in the home for maximum periods of 10 days at a cost to the government of $17,750.

Welles Leaves Rio on His Way Back to Washington

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 30 (AP).—Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state and head of the United States delegation to the Pan-American conference, has left for Washington.

Suspension Ends

DEANNA DURBIN.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 30 (AP).—Film actress Deanna Durbin and Universal Studio, where she achieved fame, have settled their difficulties and she will return to work there at an unspecified date, President M. J. Blumberg announced today.

The young singing star was suspended last October 16 after a dispute over a forthcoming production.

Miss Durbin will depart Feb. 6 for army camp appearances in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware. She will return in March.

JAPANESE AGREE TO LIST SOLDIERS SEIZED IN PACIFIC

Red Cross Plans Food Gifts to Prisoners.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, announced today that he has been officially notified that Japan has agreed to an exchange of information regarding prisoners of war.

Thus information on the welfare of American prisoners taken from Wake Island, Guam, the Philippine Islands, and other points in the Pacific soon may be available to their relatives, Davis said.

The Japanese government also has signified its readiness to exchange information concerning interned noncombatants "as far as possible."

As soon as the American prisoner of war lists are received in Washington, the next of kin in the United States will be notified by the Prisoners of War Bureau of the United States army, Davis explained.

Will Trace "Missing."

Davis said the Red Cross is not the agency to which to apply, unless the next of kin is notified that the military man is reported "missing." The Red Cross then will send out a query trying to trace him thru the International Red Cross.

The lists of interned noncombatants probably will come to the American Red Cross.

In anticipation of consent for shipment of food, some types of clothing, and other comforts, on a reciprocal basis, the American Red Cross is working on plans to send aid to American nationals imprisoned in the Pacific area.

The first move will be to charter one or more ships to carry clothing and prisoner of war boxes to American prisoners. It is likely that the boats will be sent from Australia, because of its closeness to the war area, when guarantees of safe conduct are obtained.

Standard Boxes Available.

Under a Geneva treaty of 1929, the detaining power agrees to provide food and clothing for prisoners, but the American Red Cross plans to meet certain supplementary needs. Military prisoners are required to wear their uniforms, but they can receive socks and underwear.

The American Red Cross has standard prisoner of war food boxes for which the would-be donor pays $2.40 each. Later, when the address of the prisoner is known, the box can be addressed to him, but it is expected that the bulk of them will be unaddressed. The boxes contain scientifically selected items to supplement a prison-diet.

2,000 TO DONATE DAY'S WAGES TO NAVY AID SOCIETY

The 2,000 employés of the Edward Hines Lumber company will work a full shift today, but the $15,000 they would ordinarily draw in wages will be donated to the Naval Relief society with the request that it be used to aid widows and children of men who died at Pearl Harbor and the other Pacific outposts attacked by Japanese. Ralph J. Hines, president of the company, said that the suggestion came from the employés themselves. In addition to the Chicago yards, the company operates mills in Park Falls, Wis., and Burns, Ore. These offices are included in the naval donation.

U. S. CONCEALING BAD WAR NEWS, SAYS WOODRUFF

Contrasts Policy with That of Churchill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—The forthrightness of Prime Minister Winston Churchill with the British people concerning the progress of the war was compared with the "methods of concealment and circumlocution" of the Roosevelt administration in a house speech today by Rep. Roy O. Woodruff [R., Mich.].

Rep. Roy Woodruff.

"Britain has in the last few days given us an example of blunt direction as compared to evasive circumlocution," Woodruff told members.

"Churchill, the stout-hearted leader of the British empire, has given us an example of forthrightness and willingness to tell his people the unpleasant truth, to take full responsibility for all those policies and acts for which he is rightly responsible, directly or indirectly, to meet pointed, candid criticism and evaluation of the British war policies.

Charges Concealment of News.

"Compared with this, we have the administration's concealment of bad news from the American people, unwillingness to tell the nation grave tidings, subterfuge by broadcasting highly commendable but irrelevant details of heroic personal exploits, refusal to meet or answer either criticism or appraisal of the war policies and war efforts on the ground that all criticism or appraisal is 'partisan politics' or the aiding and abetting of 'fifth columnists.'

Woodruff said the nation may well ponder these comparisons. He said either the British people have more courage and capacity to bear up under unpleasant and disappointing tidings or Churchill and his officials have a faith in the courage and fairness of their people which our own administrators have not thus far displayed.

United States Courage Undoubted.

"No one believes that our people have any less courage or fortitude or fairness toward their government than the British people," he said. "Therefore it must be that our administrators need some of Churchill's forthright courage and bluntness in their dealings with our people.

"The British mode and method is in painful contrast thus far to the modes and methods of concealment, circumlocution, and abuse of critics or appraisers of the administration's acts and policies in the United States.

"It is true that the Pearl Harbor debacle aroused such an intense public indignation that nothing short of the action taken in that case would have sufficed to allay the wrath of the people.

Question Still Raised.

"And even now it is a question in Washington—whether justly or not—as to whether the culpability for the Pearl Harbor disaster stops with Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short.

"It is obvious the British leaders and the British people believe unity is assured with them thru frankness, so far as necessary military strategy permits frankness; by honest, constructive criticism, no matter how pointed, and by the willingness of the government administrators to meet such criticism on the ground on which the criticism is based, and not by crying 'political partisanship.'

"It would be a much more wholesome situation in the United States if our leaders were to take a leaf out of Churchill's book."

Dutch Press Bares German Plan to Farm Russian Land

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—The Nazi controled Netherlands press has revealed that the Germans plan to exploit west Russia by hiring Dutch, Belgian, Danish, and other farmers from Nazi occupied countries as managers over Russian laborers, the profits to go to the "East German Agriculture company." Aneta, Netherlands news agency, which received the papers today, said that part of the land included in the plan has been lost in the Nazi retreat.

LABOR CZAR ROLE FOR SUPPLY CHIEF SEEN IN BRITAIN

Increased Power Looms Under New Setup.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Government critics and supporters alike continue to derive considerable satisfaction from the results of the three day war debate which ended Thursday in parliament. Prime Minister Winston Churchill's 464 to 1 indorsement was hailed by his backers while those who have criticized the war cabinet looked forward with pleasure to the anticipated appointment of Minister of Supply Lord Beaverbrook as minister of production and the naming of Sir Stafford Cripps, retiring ambassador to Moscow, as his successor as minister of supply.

Political forecasters have not yet agreed upon the probable scope of the responsibilities of the two men under Churchill's plan to set up a minister of production with powers similar to those of Donald M. Nelson in the United States. While most suggest that Beaverbrook will spend much of his time in Washington, D. C., coördinating the British-American war effort, it is generally conceded that Cripps will not be overshadowed by the production chief.

See More Power for Cripps.

According to an Evening Star commentator, Cripps will "have more authority than Beaverbrook had" in the supply department. The relationship between the ministries of supply and labor have been thoroly investigated, the writer says, and when Cripps takes over "he will know exactly what powers he has over labor in the factories under his control." For the remainder of the war, the Star suggests, it would not be surprising if Ernest Bevin's ministry of labor and national service became simply the ministry of national service.

The Diarist, writing in Beaverbrook's own Evening Standard, recalled that Churchill once defined the qualifications for a minister of supply as being "so Napoleonic and at the same time so Christian as to be almost undiscoverable in any human creature, and added: "It remains to be seen if the search now has been carried to its successful conclusion in the person of the minister of supply."

Editorially the paper praises both the prime minister and the members of parliament for the conduct of the debate. As the outcome, it says, "the world learns that only one man is prepared to defy Churchill's administration."

The Evenings News, however, asserts that the vote of confidence "does not cancel out the criticisms and suggestions" in the debate and questions whether the proper use is being made of Britain's air power.

The Evening Star, pointing out that Australia "also is taking Churchill's speech as a tonic," praises the decision to set up a Pacific council in Washington to aid in coördinating war activities in that area. Citing "the growing understanding that has existed for some years between the Australians and Americans," the paper's commentator says "we should see results when they get together in the inevitable offensive."

Dominions Picking Cabinet Aids.

Meanwhile, the British and dominion governments prepared for dominion representation in the war cabinet which Churchill promised. Australia, according to the Evening Standard, plans to change its minister at regular intervals so that they will not lose "the Australian viewpoint." Minister of External Affairs H. V. Evatt is regarded as the most likely candidate for the first appointment.

Canada has shown little enthusiasm for the project and will send a representative only in special circumstances. New Zealand, which backed Australian demands for representation, has not yet indicated its choice. South Africa, it is suggested, may nominate High Commissioner S. F. Waterson, who supports the party of Premier Jan C. Smuts. Churchill also is being pressed to allow Indian representation in the imperial cabinet.

Fear is expressed in some quarters that the expanded war cabinet may develop into a big, unwieldy body which would retard action rather than speed it up.

WAVE OF BOMBINGS IN SOUTH AFRICA LAID TO NAZI SABOTEURS

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, Jan. 30 (AP).—German gestapo agents with headquarters at Lourenco Marquez, Portuguese East Africa, are behind the wave of sabotage in South Africa, H. G. Lawrence, minister of the interior, told the senate today.

Pylons carrying electricity to wide areas of the gold mining section of the Transvaal were blown up yesterday, putting a number of mines out of action. Telegraph and telephone lines were cut also.

Lawrence said that previous bomb outrages had occurred after the return from Germany of Robey Leibrandt, South African policeman. Leibrandt has been interned and 400 members of the South African police arrested.

DEFY PROPOSALS TO NEUTRALIZE SEIZED ISLANDS

ST. PIERRE, St. Pierre et Miquelon, Jan. 30 (AP).—Adm. Emile Muselier, whose forces occupied these disputed islands Christmas eve, was quoted tonight by the "Free French" news agency as saying that reports of a so-called "neutralization" of this territory under Canadian guarantee were "trial balloons."

"Neither Berlin, Vichy, nor any other power will 'neutralize' the true France," the admiral said. "The majority of the people here are not neutral and will never agree to become accomplices of those who blaspheme democracy.

"One speaks of this 'neutrality' at the exact moment when Vichy, thru that Quisling of Indo-China, Adm. Decoux, calls on New Caledonia [Pacific 'Free French' island] to revolt—undoubtedly to send its nickle exports to Japan and serve as a base for Japanese submarines.

"What is meant by neutrality? If St. Pierre and Miquelon were neutral in the real sense, that would permit German submarines to stop and refuel here in their Atlantic offensive.

"No, these islands are and will remain French. . . . I have confidence in the word of noble President Roosevelt and in that great man of war who is Churchill, and their solemn promise made to all free men by the Atlantic charter."

AEF GETS READY TO MOVE UP TO A COMBAT SECTOR

Yanks Drilled in British Methods and Weapons.

BY RICE YAHNER.

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN NORTHERN IRELAND, Jan. 30 (AP).—American forces soon will know British methods and weapons as well as their own and will blend efforts with troops in a combat sector, Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, commander of the American forces, said today after a tour of the United States bases in Ulster.

In the few days since landing, thousands of men have moved into areas from which British soldiers moved. The Americans have taken over the sole defense of their sectors, comparable, Gen. Hartle said, to "quiet sectors" the doughboys occupied in France in the last war.

Airplanes have lessened the distances in 24 years and the occupied sections of Northern Ireland are similar to St. Mihiel and Cantigny, where the first AEF got a real taste of combat conditions.

Planes Replace Artillery.

Bombers of this war take the place of the artillery that gave the Americans their baptism of fire 24 years ago. I toured Northern Ireland bases with Gen. Hartle today, finding American officers and enlisted men in makeshift classrooms and on guard duty, coöperating with the military defense and civilian authorities.

The British, an American officer with a British field gun among them, were using a barn on a picturesque Irish estate as a classroom so the Americans will know British artillery as well as their own.

American officers were enthusiastic over the British rifle.

One of the American soldiers, a master sergeant, spoke birthday greetings to President Roosevelt tonight. Broadcasting from the base, James M. Todd of Louisiana sent the forces' wishes for "health and strength and our congratulations to our leader and President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Ulster Guns Roar at Raiders.

While some of the United States soldiers were on a route march today anti-aircraft batteries opened fire when enemy planes appeared over northeastern Ireland. However, it was not known whether the Americans were in the affected area.

The American soldiers sang as they marched and were given a great welcome as they passed thru an Ulster town.

Because a British bomber dived in salute over the American base today, two brothers who had not seen each other for eight months were reunited. The plane was piloted by Richard Kraschel, 23 years old, of Harlan, Ia., a member of the royal air force. When he landed he was met by his brother, Capt. Frederick Kraschel, 28, who is with the recently arrived American force.

The small and secluded United States bases are scattered and are indistinguishable from English soldier huts elsewhere. The huts, of corrugated metal, are like halves of giant casks, lying with the cut side down. The British assign 24 soldiers to each, but only 16 Americans are quartered in these huts, which are heated by coal stoves.

Yanks Miss Their Showers.

Most of the boys miss modern shower baths and American coffee, altho the plumbing is expected to be improved by American engineers and food is expected to come from home.

Most of the soldiers thus far have kept to camp areas, beginning their training program, arranging their bunks, and greeting new buddies. Visiting in town is not general yet but if soldiers do meet Irish men and women they are greeted with a cheery, "Hi, Yanks!"

Whether from north or south of the Mason-Dixon line, they are all "Yanks" to the rosy-cheeked girls, to shopkeepers, and to soldiers, sailors, and workers here.

Mrs. Mary Davidson, 66 years old, colored, was suffocated yesterday in her home at 1819 Darrow avenue, Evanston, by smoke from a fire started by an overheated furnace.

CONVOY DRIFTS AS U. S. SOLDIER IS BURIED AT SEA

Eyewitness Describes Tribute to Detroiter.

BY LEO BRANHAM.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Jan. 29 [Delayed] (AP).—The entire convoy, including its strong force of escorting warships, in which I recently came to this North Atlantic garrison drifted en route for 12 minutes while a soldier was buried at sea.

It was a risky but impressive tribute to a private in the United States army, Francis E. Metras of Detroit, who died after an abdominal operation. He is believed to be the first American soldier in this war given a formal burial at sea.

Drafted After Serving "Hitch."

Metras got considerable notice about a year ago when he was drafted two months after completing a regular four year "hitch" in the army.

A signal from the flagship halted the convoy in its plodding gait toward Iceland. The sea was calm, in sharp contrast to preceding days.

When the funeral began on the afterdeck of our vessel, the only sound was from waves slapping the ships' sides.

Guard Fires Salute.

The chaplain read the 23d Psalm over the flag-draped body, gave a benediction, and then, as the pallbearers lifted the plank on which the body lay, an honor guard fired a three volley salute and a bugler sounded taps.

Metras, the son of a Detroit street railways motorman, served in the navy from 1931 thru 1934, and maintained at the time of his induction into the army that he would be of more value in the navy.

Metras was formerly with an engineers unit at Fort Custer, Mich.

Ship Attack Told

Dr. Edmund Flexman, who has been a missionary in Liberia, arrived in Chicago yesterday with his wife and child to make his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Flexman, 4924 North Hamilton avenue. Dr. Flexman and his family arrived in New York a week ago aboard the Grace liner Santa Paula, which earlier in the month was the target of a submarine attack off the coast of Africa. The torpedo was evaded by only 20 feet after the helmsman turned the ship sharply.

The Flexmans left Africa shortly before Christmas. Dr. Flexman, a representative of the Lutheran church, had been stationed in Harrisburg, 30 miles inland from the capital, Monrovia, for two years and four months. Their son, Edmund Jr., was born in Harrisburg, Aug. 13, 1939, a year after their arrival.

ARCTIC STORM RIPS AMERICAN BASE IN ICELAND

BY DREW MIDDLETON.

HEADQUARTERS, ICELAND BASE COMMAND, Jan. 16 [Delayed] (AP).—An Arctic storm which reached a velocity of 120 miles an hour lashed Iceland yesterday [Jan. 15] for 12 hours and did as much damage to property as a squadron of Stukas [German dive bombers].

No lives were lost in the American garrison, but scores of soldiers were cut and bruised. Army and marine commanders turned out every man to land and secure Nissen huts and tie down sentry boxes. Brief gusts plucked the roofs off warehouses, capsized huts occupied by American and British soldiers, and blew down a church.

Several merchant ships were blown onto islands in the harbor of Reykjavik.

BRITISH DESTROY FIVE 'GERMANY TO U. S.' BOMBERS

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—Five of the new German Dornier 217 bombers publicized as being able to carry bombs to the United States have been destroyed thus far this year in night raids on Britain, the air ministry said today.

At least one was known to have been brought down late last year, it was stated, and the record this year also includes a number known to have been badly damaged.

"If its designers had hoped the speed of the new bomber would enable it to outfly our night fighters," the air ministry news service said, "they have been disappointed for Beaufighters have done particularly well against it."

REVEALS UNIFIED COMMAND NOW AT WORK IN HAWAII

Admiral Tells of Blows Against Jap Subs.

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Jan. 29 [Delayed] (AP).—American forces in Hawaii have been operating under a unified command since late in December, Rear Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, said today, adding that "we have every expectation of holding these islands."

In his second press conference since he became commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, Nimitz said:

"So far as we know, operations of Japanese in this area in recent weeks have been limited to submarine activities.

Enemy Subs "Suppressed."

"For any successes they have obtained, they have suffered disproportionate losses. Our efforts in suppressing them have been satisfactory."

[The war department's communique yesterday reported that "more than half of those wounded in the Japanese attack [on Pearl Harbor] on Dec. 7 have fully recovered and have returned to duty. The total number wounded was 428. Of those, 230 are now back on duty."]

Nimitz explained that unity of command is nothing new for Hawaii. It was established shortly after Dec. 7, he said—long before the Roberts commission arrived to investigate the Pearl Harbor attack.

"Unity of command does not extend to control of administrative and internal matters of the other service," he explained. "Military governorship remains a task of the army."

Alcohol Ban May Be Relaxed.

In general, he said, work of the army and navy has not changed, but the unit command ensures more effective coördination.

Not only Oahu, but the entire Pacific area is under Nimitz' jurisdiction.

Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commander of the Hawaiian department, indicated a possible forthcoming relaxation in the military edict that keeps Honolulu and the remainder of the area bone dry as regards alcoholic liquors. There has been a growing demand for relaxation.

REPORT SHIP WITH 616 CHILDREN IS FROZEN IN BALTIC

BERLIN, Jan. 30 [From German Broadcasts] (AP).—The 1,386-ton Swedish steamer Heimdall, with 616 children aboard, is ice-bound in the northern Baltic off Abo, Finland, it was reported today from Stockholm. The ship's food supply was said to be running out and it was planned to send food and water by plane. The vessel was en route from Abo to Sweden.

AURORA-ELGIN TO GET 10 NEW DE LUXE CARS

ɜw York Line Scores Gain with Diesel Units.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Better suburban railway service between Chicago and the Fox River valley was promised yesterday. At the same time the story was told of a New York railroad which has more than doubled its business on suburban runs where new type streamlined equipment is being used.

[The Tribune on Thursday carried a story in which it was suggested that fast, lightweight Diesel powered trains should enable the Chicago railroads to hold traffic gained because the war has cut the use of automobiles.]

Receivers for the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad announced that a priority rating has been issued for 10 new de luxe electric cars to cost a total of $400,000. The application for the material priority stated that a large part of the road's patrons are engaged in war work and that addition of the cars would help conserve automobiles and tires.

Top Speed of 70 M. P. H.

Powered by four motors, the cars will have a top speed of 70 miles an hour. They will be more than 55 feet long, have a maximum weight of 75,000 pounds and will have a ventilating system that will draw 600 cubic feet of outside air per minute.

The St. Louis Car company has the order for the new cars and they will be built as rapidly as material can be assembled. It is expected that the new cars all will be delivered by the end of the year.

The New York suburban success was achieved by the New York, Susquehanna and Western railroad, which operates a suburban service from Times Square to various New Jersey suburbs and cities. Buses transport passengers from Times Square to Susquehanna Transfer, in New Jersey, where they are picked up by the streamliners.

Similar to Land o'Corn Cars.

The Susquehanna railroad placed two streamlined, Diesel powered, streamlined cars in operation on July 15, 1940. The cars were built by the American Car and Foundry company and are somewhat similar to the cars in the Land o'Corn, built by the same company for operation by the Illinois Central between Chicago and Waterloo, Ia.

A majority of the runs made by the streamlined units cover the 15.3 miles between Susquehanna Transfer and Paterson, N. J., altho a few are over the 31.9 miles to Butler and 17.4 miles to North Hawthorne. The 15.3 mile run is comparable to runs from Chicago terminals to Western Springs on the west, Kenilworth on the north and Sibley boulevard, Ivanhoe, on the south.

Including stops, the run from Susquehanna Transfer to Paterson averages 22 minutes. In Chicago the Western Springs run varies 27 to 36 minutes, Kenilworth 19 to 33 minutes, and Ivanhoe 32 minutes.

Abrupt Increase in Runs.

By the addition of the two streamlined units the Susquehanna was enabled to increase its suburban passenger service from 29 to 81 weekday and holiday trains, and from 7 to 37 Sunday trains. During the week each streamlined unit runs approximately 430 miles a day. One makes 12 round trips and the other 13 round trips, including the longer distance runs to Butler.

The service immediately won the favor of the road's patrons. When the cars went into service on July 15, 1940, the passenger volume was on a basis of about 11,000 a month. By August the number increased to 26,000. By October it was close to 44,000. Volume increased from a weekly low of 2,811 for the July, 1940, week to a high of 13,794 the week of Jan. 5, 1942. The daily high was 2,524 on Dec. 31, 1941, and the monthly high was 59,228 for December, 1940.

80 Passengers Per Car.

Each car carries 80 passengers and is powered by Diesel motors of the type in the Land o'Corn. The car interiors are much similar to the Land o'Corn cars, which are in thru service. It was suggested that Susquehanna type cars, which accelerate speedily, would be ideal for shuttle service in the off periods of the day when Chicago suburban traffic is much lighter than in the morning and evening rush periods. The cars have double end controls so that there is no turnabout delay at terminals. Power equipment is suspended from the floors so no space is wasted in the car. The operating cost is said to be no more than half that of steam operated trains.

NORMAN THOMAS FEARS WAR MAY BRING FASCISM

War will not necessarily bring socialism to America, but it may bring fascism, Norman Thomas told a Chicago audience last night. Thomas, national chairman of the Socialist party and several times candidate for President, spoke at a dinner in his honor given by the Socialist party of Chicago at 2448 South Oakley boulevard.

Thomas foresaw more collectivist control of American industry, business, resources, and life as the result of our present war efforts. He lashed at the Roosevelt policy in the far east, declaring: "We have been abusing the Japs with words while helping them by buying their gold" and storing it.

The worst possible peace, Thomas said, would be one dictated by Hitler and the Japs, but he expressed doubt that one dictated by Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin, and Chiang Kai-shek would be much better.

He said our war production had been mismanaged. "If Roosevelt knew war was coming," he said, "he should have seen to it that we were properly stocked with materials needed for war."

ARMY AIR CRASH VICTIM IS SON OF CHICAGO PIONEER

Alden Cody Bentley, one of three army air corps ferry command pilots killed near Baltimore, Md., Thursday, was the youngest son of the late Frederick W. Bentley, one of Chicago's pioneer residents, and the second son of the family to give his life in his nation's service, it was learned yesterday. Bentley's older brother, Paul, was the first Chicagoan killed in France in World War I.

The elderly Bentley was an attorney and lumberman during early Chicago days. Both he and his wife, who was active in women's clubs and served on the American battle monument commission, died in 1929.

Alden Bentley was 37 years old and lived at New Hope, Pa. His B-26 bomber crashed in trees less than five miles from the Glenn L. Martin plant airport from which it had taken off. His widow, Marion, and three sons survive.

REPORT HALIFAX SEEKS TO RETURN TO PRIVATE LIFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 31 [Saturday].—Lord Halifax, it was reported this morning, has requested permission to give up his post as ambassador to Washington, D. C., as soon as circumstances permit. It was said he wants to retire to his country home after nearly 30 years in public service. Some quarters expressed the belief that Prime Minister Churchill will agree to Halifax's request since the ambassadorial duties in Washington are likely to be curtailed by direct coöperation between the United States and Britain thru the new joint supply council. It was suggested that Alfred Duff Cooper, minister of state, may succeed Halifax, but the foreign office was said to be pressing for the appointment of a career diplomat.

Find Fewer Die in This War Than in Last One

New York, Jan. 30 [Special].—Military losses in this war have been much less than those in the corresponding period of the last war, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company reported today. From the beginning of the war to the end of 1941, deaths in the armed forces of all the belligerent nations probably reached at least 1,500,000 to 1,750,000 and may exceed 2,000,000, according to the statisticians, as compared with 5,008,000 men killed in the corresponding period between July, 1914, and the end of 1916.

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—The Daily Mail reported tonight in a dispatch from Madrid that Adolf Hitler had recalled all active divisions from France, Belgium, and Holland to build up a reserve army for the Nazi spring campaign. Their places in the occupied zones have been taken by garrison divisions of men over 40 and boys from 16 to 18, the newspaper said.

RATIONING TIRES CUTS GAS SALES AND CAR PARKING

Station Owners Insist on Night Closing Law.

Automobile tire rationing, which has been in force for four weeks, has reduced gasoline sales by 30 per cent in Chicago and has cut the business of loop parking lots by 40 per cent. This was disclosed yesterday by officials of the Central Parking council and the Gasoline Retailers' Association of Chicago.

N. R. Dispenza, director of the parking council, which has as members operators of 117 of the 160 loop area parking lots, said that the loop lots are receiving 16,000 to 17,000 cars daily, compared with a normal of 27,000. He said that the number of employés has been reduced in approximate proportion to the 40 per cent cut in business. There were 1,500 employés in parking cars before rationing began.

Carriers Uncertain of Gains.

While transportation companies could not segregate the percentage of business attributable to the tire rationing, all reported an increase. The surface lines noted a 7 per cent gain over the same period last year, elevated lines are carrying between 5 and 6 per cent more passengers, and bus lines 11½ per cent, and the Illinois Central suburban trains 6 to 8 per cent.

Several reported, however, that they had noted a normal increase before tire rationing, and all said other factors entered into the rising traffic. Representatives of the transportation companies were dubious about lack of tires having much to do with the condition.

"Automobile owners are saving their tires," said Dispenza. "There was a sharp drop the day the tire rationing program went into effect, and since that time there has been a steady day by day decline in business. We can only do the best we can and try to meet the situation by cutting overhead."

Bradley M. Provis, president of the Gasoline Retailers association, said that latest figures show that gasoline sales are off 30 per cent. He held that the only answer to the problem is an order from some source making mandatory closing of filling stations from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. There are approximately 3,500 persons employed in 2,000 stations in the metropolitan area.

Holds Ordinance Is Necessary.

Provis' organization and the gasoline jobbers requested Mayor Kelly to sponsor an ordinance calling for night closing of gasoline stations. The mayor said that the stations might close if they wished, but that he would not work toward such an order.

"Maywood, Bellwood, and Melrose Park stations will close from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. effective Feb. 1," Provis said. "The coöperative movement can be successful in smaller communities, but for successful closing in Chicago there must be an order from some authority.

"Altho 98 per cent of the dealers might get together on a coöperative closing movement, there would be some dealers who would stay open to steal the extra business. There must be a club behind the closing order."

He said that the organization planned to try to get introduced in the city council an ordinance enforcing the night closing. Besides the saving in overhead brought about by closing, Provis said, such a step will be necessary if the stations are to be manned. He held that some stations have been forced to give up business because of inability to get help.

Forty-five filling station owners operating in North Chicago and Waukegan voted last night at a meeting in the Karcher hotel, Waukegan, to restrict their business hours. The majority approved closing between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m. daily, except on Saturdays, when individual owners will decide how late to stay open.

FIRE RETARDS PLANS FOR GREATER OUTPUT OF AUTOMATIC RIFLES

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 30 (AP).—Fire today caused major damage to one of the new buildings at the Springfield arsenal, home of the vital Garand automobile rifle, but the blaze was brought under control before it could spread to other structures in the reservation.

Gen. Gilbert Stewart, commandant at the arsenal, told newsmen that the present production of Garand rifles will not be hampered, as the $193,000 building was incomplete and not yet in use. But expanding operations cannot be initiated in the structure for three months, rather than three weeks, as contemplated, he said. An army officer said it appeared that a blow torch might have started the fire.

Plane Carries New Zealand Envoy to U. S. to Honolulu

New York, Jan. 30 [Special].—The British radio today reported from New Zealand that the first flight of a British commercial aircraft across the South Pacific has been completed by the empire flying boat Zealander. "The flight was made from Auckland to Honolulu, about 5,000 miles, to carry Walter Nash, the first New Zealand minister, on his way to Washington, D. C., to take up his appointment," the radio said. "The return flight from Honolulu to Auckland took 50 hours."

Halt Wednesday Delivery of Beer to Wholesalers

Beer delivery to liquor stores, taverns, and other wholesale customers in the Chicago area will no longer be made on Wednesdays, it was announced yesterday by Joseph Hein, president of the Illinois Brewers association. He said the curtailment of service was in the interests of national defense, and that eventually it would be extended to downstate areas. He said the move would save trucks, gas, oil, and tires, and that some breweries probably would shut down entirely on Wednesdays.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

HITLER PROMISES VICTORIES IN '42, BUT NOT PEACE

Salutes Japs for Striking First in Pacific.

BERLIN, Jan. 30 [German Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press.]—Adolf Hitler acknowledged to his people today that he could not promise an end to the war this year but declared Japan's surprise attack upon the United States "has greatly relieved our situation."

Speaking for the first time since his declaration of war upon the United States, Hitler blamed the weather instead of the Russians for Nazi reverses on the eastern front and promised 1942 will again be a year of great victories.

"Enemy Will Be Beaten."

"Countries which have nothing now are united," he said. "We shall see who wins this war—those who have nothing to lose and everything to win or those who have everything to lose and nothing to gain.

"I do not know if the war will end this year, but one thing I do know: wherever the enemy will come up against us he will be beaten."

Hitler congratulated Japan for the "way she followed our example and struck first" and added that "now Britain and the United States will need convoys on all oceans and they will see what our U-boats may achieve."

He declared Germany's number of submarines have been enormously increased and would be a big factor in the world-wide conflict.

Claims Lines Are Stabilized.

Not the Red army but the freezing cold forced the German army to abandon the offensive on the eastern front, he asserted, claiming German lines now have been stabilized.

He dismissed the gains of the Russian counteroffensive as advances of a few kilometers at some places, made at a cost of great amounts of material and lives.

"In the east," he said, "we fought a struggle which one day will be the glory of our nation."

He declared that winter had been the great hope of Germany's enemies in the east, but that this hope never would be fulfilled.

"The winter will break in the south and the ice will melt," he said, "and the hour will come when the ground will be hard and firm again—and when our armies will storm ahead again."

Then, he said, would come the revenge of "those who have now become the victims of frost."

"Greatest Difficulties Behind."

Referring to the halt to the Nazi offensive and his assumption of supreme command of German arms, the Fuehrer said: "In the moment of these difficulties I thought it my duty to shoulder the responsibilities myself."

"But our greatest difficulties are behind us," he said. "Our soldiers know they hold superiority over the Russians."

A roar of cheers resounded when he declared that in North Africa Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel had "turned around at the moment our enemies thought he was beaten, and drove the British before him."

Hitler began his speech in the familiar pattern with attacks on Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt, and a review of what he described as Germany's peaceful intentions following the World war.

"A Second World War."

He said the present conflict was properly called a second World war.

"That means," he said, "that this war is identified with the other war in which I, myself, took part as a private. This is true not only because the war engulfs the whole globe, but also because it is being fought for the same purposes.

"The forces which caused the first World war are responsible for the present war also. Those forces are trying to attain the same goals which they sought to achieve in the last war. . . . I am proud to say that the only countries which are an exception to this rule are today our allies—Italy, Japan, and the others."

Links Roosevelt to Wilson.

In the first World war, Hitler said, the Germans fought gloriously and the British were almost on the point of breaking down when in the 11th hour traitors in Germany broke the German might.

"This," he declared, "was exclusively our own fault.

"At that time a man faced up who caused the greatest harm to the German people—Woodrow Wilson. . . . The right hand of this man was the present President Roosevelt.

"The German people did not know that this American President [Wilson] in no way felt himself bound to keep to the truth. . . ."

Ninth Anniversary as Chancellor.

For an hour and 53 minutes Hitler spoke to the German nation observing the ninth anniversary of his elevation as reichschancellor. His immediate audience was made up of party members, soldiers—some of them wounded—and representatives of other axis powers in Berlin.

He was introduced by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels who praised him for "looking so fresh and healthy."

JAP BOMBS LEVEL PLACE FEW DUTCH KNEW EXISTED

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 31, [Saturday] (AP).—Not many persons even in the Netherlands East Indies knew where Sanana was until the Japanese air force destroyed it the other day.

It was a village on the Island of Sanana about halfway between New Guinea and the Celebes—just a scattering of native huts, a tiny emergency fortress—nothing whatsoever of a military nature.

The Japanese leveled it with incendiary bombs and machine gunned the inhabitants. Why—or how they even found the place—is not clear.

IS HITLER POWER INSECURE? OWN PAPER SHOUTS NO

BERLIN, Jan. 31 [Saturday] [German Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press] (AP).—"To be hard is the preliminary condition to victory"—that is the main theme of headlines in the German press today over reports of Adolf Hitler's speech of Friday evening.

The Voelkischer Beobachter, Hitler's own paper and chief organ of the National Socialist [Nazi] party, stressed its declaration that no man in the world could claim with as much justification as could Hitler that nothing was able to throw him out of the saddle.

It referred to Hitler's acknowledgment in yesterday's speech of the enormous burden the winter battles in Russia mean to the German army, but it said the German soldiers were holding out and giving back every blow with fanatic stubbornness.

TWO ASK REPEAL OF PENSION ACT FOR CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Two bills to repeal a provision of a recent law which would permit members of the senate and house to receive retirement pensions have been introduced—but there was no prospect today that they would be acted upon soon. The section was a rider to a measure increasing retirement benefits for civilian employés of the government.

Rep. Victor Wickersham [D., Okla.], sponsor of one of the repealers, told the house that very few members knew that the congressional provision was "hidden in the bill."

"This [provision] will cause you and me a lot of trouble," he said. "I think it is a very inappropriate time for such a bill."

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.], who also introduced a repealer, said "many were caught napping" when the bill was passed in the house.

ASSERTS PACIFIC COUNCIL WILL SIT IN WASHINGTON

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 30 (AP).—The headquarters of the Pacific council will be Washington, D. C., an authoritative source said today.

[British Prime Minister Churchill on Tuesday said it was proposed that a Pacific council be set up in Washington or London, comprising Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, and the Netherlands East Indies, to transmit the united view of the British and the Dutch to the combined chiefs of staff committee sitting in Washington. He said both Australia and New Zealand preferred that this council should be in Washington.]

Malta Bombed Six Times in Day Without Casualties

VALLETTA, Malta, Jan. 30 (AP).—Six air raid alarms sounded on this battered island fortress today as axis raiders flew over and unloaded bombs which caused some civilian damage but no casualties.

Case Continued

Henry Kaminski, 31 years old, of 6422 Kihbark avenue, was arraigned in the Felony court yesterday on a charge of operating a confidence game. The case was continued until Tuesday and bonds were fixed at $2,500. The complainant is Mrs. Stephanie Janusz of 4819 Cornelia avenue who said she had been swindled of $500 thru promises of marriage and big profits in an oil scheme.

LONDON PAPERS SEE 'COMFORT' IN HITLER'S SPEECH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 31 [Saturday].—This morning's newspapers generally gave Adolf Hitler's speech prominent space.

Editorial comment characterized the speech as a rehash and suggested that the allies can take comfort, as the Daily Telegraph said, "at the contrast in tone and content with a year ago."

The Daily Express said that "altho he sobbed, shrieked, and choked as usual, it was a less boastful Hitler this year."

BRITISH RALLYING AFRICAN FORCES TO HALT ROMMEL

Deny Loss of Bengazi Has Broken Resistance.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Jan. 31 [Saturday]—(AP).—Exchange Telegraph News agency reported today from Zurich, Switzerland, that Rome dispatches indicated sharp restrictions would be imposed on passenger train service in Italy tomorrow.

[Such restrictions frequently are indicative of large scale troop movements.]

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 30.—Powerful enemy forces, with a number of tanks, compelled the British to abandon Bengazi, is was announced today, but have not broken British resistance in Libya.

The crack 4th Indian division, which has been in the forefront of the battle thruout this campaign, is bearing the brunt of the enemy attack. Fragmentary reports indicate that part of the 7th Indian infantry brigade, which was protecting the road into Bengazi from the south, may have been cut off there.

Bengazi is impossible to defend once the attackers get near. The only practical road out of the city is the coast road, which is hemmed in between the sea and the escarpment—which along there is really like a ridge of mountains. The coastal plain is never more than a couple of miles wide and narrows as you go northward.

Axis Forces Holding Road.

That the road already was held somewhere north of Bengazi by the enemy was admitted today and the 4th Indian division, which was protecting Bengazi, was withdrawn to the northeast. The 7th brigade is part of that division and, altho called Indian, contains one-third British troops, as do all Indian infantry brigades.

The enemy force, which started as three columns and then merged into one strong striking force, broke up into smaller groups as the fight progressed. It now seems to be concentrated into two very powerful groups, one attacking up the road from a point south of Bengazi and the other cutting across the desert from Msus and coming in at Bengazi and the coast road from the east.

It now is evident that the enemy has had important reënforcements and has imposing local superiority. By "local" it is meant that, altho he hasn't superior force in North Africa, he has more troops at the spot where the battle is going on. In other words, Nazi Gen. Erwin Rommel "got there fustest with the mostest men" this time.

It's a Question of Time.

The issue has boiled down to a question of how much the enemy can do in the time it takes the British to concentrate their forces. The worst weather conditions in history have hampered the movement of vehicles and favored the enemy, who had his forces in compact raiding columns to start with.

Gen. Rommel, the axis commander, is regarded as a "slippery customer," quick to take advantage of any opening that comes along. The British are honest enough to give an opponent credit when they think he is good and they hope they can show he still is not good enough.

Rommel is having his troubles, too, but has the advantage of getting additional fuel and supplies captured along the way, altho it is not likely that much was left behind.

taken for granted here as soon as it became known yesterday that the enemy forces were so close.

British Air Force Active.

The British air force is continuing full time service. It reported today that it had destroyed or damaged several hundred enemy motor transport vehicles in the last few days, nearly 150 in a single day.

American aircraft with cannon are widely used and the new Curtiss Kittihawks are reported to be very effective in shooting up transport.

The air raids go on in relays from daylight to dark. One pilot said that the Hurricane planes alone accounted for 50 vehicles and damaged about 200 others. The flyers keep persistently on the job until all vehicles are on fire or damaged, unless they have to leave for more ammunition.

Sandstorms have made work in the desert areas difficult recently, but effective patrols have been maintained.

Italians Claim Much Booty.

ROME [From Italian Broadcasts], Jan. 30 (AP).—The Italian high command said today that numerous prisoners were taken and considerable booty and war materials captured in the seizure of Bengazi.

During an axis attack in the Jebel [Gebel el Achdar] area an entire Indian battalion surrendered to German and Italian forces, a communique asserted. "Axis forces maintained their pressure on the enemy, who is being pursued continuously by our air force," it added.

[German bombers attacked the British-held port of Tobruk Wednesday night, authoritative quarters said in Berlin, and, despite the "strong defense," scored hits on piers and ships.]

2,000,000 ALIENS IN NAZI INDUSTRY, NORWEGIANS SAY

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—Adolf Hitler has put more than 2 million alien men and women into German war industries in a supreme effort to overcome his enormous losses in Russia, Norwegian circles said tonight.

Their figures tallied with an official German broadcast from Berlin announcing that 2,140,000 aliens and 1,500,000 prisoners of war were working under German orders. Berlin said two-thirds of these 3,640,000 men and women were engaged in commercial, industrial, and transportation jobs.

FCC CUTS DOWN ON BUILDING OF RADIO STATIONS

Curtail Permits Pending Policy Study.

Washington, Jan. 30 (AP).—The Federal Communications commission today curtailed the issuance of construction permits for new standard broadcast stations in order to save materials needed for the war effort.

Await Policy Decisions.

At the request of the defense communications board, the commission adopted a policy of not issuing permits for new standard stations or for changes in existing transmitting equipment where all or a substantial part of the area to be served already receives primary service from one or more existing stations.

This policy will remain in effect, the commission said, until the defense communications board and the war production board have adopted a specific policy in the matter.

Scores of applications for new standard broadcast stations and for changes in transmitting facilities now are pending before the commission.

Plan Study of Service.

The commission said the defense communications board would make a study of other forms of radio, including frequency modulation, to determine whether there should be a curtailment of construction in those fields.

"Primary service," which will be the test for the issuance of future standard broadcast construction permits, is service free from ordinary interference. Practically all sizeable cities receive primary service from one or more stations.

HOW COMPLAINTS OF RENT RAISES WILL BE HANDLED

Tenants who believe their landlords have increased their rents unfairly should communicate with the rent and price committee of the Chicago Defense committee, Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of the committee said yesterday.

A complaint should give the name and address of the landlord or agent, the address of the complainant, the present rental and the amount asked after next May 1. Lindell said his committee will then ask the landlord to explain the need for the increase and if the committee feels the increase unjustified will seek to have it voided.

Under the rent committee ordinance passed Thursday by the city council the committee has been authorized, in the event the landlord refuses to comply with the committee request, to ask the federal price administrator to handle the case. The federal administrator is empowered by congress to order the rent decreased and to fine the landlord if he fails to comply, Lindell said.

YOUTH KILLED SELF, JURY FINDS.

A coroner's jury yesterday found that Robert Sorenson, 20 years old, 8342 Drexel avenue, committed suicide last Jan. 9 in a photographic studio at 127 North Dearborn street while despondent over a love affair.

6 COLLEGES PLAN RADIO COURSES AS WAR EFFORT

Seek Technicians for Armed Services.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Chicago and downstate universities and technological institutions in association with broadcasters and the United States Office of Education will embark in February on an extensive training plan to provide radio technicians for the armed forces, other government agencies and wartime industry.

Details of the training plan were disclosed yesterday by Dr. H. T. Heald, president of the Illinois Institute of Technology. Dr. Heald is coördinator for radio training in Illinois and regional adviser for district No. 15 of the engineering, science, management, and defense training division of the United States Office of Education.

The radio training courses, which will be tuition free to graduates of high schools, will be instituted Feb. 23 at Illinois Tech, the University of Chicago, Northwestern University Technological institute, De Paul university, the University of Illinois, and Bradley Polytechnical institute at Peoria. The courses will be completed in 16 weeks and will be given evenings with two lecture sessions and one laboratory period each week.

Courses Open to Women.

Metropolitan area students may select any one of the first four institutions and downstate applicants will be accommodated by the other two. The courses are open to men and women. Men completing courses who enter the armed services will be eligible for specialists' ratings and higher pay, it was announced.

Local and downstate broadcasting stations, in coöperation with the National Association of Broadcasters, are helping the radio training committee to obtain qualified personnel to do the teaching. Instructors will be paid by the technological institutions who in turn will be reimbursed by the department of education.

W-G-N Engineer Chairman.

Carl J. Meyers, chief engineer of W-G-N, has been appointed chairman of the instructor personnel committee. W. E. Hutchinson, state industrial coördinator and general manager of WAAF, is serving as spokesman for broadcasters in the program.

It is expected that from 1,000 to 1,200 technicians will be trained in the first group, Dr. Heald announced. There will be subsequent training groups, also. Two courses are available, one for beginners and one for persons who have already had some radio experience.

Applications for entrance or requests for further information should be addressed to Radio Training Committee, Illinois Institute of Technology, 43 West 43d street, Chicago.

Chicago Relief Staff Holds Farewell Dinner for Lyons

Six hundred staff workers of the Chicago Relief administration last night attended a farewell dinner in the Congress hotel for Leo M. Lyons, who has resigned as administrator. Lyons, who has headed the relief office since 1936, will become executive director of St. Luke's hospital next week.

FOUND DEAD IN YARD.

Terry J. Short, 60 years old, was found dead in a rear yard of 14 North Aberdeen street yesterday. He apparently had died of a heart attack.

3 Steal Auto, Take Owner with Them on 2 Holdups

George Schulte, 6405 South Artesian avenue, a railroad fireman, early yesterday was robbed of his automobile by three men who then forced him to accompany them while they robbed two taverns. Because they had only one gun between them the bandits made Schulte come in and sit with them at the bar before robbing each tavern. The places held up were at 3267 South Halsted street, where the robbers took $65, and 3147 South Throop street, $500. Schulte was kicked out of his car at 60th street and Harlem avenue.

NAZIS ENCIRCLED IN 'SCORES OF SECTORS': REDS

Stalin Plan's Aim: Drive Foe Out This Year!

MOSCOW, Jan. 30 (AP).—In possession of the railway gate to both the Ukraine granary and the Donetz coal basin, the Red army was reported officially tonight to have outflanked, outknifed, and encircled German troops in scores of sectors under a Josef Stalin master plan intended to rid Russian soil of every German in 1942.

Huge German forces were reported in danger of entrapment in the center, north, and south of the active front. Pronglike Soviet drives aimed at many objectives were said to be catching the Nazis between the forks and leaving them the choice of destruction, capture, or speedy retreats which cost them much valuable equipment.

In trying to pursue the latter course, the Germans were encountering swift charges behind their lines by skilled Siberian ski troops, Moscow asserted.

Moth Planes Prove Effective.

The new Red army offensives are based on a considerable element of surprise aided by deft scouting in mothlike ski equipped soviet planes which operate in the worst kind of weather. They nose out the enemy's weak spot, locating breaks and movements and quickly reporting back. Ski troops then go into action. They are so mobile that the Russians are able to fling them across whole sectors at the shortest warning.

Tonight's communique said numerous additional populated places fell into Russian hands during the day, and a supplement listed 2,500 Germans killed in yesterday's liberation of Sukhinichi, big railway junction in the Kirov zone 150 miles southwest of Moscow. "Pursuit of fleeing remnants of the beaten enemy there continues," the official announcement added.

Moscow rejoiced as loudspeakers told how Marshal Timoshenko's thrust into the Ukraine carried him within 70 miles of the lower Dnieper's big bend and menaced German lines all the way south to the sea of Azov and how a surprise attack by Maj. Gen. Grechko took Barenkova in that advance.

Lozovaya Capture Told.

Moscow papers held their presses to tell the Reds' story of the taking of Lozovaya, the Ukraine-Donetz railway gate, which was first announced yesterday. It follows:

The Germans had made Lozovaya a front supply station and established a warehouse there for the 17th German army. Only a few days ago the city was in the deep rear. The Germans did not bother much about the fortifications, which the troops of Maj. Gen. Gorodninsky assaulted last Tuesday. There was a big fight around the railway station. The Germans hoped for reënforcements from a Rumanian division, but had to retreat westward. The Rumanians arrived too late and were put to rout. Thirty more populated points were added to the 400 recaptured up to and including the fall of Lozovaya.

Three whole German divisions, 257th, 68th, and 298th, and three regiments—perhaps 50,000 men—were pushed into the rout. Two other Nazi divisions, the 44th and 295th, and units of three more were dealt considerable casualties in the fighting leading up to the capture of Lozovaya. Battle trophies were reported enormous—among them 6,013 automobiles, 40 tanks and armored cars, and 658 field guns.

Berlin Silent on Fighting.

BERLIN [From German Broadcasts], Jan. 30 (AP).—The Russian war was dismissed by the German high command today with the brief statement, "On the eastern front there was continuous fighting."

PERU WINS 7,700 SQUARE MILES IN RIO BORDER PACT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 30 (AP).—Peru will acquire about 7,700 square miles under the terms of settlement of its long boundary dispute with Ecuador, Peruvian sources declared today.

Foreign Minister Dr. Alfredo Solf y Muro of Peru said the "solution satisfies both peoples and assures peace and cordial relations so necessary to brother countries."

On the other hand Foreign Minister Julio Tobar Donose of Ecuador, who fought the settlement but finally agreed to the terms early yesterday morning, said his country had made a "great sacrifice."

ECUADOR BREAKS RELATIONS WITH 3 AXIS POWERS

QUITO, Ecuador, Jan. 30.—Ecuador broke diplomatic relations with Germany, Italy, and Japan last night, it was announced today. It is understood that the German minister, Dr. Eugen Klee; the Italian minister, Scaduto di Mendola, and the Japanese chargé d'affaires, Kokutaro Nomura, will leave the country shortly and probably will join the other axis diplomats being detained in the United States. It is expected that activities of axis nationals will be further curbed and that some will be interned.

Britain, Russia, Iran Hitch Pact to Atlantic Charter

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—A British-Russian-Iranian pact of alliance, based on the principles of the Atlantic charter, was signed at Teheran yesterday, five months after cessation of hostilities there. Simultaneous announcements here and in Moscow said the agreement provided that Iran's army would not be required to fight against any foreign power and gave Britain and Russia the right to maintain armed forces in Iranian territory.

Sues for Divorce

ANNE SHIRLEY.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 30 (AP).—Anne Shirley of the films filed suit today to divorce actor John Payne, charging cruelty. They were married in August, 1937, and have a 19 month old daughter, for whom Miss Shirley suggested joint custody.

SPEECH FREEDOM TERMED ISSUE IN RADIO LICENSING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Arthur Garfield Hays, counsel of the American Civil Liberties union, told the Federal Communications commission today that discrimination against newspapers in the licensing of radio stations would "be a first step away from sound democratic principles."

Testifying in connection with the commission's investigation of newspaper-radio relationships, Hays, a New York attorney, contended a newspaper had the same right to operate a radio station as a preacher, a church, a department store, a movie theater, a school, or any one else.

"I think a question of free speech is involved here, and a very fundamental one," he said. "It is hard to see how democracy can survive if there is discrimination among people because of their economic interest."

CANADA FORCED TO RATION AFTER 2 YEARS OF WAR

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 30 (AP).—Rationing came to Canada officially this week after 28 months of war but to the average consumer it was not a knockout blow.

Canadians since the war began have felt increasingly the pinch of restricted supply in many lines besides sugar, which now by law must not be used at a rate exceeding three-quarters of a pound a person each week.

Canada already has established price controls, forbidden the general sale of automobile tires, and arranged to ration gasoline.

Dominion officials said the government is prepared to go further as the need arises.

Controled by 2 Boards.

Authority for price control and rationing is combined in two government boards—the wartime prices and trade board under Donald Gordon, deputy governor of the Bank of Canada, and the wartime industries control board under R. C. Berkinshaw, who came to the government service from the automotive industry.

They can ration commodities, whether in the raw or finished state, set prices from the primary producer to the retailer, license all business men, and regulate production. All these things are being done.

Price controls were imposed by the prices board on Dec. 1, the maximum permissible retail charge being based on rates between Sept. 15 and Oct. 11, 1941.

Sugar Rationing Informal.

The sugar rationing scheme is informal. No coupon books, no permits are required. As Gordon put it: "There will be nobody to say to the Canadian consumer, 'You can't.' The onus is entirely on the purchaser. People want to be told what to do in this war. We are telling them."

There is nothing to stop the consumer from buying more than his quota of sugar except his conscience —and the ever present threat of a maximum penalty of $5,000 and two years' imprisonment for infraction of any order of the prices board.

If the voluntary system doesn't work, Canadians will have to use sugar ration coupons but decision on the need for them will not be reached for at least a couple of months.

Further Control Possible.

In announcing the sugar rationing last Sunday, government spokesmen said similar treatment for other products was not immediately in sight but that further control might become necessary.

The sale of tires generally is banned except for five off sizes which are comparatively rare and will fit only cars of models prior to 1936, and bicycle tires.

Gasoline sales have been restricted to some extent by reducing the hours in which purchases may be made.

On April 1, regular rationing of gasoline is planned, with each motorist required to buy a license and coupon book for $1.

The average annual ration is to vary from 300 to 380 gallons for nonessential cars, with unlimited amounts for all types of commercial vehicles, it was announced by the oil controler, G. R. Cottrelle.

What Next on List?

As for what comes next in rationing, it is acknowledged that the price ceilings already in effect will not insure fair distribution, and the control board says this can be done only by some form of rationing.

Control of production has been effected in many industries. One recent example was the announcement that effective March 31 production of passenger automobiles will be virtually stopped.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Stephen Decatur.

CONFIDENCE IN CHURCHILL.

The house of commons has voted confidence in Prime Minister Churchill with only one dissenting vote. The motion was whether there was confidence in his majesty's government, which meant Churchill and all the other ministers collectively. Commons could think of no other possible leader. In order to keep Churchill, it had to keep all his colleagues in office. There was no alternative.

Many members undoubtedly felt that the vote thrust on them on these terms was a parliamentary device unworthy of the prime minister. The question was not lack of confidence in him. The same could not be said for many of the men with whom he has surrounded himself. Certain of them have displayed no great capacity for meeting the tasks entrusted to them.

Commons, in evaluating the prime minister's war leadership, must have noticed that, tho he has often committed strategic blunders, he has miraculously come this far with an increase and not a decrease of assets in the imperial ledger. He was first lord of the admiralty at the time of the debacle in Norway. He inherited Dunkirk from his predecessor, but the third battle of Libya, Greece, Crete, and Malaya are his to explain. And yet he has come out of it all with an increase in territory for the empire.

Against the loss of most of Malaya he has to his credit Iraq, Iran, Eritrea, Italian Somaliland, and Cyrenaica, while Syria is held in joint occupation with the Free French. There are said to be more than 3 million well armed men sitting in the British Isles. Mr. Churchill has not yet exposed them to danger. His policy has been to hold on to all that Britain has and to seek out soft spots in enemy territory. Except in Malaya and Hongkong, the troops of Britain and the dominions have not been fighting on empire territory.

In casting up the credits and debits, one can see why commons felt Churchill was the only man the empire could follow. He has conserved, with the exception of Hongkong, what belonged to Britain, has added to it, and by circumstance or shrewd policy has attracted powerful allies. He has let the Russians take the shock of the Nazis and has allotted the United States the defense of the western Pacific.

The vote of confidence cast for Churchill automatically indorses his colleagues, altho that was hardly the desire of many and perhaps most of the members voting. Many citizens of this country will understand the feeling of frustration among Britons. There has been widespread feeling here, too, that members of our cabinet and others high in the government are not up to their jobs and should go. The President, however, for reasons of blind loyalty or of politics, insists on keeping them on, as Churchill does his friends. The President, unlike the prime minister, cannot sustain his position with a record of successes to counterbalance Pearl Harbor, Guam, Wake, and the Philippines.

Neither Churchill's nor the President's refusal to heed the public demand for a house cleaning has served to advance the prosecution of the war or the preservation of national safety. Incompetents at the top, too long tolerated, invite more Pearl Harbors and Malayas from subordinates charged with carrying out policy on the scene.

TO KEEP THE RECORD STRAIGHT.

We received a letter the other day from a reader who said the isolationists were responsible for what happened at Pearl Harbor. The isolationists had said that the United States could not be invaded successfully. This doctrine, so our correspondent thinks, infected the Pearl Harbor command with the notion that Hawaii could not be attacked.

The isolationists held that no enemy could land an invading force on our shores or conquer the country if we looked to our own defenses. The isolationists never said that the nation, and particularly an outpost more than 2,400 miles from our shores, could not be attacked. They were disposed quite as much as the war shouters to consider the possibility of attack, but they maintained that if our weapons and armed forces were kept at home, the attack would surely be beaten off.

Considerations of defense, however, did not govern the disposition of American forces. The fleet was at Pearl Harbor not for defense but to use the base as a jumping off place for attack when it was itself attacked.

The isolationists were not heeded. The attempt to put the blame for Pearl Harbor on them is an attempt to cover up for the men whose dereliction caused that disaster. Tho a substantial part of our navy is out of action, and tho, as Mr. Churchill has said, the mastery of the Pacific has passed for the time being to Japan, no attempt has yet been made to invade Hawaii, not to mention California.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC.

A plan has finally been evolved in the hope of ending wholesale escapes of inmates from the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles. An independent guard, recruited not from the St. Charles personnel, but thru the state department of public safety, is to patrol the institution's fence. The fence and grounds are to be illuminated better and the custodial force inside the barrier is to be strengthened.

The public is encouraged that something is at last being done to prevent the countryside from being overrun by young toughs, even tho the remedial measures suggest that Gov. Green is using one state department to make good the failings of another. The supervision of St. Charles is vested in the state welfare department, and it should be the responsibility of that department, thru the agents it has placed in charge of the school, to stop the escapes. The state safety director, however, has been compelled to assume the job.

A criminologist who observed that the hesitancy of school authorities to enforce discipline apparently could be attributed to their belief that disciplinarian methods "might give the inmates a psychosis" has singled out the principal source of trouble at the school. The authorities are trying to deal with most of the 670 boys and young men according to psychiatric-sociological theories of rehabilitation. This program might work, except for the fact that there are a number of incorrigibles among the boys who offset any improvement that might be effected among the remainder.

If the welfare department quit making excuses and opened up the new unit for incorrigibles 50 miles away at Sheridan, the minority of hoodlums could be locked up there and their influence removed from the rest. Prof. Dobbs' theories then might be given a chance without promoting escapes from St. Charles.

WHY CHICAGO TAXES GO UP.

Chicago's 1941 tax rate, which is the most accurate index of what the individual real estate owner has to pay for his local government, is estimated by Laurence Burd of the Tribune staff at $9.87. This is the highest rate in the history of the city. The rate is higher this year both because the local governments have increased their expenditures and because there is less taxable value over which to spread them.

The school board and the sanitary district are responsible for the increases in tax levies, which are about one-half of 1 per cent greater in toto than they were for 1941. The decrease of 2.2 per cent in assessments is due solely to the cut in the valuations of personal property—the class on which tax collections have been the worst. The resulting 35 cent increase in the tax rate means to every home owner and business man in the city that for every $1,000 valuation placed on his property by the assessor he must pay an extra $3.50 in taxes this year over what he paid last year.

The local governments of Chicago have been wholly deaf to pleas that they practice the utmost economy and cut their services to bare essentials, to enable the people of this city to bear with as little hardship as possible the tremendous federal taxes which they must pay to finance the war. Greed for political jobs has been a more potent influence than either patriotism or regard for the people who place these local politicians in office.

The sins of the local governments, however, do not stop with their extravagance. The Chicago tax rate is at least 20 per cent higher than it needs to be to furnish the same amount of money for local governmental operation. It is higher because of willful and long continued failure to collect delinquent taxes. Chicago's record on tax delinquency is the most shameful in the United States.

The failure to collect taxes increases governmental costs in two fashions: First, it puts on the taxpayer who meets his bill the burden evaded by the taxpayer who does not. Second, the revenue losses of the local governments destroy their credit ratings and cause them to pay premiums as high as 25 per cent for supplies over what they would pay if they could buy for cash.

This year the owner of a bungalow valued [not by the assessor but in the real estate market] at $6,000 will pay about $175 in taxes. Of this only $140 is his fair share of running Chicago local governments. The extra $35 is what he has to pay because public officials have refused to go after delinquent taxpayers and, in consequence, have injured the credit of the governments.

Tax collection is primarily the function of the county treasurer and the state's attorney. Additional duties fall on the sheriff, county clerk, county commissioners, and the bailiff of the Municipal court. These gentlemen are the primary but not the greatest offenders against the taxpayers. All of them, except a minority on the county board, are Democrats. They were placed in office by the Democratic political machine in Chicago. Their only hope of reelection is the continued support of that machine, which controls their actions as it controls all of the local governments of the city. It is the Democratic machine, even more than its individual office holders, that is to blame for the failure to collect taxes and the grievously unfair burden which that failure has placed on every taxpayer in Chicago who meets his bills on time. The leaders of the machine have been stupidly neglectful of the responsibility, which their political power places on them, to see that their creatures in office do their duty.

The Democratic machine has controled every local government in the county for 10 years. It has had ample opportunity to deal with the most pressing problem of our local government—that of tax delinquency—and has failed during that whole period to take effective measures to remedy it. That, rather than the efficiency or inefficiency of individual office holders, is the leading issue in the local political campaign that is approaching.

ANSWERS AWAITED.

It is gratifying that $60,000 has been appropriated for the continuation of the Truman committee's investigation of waste and inefficiency in the arms program. The committee's first report to the senate disclosed extravagance, ineptitude, and selfishness. It charged, for example, that aircraft production had not been well planned and that models of pursuit planes were inferior to those of other nations. The navy was accused of wasting money.

There has been no answer as yet from any of the responsible departments, agencies, and administrators to these charges. Either they are true or they are false. Those responsible for the bungling found by the committee should be compelled to present their defense, if they have one. Public confidence will be badly impaired if they are permitted to keep their jobs and remain silent.

WHY $28,000,000 FOR INFORMATION SERVICE?

[Baltimore Sun.]

Will some one in Mr. Roosevelt's administration be good enough to explain why it is necessary to spend $28,000,000 in public information services?

In the debate in the house on the appropriation bill for independent offices, it was brought out that something more than $27,000,000 is being spent a year for information services—press agents and such in the government's innumerable bureaus—and that in addition the OEM spends $685,000. Rep. Wigglesworth stated in the debate that the budget bureau had informed him that the government now employs 2,995 persons full time in these information services, and 31,618 people part time. The cost for salaries is $19,400,000, and the cost for other expenses is $8,300,000. Mr. Wigglesworth said these information agencies were almost exclusively a growth of the last nine years, that is, of the Roosevelt administration.

What possible excuse can the Roosevelt administration offer for such outlays, and for their continuance in a period when the people are being taxed with unprecedented severity and are being loaded down with an unprecedented debt? No sufficient excuse has been offered. Will some one in the administration attempt to offer one? We doubt it, for we do not believe there is any excuse. Money is wasted in an indefensible manner.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

MR. PEPYS TAKES UP ART.

31st Jan.—To keep up with the art movements of the town, went to see the exhibition of paintings by Rousseau and found him a modern artist I could understand, for he was rather simple-minded. Indeed, I would like to have one of his big jungle scenes to hang in my home, for I have exactly the right size of wall for it, and I think it a pity I did not discover him when he was selling these things for $25 and no takers, since that sum is about all I have ever invested in an art work.

Learned that to be in the fashion you must call this fellow Le Douanier, which is a French way of saying "custom-house man," for he once had a job taking small change from citizens of Paris passing thru the gates of the city. Also you must call him Le Douanier to sort him out from the various other Rousseaus who have practiced art in France, and because the gang in the Montmartre district called him that years ago. This nickname reminds me of a message I once saw pinned up in an old church in Quebec, written by a French-Canadian, who thus offered a prayer to be made the "douanier" of some little town on the border.

After becoming an expert on Le Douanier, went down into the basement of the institute to continue my studies of Chinese art, into which I am going deep. Have made so much progress I can now identify Kwan-lin, the so-called Goddess of Mercy, whenever I see her image, because she always has bare feet.

Then back to my office full of art and started an art project of my own, which is scraping the paint, of a dismal color I call "gunboat green," off the writing surface of my desk, and thus restoring the fine wood to its natural color. Did this at odd moments all week, and dozens of people came up to say, "What are you doing there?" and to go away whispering among themselves, "Mr. Pepys has become an eccentric, like his predecessors."

PEARL HARBOR.

Pacific ocean was the pleasant name
Balboa gave the breadth of water blue
He saw from Darien's treetop. Now its fame
Is far from this. Not yet more hellish brew
Of war has been prepared than that which spilled
From roaring planes, defiling Sabbath skies
O'er Oahu, gem of Hawaii. In waters filled
With ships at peace, brave men were killed like flies.

But valor does not die when brave men fail—
Sure as we've seen the sun rise in the east
From whence our fathers came, where sunsets pale
We pledge to avenge our sons. Nor yet the least
Of our resolve to save thruout the earth
The way of life which in our land had birth.

Cecil B. Williams.

Solving All Problems of Life.

It would be much better to be born old and to grow progressively younger.

If a man were born old, he would be acquiring things all of his life, such as teeth. He would get one molar, but he would not mind having only one tooth because he would know that soon he would have another and he could always hope they would meet up and be friends. A man would not fret about bridges and such, nor would he sigh over them because of the expense of their acquisition.

Then, when he had acquired all his second teeth, he would gradually find them being pushed out by his first teeth, which would serve him well until he was a mere infant, and then he would lose his teeth entirely, which would be completely all right because he would have no use for them anyway.

A born-old man would progress to maturity, then simply decrease in size until he reached his infancy and continue diminishing until he became a mere speck and a stray breath of air would blow him out the window, and no one would miss him very much. How could any one miss a speck?

People would say: "Where's Roy today?" And some one would reply: "O, I don't know. I guess he's gone. O, well, he was getting awfully small and very hard to keep track of, anyhow."

MEMO FOR DR. CUTTER.

Take those pictures in your column, Dr. Cutter;
As of patient learning where his liver's at,
Or it may be duodenum,
Tho most patients when I've seen um,
Always seemed a trifle gloomier than that.

Your psychology is clever, Dr. Cutter,
And the battle with the germs is tough, or worse;
When the little bums congest in Say a sinus or intestine,
It is bad enough without a homely nurse.

I can add to the idea, Dr. Cutter:
Why not keep neurotic readers from the dumps?
Why not have an anatomic
Sort of daily feature comic,
Using Smitty, Moon, and Kayo, and the Gumps?

A Stay-at-Home Goes Away.

Our little puppy dog has gone. He has served his time in this dull world and his bright spirit has fled. Thru the long, dragging hours of the day he waited, a patient, lonely little black figure in a dim old room, till night brought those he loved to receive his priceless gifts of gayety and a great, shining devotion.

Surely there is a place for a little fellow like that. Some sun-drenched place of grass, and flowers, and trees, and other puppy dogs where that slender, satin little body can hurl itself in joyous leaps thru the air, or an eager, inquisitive nose can sniff at all the outdoor smells he craved.

Dear Lord, give him all the things he sacrificed to be with us, and when our stay is ended, if you can spare him, please give him back to us.

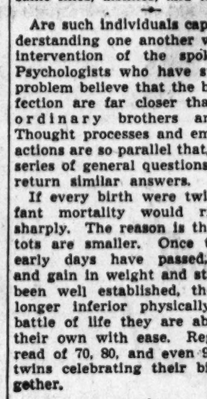
TWINS—LIKE AND UNLIKE.

TWINS are facts, not theories. Our population includes no less than 2 millions. But multiple births are the exception, not the rule. Apparently, nature assumes that human beings require more protection than animals. Hence the custom of one child at a time.



What are the chances of bearing twins? One in 89. Curiously enough, the tendency may run in families. More than a single set may be born to certain parents. Triplets occur only once in about 8,000 cases, while quadruplets are extremely rare—appearing in one confinement in 371,000.

As we know from observation, twins may be carbon copies of each other or they may differ widely. The most common are those who proceed from the fertilization of two eggs at the same time. The embryos are built from separate cells altho they are nourished together. They may be of opposite sexes and bear only the relationship, to one another, of brother and sister born several years apart.

One-egg twins, on the other hand, resemble each other strikingly, altho minor distinctions exist always. Shakespeare used this similarity in some of his plays. He looked upon identical twins apparently as gifted persons who exhibited more love for one another, more intimate sympathies than a brother or sister arriving at normal intervals. In "The Comedy of Errors" no little amusement is afforded by mistakes in identity.

In "Twelfth Night," Sebastian and Viola were "born in an hour." Viola was able to masquerade as her brother without danger of detection. In this instance, a single egg split into two parts and each resulted in a fully developed babe.

In this type, there is considerable evidence of matched characteristics. For example, a congenital deformity in one will be present in the other. Cases have been cited wherein two single-egg children, separated shortly after birth, were reared in environments totally unlike. Nevertheless, their hereditary peculiarities were uniform. Altho each secured divergent training, they possessed the same likes, dislikes, and talents.

Are such individuals capable of understanding one another without the intervention of the spoken word? Psychologists who have studied this problem believe that the bonds of affection are far closer than between ordinary brothers and sisters. Thought processes and emotional reactions are so parallel that, to a given series of general questions, each will return similar answers.

If every birth were twins, our infant mortality would rise rather sharply. The reason is that the two tots are smaller. Once the crucial early days have passed, however, and gain in weight and strength has been well established, they are no longer inferior physically. In the battle of life they are able to hold their own with ease. Regularly we read of 70, 80, and even 90 year old twins celebrating their birthday together.

LONG NAILS.

F. X. I. writes: On many occasions you have remarked that bacteria may be harbored beneath the finger nails. What about the one-half inch claws young women now affect? Germs must multiply enormously in such spacious quarters.

REPLY.

Dirt beneath the nails is an abomination. The Chinese custom of allowing the hornlike coverings to extend like claws is a reflection upon good taste. Furthermore, if a good job of scratching needs to be done, they will be less serviceable as they break easily.

FODDER.

Miss D. D. writes: I'm very fond of raw oatmeal and want to know if it is harmful?

REPLY.

Not if your alimentary tract can handle it. The same may be said of raw potatoes. A diet of either would bring on a sharp stomach-ache in one who possesses normal digestive powers.

EVENTUALLY.

S. E. writes: Would the heart be affected by epileptic attacks over a number of years?

REPLY.

Some influence—in time, yes.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 25.

1. Which of these workers would most likely use a hawk in his daily work? Plasterer Plumber Electrician Farmer.
2. A poor swimmer could swim farthest in Lake Michigan Atlantic ocean Mississippi river Great Salt lake.
3. A scoop should remind you chiefly of an Aviator Diver Reporter Physician.
4. From which of these rocks can petroleum be extracted? Limestone Shale Quartz Granite.
5. A saline solution would taste Bitter Sour Sweet Salty.
6. Here is another test of analytical thinking. You deserve one point for each correct selection of the proper capitalized words that complete the analogies below.
   [a] Saw: Board:: Scissors: STEEL PERCALE MONEY HAND
   [b] Hen: Chicken:: Doe: COLT CALF BUCK FAWN
   [c] Night: Day:: Black: RED GREEN WHITE PURPLE
   [d] Aunt; Niece:: Uncle: MOTHER NEPHEW SON COUSIN
   [e] Gosling: Goose:: Cygnet: SWAN LEOPARD TURKEY OSTRICH.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

NO LONGER LONESOME.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 24.—Perhaps you think that I mailed a letter to your paper by way of Davy Jones, since you have heard nothing from me since my letter was published in your column. I am an operating room corps man [not a doctor]. The better part of the day and the minor part of the night is taken up helping the doctors in my own small way. Since one can hardly hand a scalpel to an operator and then write a letter a few moments later with the expectation of handling the scalpel again, I find very little time to write. I ask your forgiveness and the forgiveness of all those very considerate people.

To date I have received approximately 250 letters. I say approximately since I have been unable to get over to my box today. I find that my youngest correspondent is a young lady of 15 years as opposed to the eldest person of 88 whose ancestors came across on the Mayflower [I received an explanation of the family tree]. I received a letter from an exprincess of Norway, one from a young lady who neglected England's man of the minute, and a relative more lonesome than Joe Louis after the first round, that she might write me, something approaching a proposal, and a handkerchief to wipe away the tears of lonesomeness. Along with this pillow case full of envelopes I received a bed full of cookies, cakes, nuts, candy, stamps, pencils, stationery, cigarets, and an accusation of being a fellow from a storybook.

As I lie here in my bed of sweet crumbs from over the nation I wonder how any one could be lonesome with so many fine people in the world. I am happy to know that people realize we are away from our homes and are so willing to help us if they know how. To which I might add that there is nothing any one in the service appreciates more than a smile and a hello when they walk along the street.

Thank all of you who wrote again and again for your kindness.

The unlonesome brother.

SAFETY LANES.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—In regard to the safety lane situation, there are only three lanes open in the entire city at present. This is not sufficient for all of the cars owned in Chicago. I patronized three lanes which had been closed and then two lanes so overcrowded that it was impossible to go thru in less than several hours. I am only able to go to the safety lane on a Saturday—as I work all day. I have spent a great deal of time and gasoline endeavoring to get the necessary sticker, but without success; moreover, I face the possibility of being questioned by the police for not having had the car tested on time. This situation should be adjusted so that we are not forced to disobey the law. K. L. W.

RESPECT FOR CHURCHILL.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Churchill calls for more Yanks and he will get them, too. He is a shrewd statesman and deserves our admiration. He is all and all for Britain. If we had men like him down in Washington the disaster at Pearl Harbor might have been averted. I. P. M.

ARTICULATE "L" GUARD.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Here's a pat on the back for "L" guard No. 4204. He works on the Jackson Park line in the daytime. He calls the stations and also the places near by each station, and you can understand every word he says.

RED CROSS WORK FOR THE BLIND.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—For many years the Red Cross has had a Braille department for transcribing books into Braille for the blind. It had built up an organization of efficient workers, many of whom have done this work for years, and, of course, without any pay or compensation. This Braille work is exceedingly difficult and requires not only sufficient education and ability, but patience to stick to the work for many long hours. These Braille books have been distributed thru the public library.

Recently the Red Cross sent out notices that the work would no longer be continued due to the expense of the same. I am informed that this was directly upon the order of Mr. Davis.

When the thousands of blind soldiers return from saving the world from democracy they will undoubtedly miss the late editions transcribed into Braille.

The article in Sunday's TRIBUNE, "'Caste System' in Red Cross Assailed by Rall President," possibly explains why Mr. Davis did not want to have this Braille work continued. According to this article, President Roosevelt's friend, Norman H. Davis, "is the highest paid executive in the history of the Red Cross, receiving a salary of $18,000 a year, including expenses." From this it seems quite possible that Davis may have desired to cut down the Braille expenses in order to be sure that he would have enough to pay his own salary.

A FRIEND OF THE BLIND.

WORKING WOMEN IN WARTIME.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—During the first World war women were called to fill jobs our warriors left behind. Then came the armistice and thousands of these men came back to find the jobs they gave up to combat the enemy being held by women, and there were no jobs for them.

Most women, I imagine, take these jobs for the sole purpose of lending a helping hand. But as time goes on they become accustomed to living on a higher standard, and before they know it they don't want to give up the extra $20 or $25 they've been getting. Couldn't some arrangement be made whereby they worked for the duration only? Think what it would mean to service men to come home, knowing their jobs were waiting for them. T. R. S.

VETERANS IN THE NAVY.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 27.—Now that Secretary Stimson has removed certain restrictions permitting army enlistments, why does not some one remind Secretary Knox that we are now at war and that he should change his prewar regulations that now prohibit World War I. men from serving? If Mr. Knox without any previous navy service can serve at the head at his age, why not let former navy men get in and replace some of these younger officers for sea duty?

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Will some one tell me why a bill has just been passed granting congressmen old age assistance of from $58 to $348 per month. MRS. J. H.

TIME LAG.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 26.—Why did it take one hour and 25 minutes to send the extremely important message to the Hawaiian commanders on the morning of the attack? The report merely says it could not be gotten thru. Why? Weren't the cables working? Was the wireless inoperative? E. ROBB ZABING.

LANDSCAPING HENDERSON.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—If Leon Henderson limits himself to a pound of sugar a week we shall see a great and much needed improvement in his figure inside a very few months. SKINNY.

ESTATE ASSETS.

Wilmette, Ill., Jan. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was recently bequeathed the personal property of an aunt who died in Michigan.

1. I know nothing about probate proceedings.
2. How long before a case in Michigan is closed?
3. Does anybody furnish an heir with a statement of what the personal property consisted of and a statement of what bills and costs were paid?
4. My cousin who inherited the real estate is executor.
5. Have I a right to ask him for it?
6. Should a person who cannot be present at hearing employ some one to look after his interests?
7. How can an heir know that he is getting all the assets that he is paying valid bills?
8. Understand there was to be a hearing Nov. 28 but have heard nothing concerning it?
9. Any information you can give me will be appreciated.
10. Should I just sit quietly and wait for my money?
11. Will that amount be beyond a doubt what is coming to me? H. A

1. If the personal property bequeathed to you is all that there is in the estate and if you can get possession, then we are no need for probate proceedings.
2. It might never be closed. See 1.
3. If the estate is being probated an inventory should be filed and you can obtain a copy from the clerk of the court by paying him.
4. In general, real estate would necessitate probate.
5. Of course you have a right to ask, but see 3.
6. Ordinarily it is not necessary that the heirs be separately represented in probate proceedings.
7. We do not see how it would be technically possible for him to be absolutely sure. He could increase his information by paying a representative to investigate the facts and report.
8. You can try writing to the clerk of the court.
9. See preceding answers.
10. This is the ordinary course unless you have some reason to suspect improprieties.

"Pursuit of a Parcel"

By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull

(Copyright: 1942: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull)

SYNOPSIS.

Cornelius Rossiter, adopted brother of Antony, is a spy for both England and Germany. When suspected of his English connections by a man high in Nazi circles, Cornelius announces he has taken a dictograph of the man's expressions of disloyalty to Hitler, and if anything happens to him it will be sent to Goering. In London Antony is questioned by Col. Garrett of the British intelligence about Cornelius' German connections and is sent to Holland to get secret information about them. In Holland Antony meets Cornelius, who tells him of the dictograph. A girl Antony has met recognizes him and blabs to Barend Roos, a Nazi sympathizer. The Nazi officials come to arrest Antony, but he flees and jumps into the canal just as they shoot. A body is found, and a sister of the girl who blabbed of Antony's whereabouts identifies the body found as Antony. In the meantime, a parcel addressed to Antony Rossiter is received by Philip Merridew, uncle of Delia, Antony's sweetheart, just before a bomb wrecks Philip's office and dangerously injures him. His clerk, Mr. Holt, rescues the package and takes it home, but when two attempts are made to rob his house he becomes frightened and takes the package to Delia. He is followed by a man who sees Holt hand the package to Delia. Watches a girl come from Delia's house with a package, and brutally assaults the girl, who is Miss Murdle, whom the follower has mistaken for Delia. Delia puts the package in a safe at the bank. A man, claiming to be Cornelius, calls on Delia and tells her Antony is dead and he wants the package. She agrees to meet him the next morning at the bank. That night Antony telephones her from London and then reports to Col. Garrett. Leaving Garrett's in a blackout, Antony is followed by a man, who is followed by still another pursuer. A bomb drops in the vicinity and, in a flash, Antony recognizes his pursuer to be Cornelius, who is cut on the wrist. Before he can help or question Cornelius, Antony is knocked out. When he recovers, Cornelius is gone. On orders from Garrett, Antony is to meet the man claiming to be Cornelius at the bank, but he is delayed, and Delia interviews the man alone. He refuses to see Antony and demands the parcel.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

DELAY.

Delia's gaze was more critical than Mr. Brown cared about. A young girl should not be critical—she should believe what she is told. Delia had a most unbelieving air. Her voice was clearer than ever as she said:

"But I told you Antony would be here. He is coming down on purpose to see you."

He had come up quite close and was standing over her.

"I do not wish to see him," he said. His voice was louder than was at all necessary. "I do not wish to see him, and I do not intend to see him. I will ask you to put on your hat and to come with me now to the bank."

"It doesn't really open till 10," said Delia. She was beginning to be angry herself.

"By the time that we get there it will be opening."

"I would rather wait for Antony."

His voice became even louder.

"I have told you that I will not wait for Antony! You will come with me now!"

Delia stepped back from him, her temper sparking. If Cornelius thought he could come into her house—well, Uncle Philip's house, but it was all the same thing—and throw his weight about like this, he would just have to be shown. She proceeded to show him. Her head came up, her eyes brightened. She smiled and said coldly and sweetly,

"I think we will wait for Antony."

Just for a moment something looked out of his eyes. She thought, "He'd like to murder me," but instead of being frightened she had a sense of exhilaration. The look passed so quickly that she might have thought she had imagined it. He said with a change of manner,

"I have offended you, and I do not want to do that. If I had more time I could explain, but time is just what I have not got. My business is very pressing indeed, and to carry it out I must have the papers which are in that box—I should have had them yesterday. If I cannot be in London with them by just after 11, there is great danger that the whole business will fail. And that means men's lives—my own—others whom you do not know—perhaps Antony's. I cannot explain, but that is how it is. For God's sake, Miss Merridew, come with me now and give me my parcel out of the bank! Antony would be the first to say, 'Do it'."

Delia's eyes sparkled.

"What Antony did say was that I was to wait for him here."

"You will take the responsibility of those lives—of Antony's life?"

Delia stuck her chin in the air.

"I'm going to wait here for Antony," she said in a sweet, frosty voice.

He could recognize defeat when he met it. He could not force Delia into his car, hale her to the bank, and coerce her into handing over a parcel which was addressed to somebody else. There was really nothing he could do but cut his losses and avoid disaster by clearing off before Antony turned up. He bowed correctly in the foreign style—odd to have a man bowing to you when you felt quite sure that he would like to cut your throat—reached for his hat, and walked to the door.

* * *

Delia stood a long time at the drawing-room window looking for Antony. It was a cold day, but she opened the casement wide and leaned out, listening for the first sound of his feet on the gravel of the drive. But half an hour went by and there wasn't any sound to catch. One of those horrible niggling whispers began in her mind—"He said he'd be here before 10 o'clock. It's 10:30. Why doesn't he come?" She countered that finally with "The bus is late," and then, unable to leave well alone, ran into the study and rang up Mrs. Giles.

Mrs. Giles was the grocer's wife. She stood behind her counter from opening time till closing time, with an hour off between 1 and 2 for a dinner cooked by Mr. Giles after he had done his rounds. Mr. Giles was a bright, breezy little man with a light hand for pastry and a profound admiration for his wife. "There's nothing else Mrs. Giles can't do, Miss Delia, but she can't cook, and that's a fact. Dreadful thin we was getting, the two of us, and the business going downhill at a gallop, because a head for figures is what I've never had nor never shall. So I took and put a stop to it. I'm wonderful fond of cooking, you know, and if there's a business head in England, Mrs. Giles has got it."

So Mrs. Giles stood behind the counter, and nothing that came and went thru Wayshot escaped her eye. She knew when Mrs. Canterbury had a new hat, and when Mrs. Barrock turned her dark gray tweed as a war economy. She knew when Cynthia Kyrle had a new young man, and could tell you to within a week when the affair had reached its climax and was due to fade. She knew just by looking at them who had had letters from sons and husbands, and who hadn't. She knew when one of the Ladies' guild was late for her turn at doing the altar flowers und polishing the candlesticks which had been presented by Mr. Canning in memory of his son who was killed in the last war. She was therefore entirely the right person to ask about the bus. If it hadn't come, she would know.

Delia rang up, and then felt a sick hesitation, because if the bus had come—if it had come—

And it had. Mrs. Giles said so at once with the bright voice in which people say devastating things when they have no idea that they are devastating.

"Punctual to the minute," said Mrs. Giles, holding the receiver to the ear which hadn't pink cotton wool in it, but never taking her eye off the street. Even as she spoke, she could see Gladys Parkin making eyes at Mrs. Canterbury's new manservant, who had fallen arches and couldn't get passed for the army. A real fast girl, that, and she'd be thankful to any one who got her out of the way before her Tommy came home. Boys are that silly—

Having Tommy in her mind, she couldn't let Delia go without talking about him.

"We haven't had no more than the one postcard since he was taken prisoner, Miss Delia, and of course they can't say nothing to set your mind at rest. Says he's well, but Tommy 'ud say that if he was dying. And what's on my mind, Miss Delia, is do they give him enough to eat whether or no. There's no saying, is there?"

Delia took time from being frightened about Antony to be sorry for Mrs. Giles. Tommy had been such a fat boy, and rather a mother's darling.

"They're supposed to have the same as the German soldiers."

"Supposed," said Mrs. Giles darkly. Then, in a brisker voice, "I was wondering if you would ask Mr. Antony next time he's down this way. Flying over Germany like they do—"

Delia saw her chance and got in.

"He's coming down today, and of course I'll ask him, but I'm afraid he won't know very much. Mrs. Giles—he didn't get off the bus, did he? Because that's how he said he was coming."

"Nobody got off—only Ivy Parkin, Mrs. Parkin's daughter that's come back home to live—the one she says got married in London."

Delia hung up. If he hadn't come by the bus, then he hadn't. And in a way it was a relief, because there were quite a lot of good reasons why any one might miss a bus. She went back to the drawing room window.

At 11 Mrs. Barrock rang up to say all over again what a shocking thing it was about Miss Murdle. Pressed by Delia, she conceded that Dr. Kyrle had said she was getting on very well.

"Of course she remembers nothing. I hope you are very careful to be in before dark. It is exceedingly unpleasant to think that we have a homicidal maniac roaming thru our lanes. Quite like Jack the Ripper—which, of course, you won't remember anything about, but my father used to talk about him. And they never found out who he was. That was the really horrible part of it—he might have been anybody.

"As I said to the police inspector, 'If this man isn't traced, suspicion might fall upon any one in Wayshot—even Colonel Barrock and the vicar if it were not for the fortunate circumstance that they were together in the vicarage study going thru the Clothing club accounts at the time when the outrage must have taken place.' And do you know what the inspector had the hardihood to say? He winked—actually winked at me—and said, 'Well, I hope you've got as good an alibi, Mrs. Barrock'."

GIRL, 9, GIVES UP 1,875 PENNIES FOR A DEFENSE BOND

For three years, Marlene Loerzel, 9 years old, has been saving pennies. Yesterday, she found good use for them. She came into the Public Service office in Tribune Tower and exchanged 1,875 pennies for a $25 defense bond. Marlene is in the fifth grade in the Spaulding school and lives at 722 South Kilbourn avenue.

Ninety-six per cent of the 8,500 employés of the Stewart-Warner Chicago factory have made voluntary purchases of defense bonds, Frank A. Ross, senior vice president, reported. They wear special red, white, and blue buttons inscribed, "I Did! Did You?"

In the Chicago area, sales yesterday mounted to $572,927,799. The Federal Reserve bank's total is $546,625,000, that of the post office is $23,509,619 in bonds and $6,590,414 in stamps, and that of THE TRIBUNE's two Public Service offices—in Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street—is $202,666.

BAN CAMERA SHY CULT'S HEGIRA TO 'GREEN HELL'

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 30 (AP).—Three Mennonite families reached an impasse tonight in their attempt to leave their Lancaster county farms to begin a new life in the Mennonite mecca of Paraguay.

They won't have their pictures taken. It's "worldly."

Without pictures, they can't obtain passports.

Without passports, they can't leave the country.

Henry P. Pilgert, Paraguayan consul in Philadelphia, disclosed that the group, headed by 52 year old Elmer Martin of near Brownsville, has applied for permission to join the Mennonite colony in Paraguay's "Green Hell" Chaco region.

Martin said he wants to leave the Lancaster county soil seven generations of Martins have tilled because there's "too much bossin'" by the government.

THE FOLKS ELECT A BLOCK CAPTAIN; ED MAKES TALK

Meeting Held in Drake's Grand Ballroom.

BY HERMAN KOGAN.

The block in Chicago known as having the largest population and many prominent citizens sent its representatives to the Drake hotel last night to elect a civilian defense block captain.

Capt. Sudler.

From the apartment buildings on Lake Shore drive and Walton street and the Drake hotel itself, 300 persons, representing some 2,000, came to the grand ballroom. The atmosphere was one of dignity, fur coats, and smartly tailored suits, but the meeting was as typically democratic as any of the thousands being held in other and less fashionable blocks.

Mr. Kelly Is Introduced.

The town meeting spirit prevailed. When Mayor Kelly, who lives at 209 Lake Shore drive, just around the corner, finished his brief talk—the chairman, Hugh Blakely, had introduced him as "plain Mr. Kelly"—he was hailed by a red-faced man in one of the back rows: "That's it, Ed. That's a good talk."

In the captaincy election itself, four men were nominated, but two withdrew in favor of Louis Sudler, a well known realtor, and Elmer Paul, manager of the building in which the mayor lives.

When the mayor suggested the election be held by division, with Sudler's backers repairing to one side and Paul's to the other, a staid little man arose. "O, no," he called, "We're all neighbors here. We don't have to be formal."

The mayor grinned, shrugged, and sat down.

Serious Question Raised.

Then a woman in a green hat wanted to know if Paul were a resident in the block.

Paul, a serious man with iron gray streaking his black hair, cleared his throat. "Well, not exactly, I'm living outside, but I'm here at the building most of the time. I'm willing to do my best if elected. Why, I'll move here when my lease is up in the spring!"

But this deficiency seemed to end Paul's chances. Altho Mayor Kelly, Morton Downey, the night club and radio singer who is staying at the Lake Shore Drive hotel, and Paul's opponent voted for him, Paul lost. [It was one of the few times that a candidate backed by the mayor has lost an election.]

The first act of Capt. Sudler was to ask, "Elmer, I want you to help me in organizing this block." Paul smiled and replied, "You bet I will."

300 AT ILLINOIS BAR ASSOCIATION TAX SYMPOSIUM

More than 300 lawyers from Chicago and thruout the state attended an all day symposium on tax matters yesterday under auspices of the Illinois State Bar association in the Palmer House. Local officials, including State's Attorney Courtney and County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, participated in mock trials and conferences to illustrate the methods of tax litigation.

Judge Jarecki explained that most of the cases before him involve receiverships on tax delinquent properties and objections to tax rates. Courtney and his assistants told of the operation of foreclosure proceedings to collect taxes.

Other offices represented were the Illinois tax commission, the state department of finance, the county assessor's office, and the county board of appeals. Norman B. Collins, state administrator of defense savings, urged lawyers to coöperate in the campaign.

The civilian defense program was outlined by Maj. Raymond J. Kelly, director of the 6th civilian defense region. Benjamin Wham, association president, said more than 1,000 members had offered their services to state and local civilian defense organizations.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer draft and military service questions, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the query.]

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

"What branches of the army air corps offer commissions as officers, and what qualifications must I possess in order to obtain such a commission? What happens to me if during my training I fail in the course leading to a commission?"

This is typical of inquiries received from numerous young men interested in joining the air corps.

The air corps aviation cadet training program offers a second lieutenant's commission upon the successful completion of any of the following courses: Pilot, bombardier, navigator, armament, communication, engineering, meteorology, and photography. Pilot, bombardier, and navigator training are referred to as air crew courses, while the other branches are ground duty courses, as no flight duty is involved.

18 to 26 Age Limit.

Age requirements for all branches are the same—18 to 26, inclusive. Physical requirements differ only in that air crew candidates must have 20/20 vision, while ground crew applicants must have a minimum of 20/100 vision without glasses, correctible with glasses to a minimum of 20/30 in one eye and 20/20 in the other.

Mental requirements for air crew cadets are that the applicant pass a screening test designed to establish intelligence and ability to absorb the training, rather than the amount of higher education he has had.

Educational qualifications for ground duty courses are:

Armament training—Preferably men with training in engineering or science.

Engineering training—Completion of at least three years of engineering study in an accredited college or university.

Communication training—Completion of two years of engineering studies, or completion of two years of college, plus an amateur radio license.

Photography training—Completion of three years of chemistry or geology, plus professional or considerable amateur experience.

Meteorology training—College graduates who have specialized in sciences, engineering, etc., and who have completed thoro courses in mathematics.

Air course cadets who fail to qualify for training after reaching the replacement center will be assigned to a ground course providing they meet the requirements. If they fail here also they will be sent to the air corps replacement training center, where they are trained as enlisted men for maintenance of airplanes and equipment.

QUESTIONS.

T. J. B. asks: "Do sailors in the naval reserve who are assigned to a ship ever get furloughs during wartime? If so, can they ask for a specific time or are they granted leaves only when they have been in service a certain length of time? To whom do they apply for leave."

ANSWER: Furloughs during wartime depend on circumstances. If a ship puts into port for repairs or some such reason that would entail a lengthy stay, the men probably would be given furloughs but are, of course, subject to immediate recall. A sailor is usually given his first leave after completing recruit training. The sailor should consult his commanding officer about a furlough.

R. D. writes: "My father and I are working in a family of four. His salary is $22 a week and we have no other income. I must register next month. Will the draft board allow me to stay home to help support the family?"

ANSWER: The officials of your draft board will decide whether your family's salary is enough to support three persons. If they decide not, you will be deferred; otherwise you will be placed in class 1-A, subject to general service.

Miss I. P. writes: "I understand that married men now are eligible for army aviation cadets. How does this apply to cadets already in training? Can such a cadet get married? If a cadet is secretly married what is the punishment?"

ANSWER: If the cadet entered training before the marriage regulation went into effect, he is bound to the regulations governing him when he went into training, which prohibit him from marrying before his graduation. If he were to marry secretly and it were discovered he might be subject to a court martial.

BE READY FOR AIR RAIDERS, MAYOR WARNS CHICAGO

Chicago can and may be bombed, Mayor Kelly, speaking as coördinator of civilian defense for the metropolitan area, told more than 100 members of his speakers' bureau gathered yesterday in the city council chambers.

"It is your duty to bolster up morale at home," he said. "We don't want to scare people or make any one hysterical by unnecessary blackouts. But dont let any one tell you that you are too far away from the battle for aerial attack.

"Chicago is a danger zone. We are a great industrial area, the kind an enemy would want to strike. If the Japanese can go 4,000 miles to strike by air at Hawaii, it is also possible for them to strike at Chicago, and they may do it. I have made up my mind that we are not going to be caught like France or Hawaii."

Since Jan. 7, when the speakers' bureau of the Chicago civilian defense commission was formed, speakers have addressed 91 meetings and approximately 25,000 citizens, he said.

WIDOW'S DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Mrs. Lillian Whipperman, 37 years old, a widow, committed suicide in her apartment at 5429 Cottage Grove avenue Thursday night because she was despondent over the death of her husband. She was found dead from gas fumes from the kitchen stove.

Dad..... does your BEST girl see Sunday through a kitchen window....?

Most Sundays..... isn't she the one who whittles jackets off of spuds and cleans the Brussels sprouts and salts and sears the roast and bastes and boils and bakes the things you like for Sunday Dinner?

This Sunday..... isn't she the one who'd love to wear the smartest dress she owns, her daring hat and shoes with heels THIS high..... and take your arm and march into HENRICI'S..... for a famous workless Sunday Dinner?

..... isn't she the one who'd love that?

MARINE PAY AID, SOUGHT IN CHECK CASE, ENDS LIFE

Great Lakes Clerk Shoots Self in Milwaukee.

Pay Clerk Roy C. Roberts, a United States marine for the last 20 years, was found shot to death yesterday in the Tower hotel in Milwaukee, his service pistol in his hand. He was 40 years old.

Roy C. Roberts.

Roberts, who had been stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training station for the last two years, was reported by naval officials to have drawn illegally a check for $3,070 against the United States. A search of Roberts' effects disclosed $1.24 in cash.

Naval officers would not disclose whether Roberts had cashed the check and there was no indication what he had done with the money if he did get it.

Mother Receives Letter.

Several days after Roberts disappeared from Great Lakes his mother, with whom he lived at 819 18th street, North Chicago, received a letter postmarked in Chicago, in which he told her his body would be found some time somewhere. After telling his mother where she could find his insurance policies Roberts closed by saying, "I am sorry I have to do this to you."

Marines with whom Roberts had served and townsmen in North Chicago knew him for a quiet, conservative man who had been deeply devoted to his wife, Mabel, who died last September after suffering for two years from an incurable disease.

Melancholy Since Wife's Death.

Friends said Roberts had been melancholy since the death of his wife and theorized that he might have been deranged.

Two days before Roberts left Great Lakes he sent a check for $25 to a Waukegan hospital in final payment of his wife's hospital bill and the physician who had attended Mrs. Roberts received a small sum in final payment of his bill. The undertaker was paid at the time of the funeral.

Roberts joined the Marine corps in 1921 and served as an enlisted man for more than 17 years before he was appointed a warrant officer with the rank of pay clerk in September, 1938. He was transferred to Great Lakes two years ago and allowed to remain there because of the condition of his wife.

Col. Gallagher Appointed Commander at West Point

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Philip E. Gallagher of Council Bluffs, Ia., was designated today by the war department as commandant of cadets at West Point. He was ordered relieved Feb. 5 of his present assignment with the war department general staff and duty in the office of the chief of staff in Washington. His new assignment will be effective on the departure of Col. Frederick A. Irving, present commandant of the cadets.

ADD 6½ BILLIONS TO NAVY BILL ON ROOSEVELT PLEA

Boost Is for Airplanes, Senators Told.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—At the request of President Roosevelt, the senate naval appropriations subcommittee today added 6 billion 516 million dollars to the 19 billion 977 million dollar naval appropriation bill passed on Tuesday by the house, raising the total to 26 billion 494 million dollars. This is more than twice as large as any single appropriation ever voted by congress.

The major item added by the senate subcommittee is an appropriation of 4 billion 176 million dollars for naval aircraft. Members of the subcommittee said the addition would give the navy more than 24,000 airplanes and raise its prospective total to more than 50,000. The bill passed by the house contained 1 billion 668 million dollars for airplanes, enough to raise the navy's prospective total to some 27,000.

Last Minute Request.

Since the house passed the navy appropriation bill only three days ago, the President's supplemental estimates, especially the 4 billion 176 million dollar item for airplanes, apparently represented afterthoughts. Rear Adm. John H. Towers, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, did not tell the house naval appropriations subcommittee anything about needing another 4 billion for airplanes when he testified on Jan. 13.

Members of the senate subcommittee, however, promptly and unanimously approved the gigantic increase for naval aviation. They said the request indicated that the navy at last is heeding the lessons of the present war respecting the relative merits of aircraft and battleships and does not intend to neglect aviation.

Budget bureau officials said the huge supplemental estimates would not change the President's budget estimate that expenditures during the fiscal year 1943 will aggregate 59 billion dollars. They explained that Mr. Roosevelt requested initial war appropriations of only 13 billion dollars and that his budget anticipated huge supplemental requests.

Other Items in Increase.

Besides the 4 billion 176 million dollar addition for aircraft, the senate subcommittee added 329 million dollars for ship maintenance in the current fiscal year, 615 million dollars for ship maintenance in the next fiscal year, 896 million dollars for ordnance and ordnance stores, and 500 million dollars in contractual authority for naval public works. The subcommittee added the half a billion dollar item without waiting for a supplemental budget estimate, but were told that it will arrive presently.

The estimate that 4 billion 176 million dollars will give the navy more than 24,000 additional airplanes indicates an average cost of approximately $174,000 for the long range patrol bombers, dive bombers, torpedo planes, fighters, and other types used by the navy.

Army Bill Thru Congress.

The senate on Wednesday completed legislative action on a bill appropriating 12 billion 556 million dollars for the army air corps, of which 9 billion dollars was appropriated for a total of 33,000 airplanes, including 10,000 trainers and 23,000 combat aircraft. This indicates that the average cost of army planes—about $272,000 for all types—is considerably higher than the cost of navy planes. The difference may be accounted for by the fact that the navy uses a smaller proportion of heavy bombers.

Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], a member of the naval affairs committee and of the naval appropriations subcommittee, complained when the army air force bill was under consideration about the failure of mass production of airplanes to result in a lower average cost.

Navy department testimony before the senate subcommittee has not been made public. Before the house subcommittee Adm. Towers testified that the navy "is increasing very rapidly the number of carriers and auxiliary carriers in the fleet" and that "a rapid increase in the number of groups for each of those carriers and airplanes" is required.

"Furthermore, we are going into a program of having complete reserve auxiliary carriers," he said.

ROOSEVELT ASKS THE "PARASITES" TO QUIT CAPITAL

Room Needed for War Workers, He Says.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—President Roosevelt today described capital residents not engaged directly or indirectly in the war effort as parasites and called upon them to leave Washington to make room for war workers.

He hinted that if they do not leave he might employ his war powers by taking over their offices and homes.

At the same time a 10 p. m. curfew for all girls employed by the government was suggested before the house building and ground committee, which is holding hearings on the problem of making room for defense workers. Rep. Earl Wilson [R., Ind.] proposed the curfew, charging that the nightly activities of women clerks make them inefficient.

Waste of Time Charged.

Rep. William S. Hill [R., Colo.] said some of the government girls are out nights "with the boys on Capitol Hill."

Rep. Carter Manasco [D., Ala.] charged that many of the girl employés spend more time studyingsgrace horse scratch sheets than at their jobs. His remark followed charges by Rep. Wilson that in many offices more persons are being hired than are needed and that workers do not give a full return for a day's wages because burocrats measure importance by the number of persons working under them.

At his press conference this morning Mr. Roosevelt suggested that capital newspapers emblazon their front pages with the question, "Are You a Parasite?"

Room Needed, Says President.

He said this would set a lot of persons wondering whether they fall into this classification and might induce them to leave and make room for war workers.

There is no doubt, the President said, that there are a good many parasites in Washington today—people who are taking up room needed for the war effort and people who came here to have a good time, just as many people did during the World war.

He referred particularly to persons who came to Washington for its social life, persons who are here because their children are in school in the capital, or persons who have taken 20 room houses on Massachusetts avenue, on which many embassies and legations are located.

85,000 More Workers Expected.

He said parasite removal is important because the national capital is facing the possibility of reaching a population saturation point. He cited a memorandum, received from Charles Palmer, defense housing coördinator, estimating that 85,000 new workers are expected during the year.

This flood of workers will overtax public utility facilities, police and fire protection, and transportation facilities. Housing already is at the saturation point, with less than 1 per cent of the rentable homes available for occupancy.

Mr. Roosevelt said that under his war powers he can take over offices, hotels, and homes whenever he deems such action necessary.

Asked who would separate parasites from essentials, Mr. Roosevelt suggested with a laugh that the Washington press corps might undertake the job. He roared with laughter over the suggestion that he appoint a special parasite commission.

M. P. BURTIS JR., SON OF PIONEER BUILDER, DEAD

Melvin Payson Burtis Jr., a resident of Englewood for 50 years and the descendent of pioneer Chicago building contractors, died yesterday in his home at 6448 Normal boulevard. He was 64 years old. Funeral services will be held at noon Monday in the chapel at 316 West 63d street, with burial at the old family home at Avon Center, Ill.

Mr. Burtis' grandfather, Edwin Hall, and his father, Melvin Burtis Sr., were the contractors who built the famous Chicago landmark, the west water tower on Michigan avenue. They also were the architects and contractors of a great number of famous old near north side homes.

Mr. Burtis had been ill since the sudden death in 1931 of his wife, a daughter of the late Col. William Carr, first postmaster of Englewood. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Alma Douglas Burtis, 86, and by his brother, William.

WORKER HIT BY STREET SIGN IN CAR CRASH DIES

Jerome E. Mascejak, 21 years old, of 930 West 19th street, an assembly worker, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital of injuries received Sunday at 16th street and Wabash avenue. A skidding taxi, driven by Daniel Di Domenico, 1425 Grenshaw street, struck a street sign which fell on Mascejak.

Andrew Kopp, 15 years old, 3509 South Blanchan avenue, Brookfield, was injured last night when he was struck while riding his bicycle, by the auto driven by Gilbert Scheel, a Tribune reporter, 12 Washington boulevard, Oak Park. The accident occurred on 26th street between Desplaines and Harlem avenue, North Riverside. The youth was taken to the Berwyn hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 85 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 66 were killed in Chicago where 1,823 were injured in the same period.

Suffers Heart Attack on Train; Dies in Station

William Pfaff, 55 years old, an inspector for the Continental Oil company, who lived at 341 South Belphia street, Park Ridge, died last night in the North Western station infirmary after he had suffered a heart attack on a suburban train in the station.

Nation's Accident Toll Rises

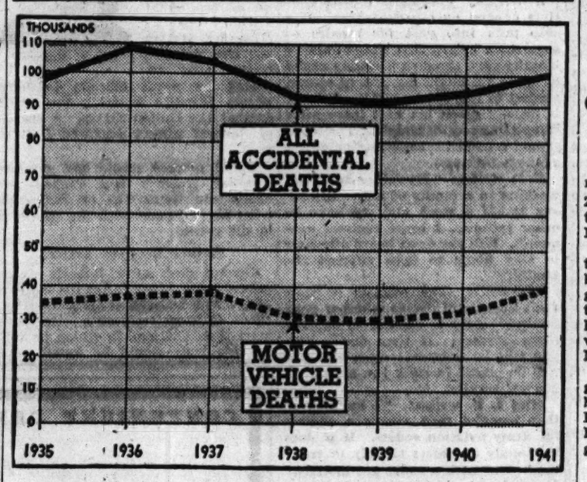

Diagram of the rise and fall in recent years in the number of fatal accidents in the United States and the number of auto traffic fatalities.

101,500 KILLED, 9,300,000 HURT IN U. S. IN 1941

Accident Toll Exceeds 1940 by 5 Per Cent.

Accidents killed 101,500 persons in the United States last year and injured 9,300,000 at an estimated loss in dollars of 3 billion 750 million, the National Safety council reported yesterday. The toll was 5 per cent greater than in 1940.

This total, while not the highest on record, was attributable entirely to an increase in automobile fatalities and occupational deaths. The traffic toll of 40,000 was an all-time high.

Last year the accidental death rate per 100,000 of the population was 76.2. One out of every 14 persons in the nation suffered a disabling injury. The estimated economic loss covers medical expense, overhead costs of insurance, and property damage.

Increased Activity Cited.

"Increased activity in all fields—largely attributable to the ever increasing tempo of national defense—was the key to the greater accident toll," the council reported. "Against a backdrop of the nation's pressing need for man power, these facts stood out sharply:

"The 1941 accident toll among men in the expanded selective service age bracket was 26,000—equal to the destruction of almost two full army divisions.

"Approximately 18,000 workers were killed in occupational accidents. An additional 29,000 were killed in off-the-job accidents. This loss of man power represented labor sufficient to build 20 battleships, 200 destroyers, and 7,000 heavy bombers."

Toll by Classifications.

Following is the national accident death toll by classifications:

	1941.	1940.	Change.
All accidents	101,500	96,885	+ 5%
Motor vehicles	40,000	34,501	+16%
Home	32,000	33,000	— 3%
Occupational	18,000	17,000	+ 6%
Public [not motor vehicle]	14,500	15,000	— 3%

Accidents, as a cause of death, were exceeded only by heart disease, cancer, cerebral hemorrhage, and nephritis. The age group of 65 years and over was the only group to better its 1940 record, dropping 1 per cent to 27,650. The school children bracket showed a gain of 10 per cent.

Falls, second only to traffic deaths, were about the same as in 1940 with approximately 26,000 deaths. Drownings increased 2 per cent to 7,000 while deaths from burns dropped 5 per cent to 6,900.

In reaching a record high the 1941 toll topped the previous record of 39,643 in 1937.

Only six states recorded fewer traffic deaths and Illinois was not among them. Chicago, however, was one of 14 cities of 250,000 population or over which saved lives, reporting a decrease of 5 per cent, a saving of 31 lives. Memphis, Tenn., was first with 57 per cent.

KISER, 'SERVING A LIFE TERM OF WRITING,' DIES

New York, Jan. 30 [Special].—Samuel Ellsworth Kiser, poet, humorist, columnist, and editor, who until a few weeks ago kept a 33 year old promise to stick to writing and "serve out a life sentence with no time off for good conduct," died today at his home in New Rochelle. He would have been 80 years old Monday.

He was widely known for his column, "More Truth Than Poetry." Among his books were "Love Sonnets of an Office Boy," "Ballads of the Busy Day," and "Sonnets of a Chorus Girl."

He began his newspaper career with the Cleveland Press, where he later was sports editor. He also wrote editorials for the old Chicago Record-Herald and was editor in chief of the Dayton [Ohio] Daily News. He was born in Shippenville, Pa., a descendant of a family which settled in that locality in 1754.

Woman Struck by Hit-Run Bicyclist Dies of Injuries

Mrs. Virginia Lewis, 46 years old, 6830 South Shore drive, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital of injuries received Thursday when a boy on a bicycle knocked her down at 71st street and Merrill avenue. The youth pedaled away after the accident.

HOLD UP DRUG STORE.

Two men entered a drug store at 1101 North Pulaski road last night and took $30 from the cash register, after forcing the owner, Harry L. Landsman; his son, and three customers to stand against a wall.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart, widow of W. J. Stewart, for many years a businessman in Joliet, died yesterday in the South Shore hospital. She lived at 2210 East 69th street and came to Chicago from Joliet about 15 years ago. Mrs. Stewart was born in Scotland 80 years ago and came to this country as a child. Surviving are five daughters, two sons, and six granddaughters. Services will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 201 East Clinton street, Joliet.

J. Burleigh Bruhl.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—J. Burleigh Bruhl, water color artist who first exhibited at the Royal academy 40 years ago, died today at the age of 80. At least three of his paintings are in the possession of the royal family, one having been commissioned as a wedding present for the queen. Bruhl specialized in landscapes. His works are represented in more than a dozen provincial galleries in Great Britain and abroad.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Badt.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Badt, widow of Francis B. Badt, a consulting electrical engineer, died yesterday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. John F. Gillespie, 1417 Hyde Park boulevard, where she had been ill for two years. Another daughter, Miss Ernestine L. Badt, also survives. Services will be conducted Monday at 9:30 a. m. in St. Bernard's church, with burial in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Mrs. Mary E. Montgomery.

Mrs. Mary E. Montgomery, formerly of Kenilworth, died yesterday in Beverly Hills, Cal., where she had resided for the last year. She was the widow of William B. Montgomery, president of the Benefit Association of Railway Employés, who died in August, 1926. Two daughters and a son survive. Services will be held in California today.

George F. McFeely.

Funeral services for George F. McFeely, former Oak Park policeman who died yesterday, will be held this afternoon in the funeral home at 7319 Madison street, Forest Park. Mr. McFeely, who resided with his wife, Elizabeth, at 312 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, was 66 years old. He also leaves four daughters, two sons, and a sister. Burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery.

Fred W. Woods.

Fred W. Woods, 53 years old, 2617 Hartzell street, Evanston, for 35 years a buyer for the North Western railroad, died yesterday in his home. He leaves his widow, one son, and a daughter.

Sir Frederick Haultain.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30 (AP).—Sir Frederich Haultain, 84, chief justice of Saskatchewan for 26 years and premier of the northwest territories from 1891 to 1905, died at his home here today after a long illness.

ATTORNEY DIES IN AUTO; THIEF DRIVES CAR AWAY

That he drove a dead man around for hours in his own auto, believing him to be merely drunk was the story told today to Evanston police by William [Swede] Erlandson, a steel worker. The victim was Charles F. Murray, 63 years old, a patent attorney, who lived at 1239 Elmwood avenue, Evanston.

Murray's body was found in an alley behind 6433 North Maplewood avenue last night. It was apparent he had died of a heart attack.

Erlandson, arrested earlier, said he had seen Murray's auto run off the road at Greenleaf and Elmwood avenues and had believed the driver to be drunk. He said he went to the car and took $2 from the man's pockets, then drove the car on a round of taverns. Eventually he discovered the owner of the car was dead and abandoned the automobile and body where they were found.

GEN. L. V. REGAN DIES; EX-HEAD OF NATIONAL GUARD

Overwork Blamed for Sudden Attack.

Brig. Gen. Lawrence V. Regan, former adjutant general of Illinois, for 29 years a member of the Illinois National Guard, died early today in the Norwegian-American hospital.

He had collapsed Thursday in a National Guard office in the Civic Opera building, and Dr. Benedict Aron, surgeon general of the Guard organization, said that a cerebral hemorrhage had been brought on by overwork. He was 51 years old and lived at 6430 North Damen avenue.

Dr. Aron said the former adjutant general collapsed suddenly, having had no earlier indications of illness. He was unconscious when taken to the hospital and was placed under an oxygen tent.

Began Army Career in 1913.

Gen. Regan began his military career in 1913 when at 22 he joined the 1st Illinois cavalry as a private. He went thru all the noncommissioned ranks until he was promoted to lieutenant and captain in quick succession during the World war.

On his return from overseas he was made major, lieutenant colonel, and colonel and chief of staff of the 33d division in 1934. In October, 1936, he asked to be placed on the National Guard retired list and, after 22 years of service, was retired as a brigadier general.

Then, in August of 1939, when Carlos Black reached the retirement age, Regan was called to service by Gov. Henry Horner as adjutant general. He held this post until November, 1940, when he was replaced by Leo M. Boyle under the "100 days" régime of Gov. John Stelle.

Active on Armory Board.

Gen. Regan was believed to have been the youngest brigadier general in the National Guard at the time of his retirement. He was one of its most popular officers and retired to devote all his time to the Illinois armory board, of which he was executive and fiscal officer. This board had charge of the construction of some 18 or 20 new armories scattered over the state.

Gen. Regan's most recent activity has been as a member of the military committee of the Illinois Defense council.

DRIVER INVOLVED IN FATAL CRASH WINS PROBATION

Clarence T. McDonald Jr., 20 years old, son of a wealthy manufacturer and a student at the Illinois Institute of Technology, yesterday was placed on probation for a year by Judge Victor A. Kula of the Boys' court on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

On Oct. 5, at Devon and Western avenues, his automobile killed two pedestrians, John P. Grady, 64 years old, of 1508 Rosemont avenue, and John Doles, 59, 2746 North Artesian avenue. McDonald let a fellow student and two girls they met in a tavern, out of his car, then drove to his home at 314 South Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, where police arrested him. At the time police said McDonald admitted drinking 12 beers during a gay night, but denied he had been drunk.

He was exonerated by a coroner's jury and a charge of manslaughter was dismissed by Judge Kula who later found him guilty of leaving the scene of an accident. In granting probation, Judge Kula said that the country needed engineers. McDonald's driving license was suspended for one year.

COL. B. J. ARNOLD SERVICES TO BE HELD MONDAY

Funeral services for Col. Bion J. Arnold, consulting engineer who was known as the father of the third rail in railroading, will be held Monday at 2 p. m. in St. Paul's Episcopal church, 50th street and Dorchester avenue. Burial will be in Ashland, Neb. Col. Arnold died Thursday. He was 80 years old

Col. Arnold was chairman of the board of supervising engineers for Chicago's traction lines for 35 years.

His home was at 4713 Kimbark avenue. He was the husband of Margaret L. Arnold, father of Stanley B. and Robert M., and the brother of Mrs. Inez Rea of Hinsdale; Ralph G. Arnold of Pasadena, Cal., and Dwight K. Arnold of Rangor, Mich. All survive him.

Mary Faherty's Betrothal Being Revealed Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

ROMANCE has descended with customary wartime suddenness on the Roger Faherty and Herman Albert Behrens families. Today Mr. and Mrs. Faherty of Astor street are announcing the engagement of their elder daughter, Mary, to Ensign Daniel Clifford Kennedy Jr. The young people met just a few months ago when Mr. Kennedy came here to enter the last naval reserve midshipmen's school at Northwestern university. Even more surprising is Mr. and Mrs. Behrens' announcement that their daughter, Barbara, is being married today to Norman A. Ballantine, for the wedding plans had been kept a secret from all except the young people's closest friends.

The Rev. Dudley S. Stark of St. Chrysostom's church will perform the ceremony at 4 o'clock in the Behrens apartment on Lake Shore drive. Only relatives and a few young people will be present, and there will be no reception.

Mr. Ballantine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ballantine, arrived yesterday from Lake Wales, Fla. Also here for the wedding are Mrs. Eleanor K. Read and Miss Betsy Read of St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Behrens' nephew, Charles W. Bonner of Fresno, Cal., and her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Foote Shannon of Lima, Ohio.

Miss Behrens' Debut Made in 1938-'39 Holiday Season.

Mr. Ballantine and his bride will not take a wedding trip at this time, but will start housekeeping right away at Oneacre in Wayne.

Miss Behrens attended the Principia school for four years and Pine Manor for two. She made her debut during the 1938-'39 Christmas holidays at a tea-dance at the Fortnightly. California is a second home to Miss Behrens, as her family spends each summer in their home in Belvedere, across the bay from San Francisco.

Mr. Ballantine was graduated from the Gilman school in Baltimore and from Princeton university, where he belonged to Tiger inn. Recently he has been sharing bechelor quarters at 63 East Division street with a group of young business men.

Miss Faherty attended the Girls' Latin school, the Knox school in Cooperstown, N. Y., and Smith college. She has a younger sister, Ann, who was graduated last June from Knox and now is studying to be a technician in the Cooperstown hospital.

Ensign Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kennedy of Crockett, Tex., attended Annapolis and Texas A. & M. and holds his master's degree in economics. Following his graduation this month from the midshipmen's school he was appointed as instructor there. The wedding plans are uncertain, depending on Ensign Kennedy's naval orders.

Girls to Form a Stag Line at Party for Midshipmen.

"We're tired of always being 'stags,'" midshipmen at Abbott hall on the Northwestren university downtown campus told members of the Woman's Athletic club which is giving a dinner and dance for them tonight. "Let's have extra girls for a change," they said. So tonight's party will feature a stag line of 20 girls. When the other 120 girls pair up with midshipmen by drawing names from a hat the "stags" will occupy the host and hostess chairs at dinner and cut in during dancing.

A floor show has been arranged for the midshipmen, with Miss Emily Goehst and a Service club partner burlesquing the "Merry Widow" waltz, Miss Kay Nelson doing her Service club show impersonations, and professional dancers doing exhibition numbers and instructing in new

Weddings

Miss Frances Jane Jones and Brackett Badger Denniston Jr. will be married at 8 o'clock tonight in St. Paul's church, Riverside, with a reception following in the Riverside home of Mr. and Mrs. Denniston. With her bridal gown the bride will wear a tulle veil edged in heirloom rosepointe lace handed down thru five generations of her family.

Miss Anne Jones will be her sister's maid of honor. The two young women are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney B. Jones of Riverside. George R. Denniston II. will serve as best man, and Allan Jones, Frank Saunders, Beverly Warner, and John Faul will usher. After a northern skiing trip, Mr. and Mrs. Denniston will be at home in Riverside.

Before a glowing two story stained glass window in the George H. Langhausers' apartment in North Wells street, Miss Isabel Langhauser and J. Robert Reardon will repeat their wedding vows at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Reardon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Reardon of New York. The Rev. T. F. Rutledge Beale will officiate at the ceremony, which will be followed by a small reception. Mr. Reardon and his bride will live in Holyoke, Mass., where the Langhausers also have a home. Miss Bette Langhauser will be her sister's maid of honor, Joseph Lyle Tembe will be Mr. Reardon's best man.

Miss Langhauser attended the Edgewood Park School for Girls in Briarcliffe Manor, N. Y., Mount Holyoke college, and the University of Chicago. Mr. Reardon studied at the Dean academy in Franklin, Mass., and at Nichols college in Dudley, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Franzus of West Leland avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Gertrude, to Jay Goran, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Goran of West Agatite street. The wedding took place on Jan. 25 at the Somerset hotel. The bride attended Northwestern university, and Mr. Goran was graduated from the Kent College of Law.

Her Parents Are Announcing Their Engagement Today

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

And Daughter.

Make way for progress: amid a multitude of listings of business firms ".... & Sons," and ".... & company," the Chicago telephone directory on page 1298 lists G. W. Schwartz & Daughter, CPAs, the only "& Daughter" combination in the entire directory.

Soda Fountain Slanguage.

"Burn one"—chocolate malted milk.
"O J"—orange juice.
"86"—don't have it.
"Draw one"—coffee.
"B T"—bacon and tomato.
"Egg mush"—egg salad sandwich.
"Down the line"—put every syrup in the fountain in it.

January Pick-up.

There's no pickup to drooping spirits like the vision of a vacation—lovely impossibility tho it may seem at the moment. Many a white collar girl has braced herself for February and March by flicking the pages of the calendar to July and August and promising herself boldy some sort of a vacation, come what may.

So, if you feel you simply can't stand the daily grind and the sight of the manager's face another day, curl up for an evening and read "Susan Be Smooth at Play—a handbook of United States vacations."

It's all there, and I needn't tell you, from the chapter, "A Good Twenty-five Cent Hotel" to "Two if by Land," with sketches of luggage and the simplest of costumes. It's fresh and enchanting—a recommended remedy for the end-of-January jitters.

Unsung Heroines.

A letter from a young business woman in an office with an overwhelming majority of enlisted men, doing government work, calls attention to the fact that girls in the office have no uniforms or insignia, and asks if they shouldn't, at least, be lieutenants.

The letter brings to mind the young women who served in air-communications in England for two years without any one knowing about them. They, too, had nothing to distinguish them, and yet, upon them depended, in no small part, the success of the evacuation of Dunkirk.

Really Busy.

New simile: "Busy as a bicycle salesman."

The Burning Deck.

A popular illustrator of children's books keeps her model for her next book under the same roof with her, which is cozy. Only—the model is a frisky little skunk, tho civilized. The little skunk, whose name is "Miphy" has a house within a house—an especially designed fairy tale sort of house with crooked windows, gingerbread trimming, and crooked chimney.

You might think with such a picturesque home Miphy would stay in it. But no! He prefers, on cold days, the register where, during the last cold snap, he sat too long. Miphy burned his breeches behind him.

Guide Lecture Tour.

Miss Marie B. Pabst will conduct a guide lecture tour on "Designs in Wood" Monday afternoon in the Field museum.

Red Cross Fund Passes Halfway Mark in Drive

Chicago's Red Cross war relief fund yesterday passed the halfway point toward its goal of $3,750,000 in the national drive for $50,000,000. A $45,000 contribution from Sears, Roebuck & Co., exclusive of employé subscriptions and other donations totaling $15,262 brought the total to $1,865,395, James B. Forgan, general chairman, reported.

The petroleum group of the industrial division, headed by Rawleigh Warner, oversubscribed its quota of $73,000 by contributing $81,008. This was the third group to reach 100 per cent, the personal finance companies, headed by B. E. Henderson, and the finance companies, headed by Walter E. Heller, having passed their quotas simultaneously with percentages of 101 each.

Company and employé gifts announced by Mr. Forgan included $6,317 from the Electro-Motive corporation; $1,700, Chicago Tunnel and affiliated companies; $1,550, Cracker Jack company; $1,178, A. Stein Co.; $1,033, General American Transportation company; $819, All State Insurance company; $804, Sherwin Williams company, and $749, Illinois Gear and Machine company.

In the public departments division, $832 was received from the regional office of the home Owners' Loan corporation, $758 from the 9th naval district, and $650 from the office of County Treasurer John Toman. Toman reported that his office contributed 100 per cent.

The Chicago and North Western Railway company reported that its quota of $15,000 had been oversubscribed by $4,000 already with still more departments to give a final accounting.

Forum Sponsors' Breakfast.

The committee sponsoring the Jacques Marquette forum will give a breakfast at high noon tomorrow at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The forum is directed by the Rev. Harold P. O'Gara.

Her Bridal Day

Miss Lorraine Frances King.

Miss Lorraine Frances King's marriage to Donald James Sackley will take place at 10:30 o'clock this morning in St. Francis Xavier's church in Wilmette. Later the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. King of Skokie, will give a reception at the North Shore Country club. Mr. Sackley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Sackley of Chicago, will take his bride to Florida before they return to the north side to live.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department will report on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women who wish to take part in these activities.]

In talking to an executive of a drill and tool company the other day we discovered that almost all of his employés now are girls. There are about 400 of them, working in three shifts, making twist drills, which are used in defense factories. Oddly enough, the early shift, from midnight until 8 a. m. is popular with the feminine workers. The other shifts are from 8 a. m. until 4 p. m. and from that time until midnight. None of these particular girls ever worked in factories before; most of them previously were waitresses or had white collar jobs, the executive said.

Practically none of this company's women employés is over 30 years old, for altho the work is monotonous it is precision work and requires excellent eyesight and dexterous fingers. We quarreled with the assumption that women of 40 or even 50 had less dexterity and poorer sight than younger ones, but we were told that employers had found this to be the general rule and that consequently few willingly would employ older women for this type of work.

A five point defense program outlined by the Cook County council of the American Legion auxiliary for its 15,000 members has been approved by Mayor Edward J. Kelly, coördinator of civilian defense in the Chicago area, Mrs. Thomas F. McManus, council president, announced yesterday. The program already is partly under way at the auxiliary headquarters, 25 North Wacker drive.

The council has undertaken [1] to aid in the campaign to save scrap metal and fats, under the direction of Thomas E. Wilson, salvage director; [2] to get the locations of homes and buildings outside the city limits where children could be evacuated during an air raid; [3] to start day nurseries for mothers who will be doing war production work; [4] to conduct a women's service desk at civilian defense headquarters, and [5] to provide the chief block organizer, Walter Roy, with the names of women who might be used in the city-wide block defense setup.

Previously the council had been assigned the work of selling defense stamps in booths thruout the city and of handling the distribution of defense insignia. In his letter of approval Mayor Kelly stressed the importance of keeping personal glorification and rivalry between women's organizations out of the defense work, Mrs. McManus said.

Running down halls, leaping over imaginary bomb craters, and ducking around imaginary debris have kept 250 University of Chicago women students fairly busy for the last five days. Combating these hazards was part of a series of tests to classify women for physical conditioning classes organized in coöperation with civilian defense authorities. Other parts of the tests included tossing of a four pound medicine ball and a test of hand grip strength. Participation was voluntary. "All we can say before tabulations are completed is that some women were very, very good and some were very, very poor," say those who conducted the tests.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter is adding to her duties as chairman of the women's division of the Defense Savings staff by becoming women's chairman for the great patriotic rally, "Lincoln Speaks Again," to be held on Feb. 12 in Medinah temple. The rally will have thet twofold purpose of stimulating the sale of defense bonds and stamps and of focusing attention on the navy. Perce F. Brautigam is general chairman for the rally.

The Czech Catholic alliance will give a party for service men at 3 o'clock tomorrow in the USO Catholic center at 1122 South Wabash avenue. An informal program of vocal and dramatic selections and Czech folk dances will be presented. More than 100 young women from Czech parishes also have been invited by Mrs. Elsie Nevsimal, president of the Catholic Sokol council, who is chairman of the alliance committee.

The sailor who lost a locket containing a lock of golden brown hair and a pressed four leaf clover at the Service Men's center, 176 West Washington street, may stop grieving. It was found Thursday night when the attendants cleaned a room in which a group of sailors had held a party. Miss Mary Dias, first floor attendant at the center, has it now and is waiting for the owner to claim it.

B. M. Z. Club Meeting.

The B. M. Z Woman's club will meet Monday afternoon in the Standard club. There will be a program by Clara Platt Sutcher, dramatic soprano.

Jewish Leaders Open Welfare Parley Tonight

Sidney Hollander.

More than 400 of the nation's Jewish leaders will gather tonight at the Drake hotel for the opening of the three day annual assembly of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds. Representatives of the council's 219 member agencies in 185 cities will shape plans for gearing their social welfare programs to the country's war effort.

Meeting for the first time since the United States entered the war, it will be the council's first Chicago gathering since 1934. The Jewish Charities and the Jewish Welfare fund of Chicago are member agencies.

A Sabbath celebration, arranged by the American Association of Jewish Education, will be held this afternoon. The opening session tonight will be devoted to a discussion of putting the council's program on a war basis and will be conducted by Sidney Hollander of Baltimore, Md., its president.

Rabbi Morris Teller, president of the Chicago Rabbinical association, will deliver the invocation, and Samuel Markell of Boston, chairman of the program committee, will introduce the speakers. They include Harris Perlstein, president of Chicago's Jewish Charities.

Three sessions will be held tomorrow. At the morning meeting the general theme of the previous evening's talks will be continued, and in the afternoon the status of the civic protective programs will be considered. Fund raising problems will be discussed tomorrow night, with emphasis on the war situation.

A question and answer session on national, overseas, Palestinian, and refugee agencies will bring the assembly to a close Monday. On that day also a clinic on campaign techniques will be conducted. Nationally known speakers will address all sessions.

The Chicago arrangements committee, headed by Mrs. Henry I. Monheimer, includes Mrs. B. E. Bensinger Jr., Mrs. Irving S. Florsheim, Mrs. Roy E. Friedman, Mrs. Walter E. Heller, Mrs. Adolph R. Klein, Mrs. Frank D. Mayer, Mrs. Harris Perlstein, and Mrs. Michael H. Weinberg.

The 40 Hour Week and How to Survive It.

A gentleman named Benjamin Franklin Affleck, who occasionally sits and broods about the state of the world and how that state came to pass, thought to outcunning the experts the other day. He inserted a personal advertisment saying:

WANTED—Name of any man or woman in manufacturing, commerce, banking, any profession or other occupation who has achieved outstanding success working 40 hours per week.

Well, 20 answers came in, most of them being very pessimistic. A housewife said gloomily, "There is no such thing." One who signed himself an interested observer said, with scientific detachment, "It would be interesting to note how many people could have achieved success in the short time the Wagner act has been in effect," but suggested no method. Two pessimistic mortals said, "There ain't no such animal," and another said a person doesn't have more than 40 hours good work in him. Why, said another, it takes 12 to 14 hours per day to start to work—also days, nights, and Sundays. "Try the oyster business," this wit suggested gaily. "You only work the months with 'r' in them." But it all came to dramatic, poetic conclusion when a gentleman sent in four well-known lines by a Mr. Longfellow:

Heights of great men, reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight.
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward thru the night.

"It just proves what I always believe," Affleck says, "you can't make a success of 40 hours a week. Why I remember when I was a boy . . ." and Affleck was off again.

We find it all lugubrious, saddening, and most depressing.

Choice Selection.

The Chicago public library reports that it is snowed under with gifts for the Victory Book campaign, but still is a trifle baffled by cartons containing such choice numbers as V. V.'s Eyes, How to Raise a Baby, Lillian's Mistake, and Instructions for the Use of the Sewing Machine, the latter not being found in great quantity in America's army camps today.

How to Read a Book.

Gerard Darrow, the ornithology expert of radio's Quiz Kids, was upbraided recently by his Aunt Bessie for looking around church during prayers. "Gerard," Aunt Bessie said severely, shoving a small gray book at him, "I want you to read your prayer book." Gerard did. He read from it during the entire service, and Aunt Bessie was very pleased. When they got home, he continued to read the book, and continued, and continued. Not until nightfall did she discover she had given him Water Birds of North America.

Signs of the Times.

The walk leading up to a red brick house on Scott street east of Astor [reports Scout Jimmy Johnson] is made of lithographic stones, the stones still retaining the images of commercial pictures.

Delicacy.

Attorney Roland Smith Jr. tells the story of his mother, now in Washington, and her old Negro butler, Brown. It was Mrs. Smith's first formal dinner there, and as guests she had an ambassador or so, many others who wear heavy gold braid or its titular equivalent, and the usual brightly chattering undersecretaries. The dinner was magnificent, each course perfect and delectable. And then came the dessert, an amazing potpourri of nuts, fruit, whipped cream, bits of cake, and chocolate. As the assemblage began to make tentative, hesitant forays into it, Mrs. Smith, her eyes wide with appalled wonder, summoned Brown and hissed, "Where did you ever hear of anything like this?" Brown, his dark face beaming with delight, whispered back, "I got it over the radio this morning."

Wedding Today

MISS LENORE SCHARSCHUG.

Miss Lenore Scharschug's marriage to Lieut. Fred M. McCarthy will take place at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Scharschug of River Forest. Lieut. McCarthy and his bride will have no wedding trip since he must report back to his army air base almost immediately.

France Forever Backers to Form Committee Today

Supporters of the Chicago chapter of France Forever will form a committee today to direct the management of the local organization. At 8:15 o'clock tonight Eugene Houdry, president and founder of France Forever, will speak at a rally in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building. Preceding the rally Mrs. Walter S. Brewster is inviting those interested in forming such a committee to a business meeting at 3 o'clock in her home.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

What a full life young Mr. Power does lead in this movie!

He's a bond servant in Bristol [England], a Tarzan on a tropical isle, and, later, a baronet in Bristol. . . . Wu wu and whoops, my dears!

Now the press sheet would tell you that "the story of 'Benjamin Blake' has all the slashing adventure of 'The Mark of Zorro,' more thrills than 'Jesse James,' and all the surging romance of 'Blood and Sand.'" . . . Wa'al, I dunno as I can subscribe to all that, but "Son of Fury" is a lively and lurid adventure film, acted with vim and intelligence and effectively dialoged and staged. . . . I should think that Edison Marshall, who wrote the novel on which the movie is based, would be pleased with the piece.

First episodes are laid in Bristol in the early 1800's. . . . Here Sir Arthur Blake discovers Ben in the gun shop of old Amos Kidder. . . . Ben is said to be the son of Sir Arthur's brother and Kidder's daughter, who had run away to India and died there. Since that time Kidder had taken care of the lad—making no claim to the Breetholm estates. . . . [By rights Ben should be lord of Breetholm, but there's no proof his parents had been legally married.]

Sir Arthur, wanting the lad where he can keep an eye on him, takes him away from Kidder and makes Ben his bond servant. . . . He treats the boy with brutality, despite the protests of his wife, and consigns him to the stables. . . . Years pass darkly and painfully. . . . Ben dares to express love for Sir Arthur's daughter and is beaten so cruelly that he runs away. . . . Assisted by a kindly bar maid, he obtains passage on a ship bound for the South Seas. . . . AND—eventually—lands on a certain island, accompanied by one Caleb Green, a sailor, who has befriended him and who asserts that in the waters about that island are many and fabulously large pearls.

The pearls are there and so is Gene Tierney. . . . As there seems no prospect of another ship for many years, Ben marries the lovely South Sea maid—after the South Sea fashion, which doesn't hold good anywhere else—and is quite happy. . . . BUT—he yearns for England and Sir Arthur's daughter. . . . Comes a boat. . . . He returns. . . . Lots happens. . . . BUT—where—and with whom—do you think the narrative leaves its hero?

Very nice work by all the headliners—tho I do NOT like them to make a sadist out of that Mister George Sanders! Nor, I think, will most of his admirers care for him in such a rôle.

See you tomorrow.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

—By WYNN—

Saturday, Jan. 31.

Pick your way carefully today, mentally, emotionally, and physically, for there are numerous pitfalls to avoid. Take nothing for granted; check motive well before acting or deciding; postpone if possible; avoid oppositions in evening.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from anniversary today is expansive, emotional, creative, promising, especially if willing to recognize needed changes. Personal progress due if you work for it. Danger: June 16-July 1; Nov. 10-18.

Tomorrow.

Routine; rest if possible—Without worrying.

Looking at Hollywood

—By John Chapman—

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 30.—Figure on Paul Muni for Columbia's film version of "The American Way." Fredric March who did the stage version in New York, is in the running, as are Jim Cagney and

W. C. Fields objects to Boomer.

Bill Thompson, who is Boomer.

Gary Cooper; but Muni, who hasn't worked since "Hudson's Bay," is the best bet of the moment. . . . Every week, almost, W. C. Fields writes an insulting letter to the Fibber McGee and Molly program, complaining that its comedy character, Boomer [played by Bill Thompson] is a copy of Bill Fields. The young actor who plays Boomer maintains that the Fields' voice and delivery were invented by another comedian long before Fields got into show business. . . .

Lawrence Palumbo, a New York reader, suggests that "He Kissed the Bride," which Columbia first slated for the late Carole Lombard and which now has Joan Crawford in the lead, be shown around the country as a defense bond drive. Patrons would pay for their tickets in defense stamps and theater staffs would get their wages in stamps. Or the same setup could be made for Miss Lombard's last and yet-to-be-released film, "To Be Or Not To Be." It's not a bad idea—but it wouldn't work. If it were tried, the movies would be accused of attempting to make capital—or at least publicity—out of the Lombard tragedy.

When Damon Runyon came out to RKO to produce a yarn of his, first known as "Little Pinks" and now titled "It Comes Up Love," everybody figured Damon would pick a hot director. With $700,000 or a million to spend, he might as well engage a Bill Hawks or a George Marshall or whomever. But instead Runyon has chosen a 34 year old, Irving Reis, who isn't hot at all—yet. He took Reis partly because he is a born New Yorker, and "It Comes Up Love" is about New York.

So Reis gets a break—and he gets it because he went after it fairly deliberately. In the beginning, Irving was a radio man, writing and directing air shows. He helped start the Columbia workshop. He went to England and saw there how far ahead they were in television. Returning, he figured he'd better find out more about visual entertainment; so, for less money but with great hope, he took a writer-director contract at Paramount.

Paramount used Reis as a writer but never as a director. So he switched over to RKO for less money yet because here he was told he could direct pictures. He staged recent issues of George Sanders' "Falcon" series—strictly B stuff. Now Runyon has chosen him for an A film, and already Irving and a camera unit are on their way to New York to make background shots.

Rated the funniest scene shot at Paramount in some time is the skating routine Bob Hope does with a penguin in "My Favorite Blonde." Hope and the penguin are dressed alike—in tails of course. Bob's coattails are wired so they will stick out, and he wears a false nose and carries a cane. On the end of the cane is a fish which the penguin follows—which makes the bird do the same routine Bob does. At the end Hope drops his cane and bows. The penguin goes for the fish—and this makes the penguin bow, too.

After months of chasing correspondents to Glendale, Long Beach and wherever to catch previews, the studios have gone back to the old system of showing pictures close by in Hollywood, Beverly and Westwood. Ostensible reason is that correspondents won't have to put wear on their auto tires. Actual reason is that nobody liked going to Glendale, Long Beach and wherever in the first place. The battle with traffic often soured a reporter on a movie before it ever began.

Rosary Alumnae Luncheon.

The Chicago chapter of the Rosary College Alumnæ association will meet for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today at the Kungsholm. Miss Mary Jane O'Shea will preside over the meeting, for which Mrs. Lawrence A. Barrett is making arrangements.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Just out of curiosity I looked thru a day's recipe contest mail to determine where the letters were coming from. I found 13 states represented, plus Washington, D. C., and Vancouver, British Columbia.

Most of the mail, naturally enough, comes from Chicago and Illinois, but Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Iowa seem to be furnishing a high proportion. Other states include Ohio, Tennessee, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Montana, Arkansas, and New York. By the way, it is not true, as one New Yorker feared, that there is any bar to residents of New York City. We don't care where you live. If you have a good recipe, you are eligible to enter this contest.

HOW TO ENTER PRIZE RECIPE CONTEST.

1. Write or type your best recipe [the one your family and friends like you to use] legibly, in standard recipe form [ingredients listed in order of use].

2. Give complete, clear directions which could be followed by an amateur. Be sure to give important information, such as number of servings, time for baking, pan sizes, oven temperatures.

3. Send your entry to Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

4. Do not enter more than one recipe a week, PLEASE.

There's a prize of $5 every day for a good recipe. Every prize winner has been thoroly tested by my staff and we know it to be reliable. We've had dozens of letters from delighted homemakers who are finding the prize recipes grand additions to their cookery files.

It is inevitable that among a large batch of contest entries we should find occasional duplicates or similar recipes submitted by several different cooks. The really original, genuinely "different" recipe seems to be rare, if there is such a thing. One woman wrote to us complaining that we had awarded a prize to some one else for her recipe. This, of course, was not true, altho probably the recipes were very much alike. We are sorry it happened, and want to assure all of our readers that there is no discrimination in choosing any recipe, and that all of our entries are given careful consideration as they come in.

There has been a trend recently among contest entrants to call their recipes "victory cake," "victory pie," "victory pudding." I've observed. And I've noticed, too, that there are more and more economical recipes being submitted, fewer of the extravagant kind.

The contest is fun for us, and we hope it is fun for our readers. Prizes will be awarded daily for an indefinite time, so if you fail to win a prize with one recipe, you may try another [possibly even the same one!] later on.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

The daily $5 prize goes this time to Lucille A. Eberhardt, 369 East 20th street, Dubuque, Ia., for her butterscotch almond coffee cake recipe.

Send one of your favorite recipes to Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It may win a prize. If it has an interesting history, tell us about it. Write legibly, in standard recipe form, and give full information on preparation.

BUTTERSCOTCH ALMOND COFFEE CAKE.

[Two large cakes.]
1 cake yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 pint milk, scalded
3 pints flour
4 egg yolks
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons lard
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon mace

Dissolve yeast and sugar in lukewarm water. Add to milk, which has been cooled to lukewarm. Add three cups flour to make sponge. Beat 10 minutes and set aside to rise until double in bulk, about one and one-half hours. Add egg yolks and softened butter and lard; mix well. Add remaining flour, sifted with spices and salt. Knead until elastic. Set aside to rise until double in bulk, about 1 hour. Roll out to fit greased nine inch layer or eight inch square pans. Sprinkle with topping and let rise until double in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees] 30 to 35 minutes.

Topping.
4 tablespoons butter
1 cup brown sugar
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup blanched toasted almonds

Cream butter. Add sugar and flour. Sprinkle over coffee cake and top with finely chopped almonds.

[Save this for your scrap book.]

Press Women's Federation Board to Hold Conference

Some Notes on Activity of the Three Year Old

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Have you accepted some, but been bothered by others, of those things your 3 year old does? And yet do you realize that they are both natural and necessary for him?

The 3 year old is very active physically. He has gained great control and coördination and delights in using both.

He's a pretty big sleeper, sleeping from about 11 to 12 hours a night. And I said about. There will be some variation from day to day. He should, of course, have a daily nap, but if he's beginning to skip his nap, as some do at that age, he should have a rest of at least an hour each day.

There are many things a 3 year old can do, and wants to do, to help himself.

By the time he is 3 a child should have gained both bowel and bladder control. His clothing should be made easy for him to manage on his trips to the bathroom, but there is no need of forcing him to do it all alone. Also, he may need assistance in the night.

As to dressing, well, there is a big difference in the skill required between dressing and undressing. The latter he can do pretty well, but he shouldn't be forced to the former. Lacing and buttoning and other details can be fatiguing if insisted upon. We must remember that it's the fine muscles, those used in small movements and detailed skills, that develop last. And also remember that, wisely reared, children want to help themselves.

Eating skill comes along pretty well at this age, altho it is still slow, and so does the child's ability to wash himself, especially if this is made both convenient [after all, he is little and his reach short], and jolly. Washing-up time and bath time can be fun-times and friendly times.

I could go on and on about the 3 year old, for suddenly his world has become so full of "a number of things." He [or she] loves to "help" with almost everything you are doing. Questions fly and a reason is asked for almost everything. Small hands acquire many new skills, and a low table and chair are almost a "must" for their use. Words have a new charm and are repeated almost as if they were being rolled on the tongue with delight.

A mother with a 3 year old, if she is with hers very much and is truly interested, may be almost awed by the strangeness and spiritual tinge of some of the questions that are asked or perceptive statements made. Imagination runs riot, too.

Music has a charm to soothe [or incite] this far-from-savage breast. And he can really learn to play pretty well with children. O, life is fascinating to a 3 year old. And a 3 year old is fascinating to his mother.

How can you amuse the convalescent child? What is the most difficult age? How may stubbornness be prevented? These and other problems are discussed in "You and Your Young Child," Mrs. Gladys Bevans' latest booklet, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 15 cents; postpaid, 18 cents.

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

In the handwriting of Joseph Szigeti, famous violinist, we find the sharp, vigorous strokes which are so characteristic of those who have reached a peak in perfection of performance thru discipline and long hours of practice. There's the capacity for hard work reflected here. One never sees lazy, sprawling strokes in the writing of those who started out in early youth to form habits of study and work.

In the simple, yet aggressive, sure strokes here we find the reflection of confidence born of long experience, and the sweeping underscore backs this up. And note the lack of softness or waste movement.

The loops have been eliminated, as they usually are from the writing of those who perform with vigorous efficiency. No sloppy performance in this writing!

For Handwriting Analysis send 10 cents (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, together with a sample of handwriting, to Shirley Spencer, Box 116, General Postoffice, New York City. IMPORTANT: Write 25 words and signature in ink.

P. E. O. Chapter to Meet.

Observing educational fund day, Chapter A, Illinois, of the P. E. O. will meet at 12:45 o'clock Monday in the Palmer House. Mrs. Alice Babb Ewing will speak on "P. E. O. Founders and Education."

Dresses in Nautical Mood

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESSES.

Nautical is the word for these two dresses, which are handsome in either woolen or crêpe, or in linens and cottons for the southland. Flyaway sailor collars are authentic trimming on both models, navy emblems decorate the sleeves, and braid is everywhere.

Style No. 2929 is designed for sizes 12, 14 and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, ½ yard of contrasting, 4 yards of braid. Emblem No. 11207 is a separate pattern.

Style No. 2838 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material, 4 yards of braid.

Each of the three patterns cost 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The winter pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

A Neglectful Beau Seldom Worth Tears

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Girls, don't get red-eyed from crying over a neglectful beau. If he didn't give you a present at Christmas time, and made himself scarce around the holiday season, you've the best clew to the way he feels toward you, as well as a definite tip-off on his character.

No matter how much attention he showed you, or how many "sweet nothings" he whispered into your eager ears, if he didn't remember you with some token of his esteem on Christmas day, don't be too eager to go out with him again.

Be a little independent. When he does finally get around to calling you for a date, be nice to him, but refuse the first date with him on the excuse that you have a previous engagement. It will do him good to squirm, and wonder if some other beau is squiring you 'bout.

Of course, this all sounds pretty hard on that beau of yours. It may be that he likes you only as a friend, and doesn't want to convey the impression that he likes you more. He'd be within his rights in not coming around to see you so often, but if you've been guilty of letting him take up too much of your time, to the exclusion of others, then it's your fault that he is treating you with indifference.

Girls are, as a rule, so eager for dates that they let the boys know it. That isn't the way to keep them interested. Boys like to feel that they must work to gain the affections of a girl, and the girl who can be so attractive as a companion that her company is a joy, as well as an ever-present uncertainty, wins popularity.

And there's just one thing about which we'd like to warn you girls. Unless you've been going with a chap long enough to be sure that you're really in love, don't let his leaving for war upset you so emotionally that you go off the deep end and marry him. You can do him more good by letting him know you admire and respect him, and are looking forward to seeing him when he comes marching home again.

New Crocheted Hats Colorful, Tricky Affairs

BY REA SEEGER.

Hat makers must have been having themselves a merry time with the click of crochet needles for much of the new stuff round the shops is of crocheted designs. And they're handsome examples of what can be achieved with a crochet needle, some tricky stitches and plenty of yarn and thread. You will find very smart ensembles of hat and matching bag in beige color, the bags covered in crocheted designs over blending colored covers. The half moon or half circle models are the most numerous, and can be carried easily under the arm or in the hand.

There's a delightful hand craft look to these crocheted affairs, wide lacey effective patterns and shallow scalloped edges. High hats, wide brimmed face-framing hats, all feature the handmade look, but they're not to be attempted by amateurs. They can't be whipped up at home even tho you are an accomplished crocheter. It takes something additional in the way of deft fingers, extra foundation tubing to fashion any of these smart models. Some are smoothly made of concentric circles of round braid crocheted together into wide brimmed models. The small high hats are made in pretty much the same rather involved manner, so leave it to the hat experts if you want the right fashion effect.

The colors are ravishing! There are soft blues, dove grays, water colors in pink, green, mauve, yellow, and blue, brilliant shades of emerald, flame and copper, for a splash of head color ready for immediate wear.

The subtle neutral tints of beige and grege are particularly smart with navy, brown, and black outfits. Most of the crowns and some of the brims are easily dipped, curved, and turned to the most advantageous flattery around your own headline, but there's nothing squashy or dull about a single creation.

Thru the Looking Glass

A night and day program for hand care is made a little easier—and less expensive—to follow if you arm yourself with a pair of good hand groomers that are now to be found on most of the cosmetic counters.

We all know that spasmodic coddling of our hands doesn't do much good. It's the consistent intelligent care that keeps them youthful and beautiful. With hand skin, as with almost everything else, frantic efforts to erase the toll of neglect aren't nearly as effectual as pursuit of an easy, quick but regular program that compensates for wear and tear from day to day.

One of the pair of around the clock beautifiers is a cream, to be applied at night when you have a little free time to work it in or can perhaps leave it on until morning. The other is a lotion to be used after each hand washing or before you go out in the cold.

You have a choice of two lotions; if you want one that protects and lubricates you'll want the gardenia scented one, creamy but not greasy, that leaves a thin protective film and can—and should—be used several times a day. The other lotion is a refreshant, to be used after massage.

The cream, for night use, is rich and thick, balm for hand skin that's inclined to roughen and crack. It should be massaged in well and left on as long as possible. Apply it generously and if you can, slip loose cotton gloves over the cream coat so that it can do its softening and oiling job for the eight hour stretch.

Sweater with a Yoke

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Knitted sweaters with yokes may be either of one or contrasting materials. The sleeves may be short or the long, pushed up type, which is a favorite with the collegians. The ribbing is easy to do and the only opening is at the neck. With the long torso effect, the sweater may be worn with or without a belt.

For instructions in knitting the ribbed sweater with contrasting yoke, No. 1002, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

An expert's strongest weapon, and the one that can get him out of many a difficulty, is the squeeze play. Very often, however, the success of this play depends on an apparently unimportant discard by the defenders. East learned that lesson at great cost in the following hand.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

NORTH
♠ A 8
♥ Q 10 9 6
♦ K 6 5
♣ A Q 10 4

WEST
♠ K 5 3
♥ 7
♦ A Q J 9 8 3

EAST
♠ J 9 7 4 2
♥ 5 4 3
♦ 7 4 2
♣ 8 5

SOUTH
♠ Q 10 6
♥ A K J 8 2
♦ 10
♣ 9 7 3 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	3 diamonds
4 hearts	Pass	5 hearts	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Needless to say, the final contract was extremely optimistic, South's five heart bid, especially, having been far out of line.

West opened the diamond ace and continued with the queen. Dummy's king was played, declarer discarding a spade, and a low heart was led to the eight spot. Then declarer led a club and, when West played low, finessed the 10 spot. When it held, things looked a little brighter, but not much. East's remaining trumps were drawn in two rounds, and another club finesse was taken thru the king-jack. On the fourth round of clubs East made what appeared to be an unimportant discard. Actually, it was a fatal one. He let go the seven of diamonds! Declarer then reëntered his own hand by leading dummy's last trump, and cashed his own last trump. West, having to reduce to two cards [declarer's were the Q-10 of spades] was now forced to blank the spade king in order to keep a diamond over dummy's six spot. Dummy thereupon let go the diamond six. Declarer led the spade 10, captured West's king with dummy's ace, and cashed his own spade queen for the fulfilling trick.

If East had held on to that anemic looking diamond seven, the squeeze never could have been applied to West. At the point where declarer cashed his last trump, West would have been able to let go his last diamond in order to keep the K-5 of spades. East then would merely follow dummy's discard, that is, if dummy let go the diamond six, East would let go the seven; if dummy blanked the spade ace, East would blank the spade jack and hold the diamond seven.

Again I say, watch your discards!

JURY INDICTS 26 IN POLICY RINGS; HAIL PRECEDENT

Accused of Conspiracy to Injure Public Morals.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

First results of the grand jury's investigation of policy gambling came yesterday when an indictment was returned against 26 persons accused of conspiracy to do an act injurious to public morals—a crime punishable by a sentence of one to five years in prison.

Rudolph Dvorak.

The indictment, handed to Chief Justice Robert Jerome Dunne of the Criminal court, was the first of its kind ever voted here. It was hailed as a precedent which may be applied against the slot machine syndicate and the horse race gambling racketeers.

Twenty colored men, three colored women, and three white men were named by the jurors as the kings and queens of the policy rackets. Church and civic leaders say these rackets have squeezed $10,000,000 a year from Chicago's Negroes.

The grand jurors acted after spending four weeks in questioning witnesses concerning the activities of the big policy operators. It was the last day of the jury's service. The investigation is to be continued before the February grand jury, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney announced.

Those named in the indictment are Leon Motts, Henry Young, Charles Farrell, Julian Black, manager of Joe Louis, world's champion pugilist; Robert Jones, Julius Benvenuti, Ed White, Peter Tremont, Pat Manno, alias Manning; Edward Jones, McKissack McHenry Jones, George Jones, Iley Kelly, Mrs. Butler Coleman, Mrs. Leslie Williams, Bill Bryant, Allen Brown, John Gatewood, Earl White, Pop Lewis, Reuben Black, James Knight, Frank [Beans] Young, James Martin, Matthew Bivens, and Ann Rowan. All except Benvenuti, Tremont, and Manno are colored.

Calls Brothers Millionaires.

Rudolph W. Dvorak, assistant operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, said the three Jones brothers, Edward, George, and McKissack McHenry, are millionaires as a result of the nickles and dimes they took from Negroes of the poorer classes.

Iley Kelly was another of the south side racketeers who amassed fortunes from the racket, Dvorak said. On the west side James Martin was the most powerful Negro. He had powerful political connections and for a number of years appeared to dominate the police of the Warren avenue district, Dvorak charged.

Tremont and Benvenuti, white men, were believed to be connecting links between the policy rackets and the big time gambling syndicate headed by Jack Guzik of Capone gang memory, according to Dvorak.

The grand jury investigation of syndicate operations was undertaken in November after THE TRIBUNE published record sheets showing the organization's actual profits for one month and indicating that annual profits ran into the millions.

Payments for Protection.

The Rev. Joseph M. Evans, pastor of the Metropolitan Community church, 4106 South Park way, told the grand jury it was generally understood that each wheel paid $250 a week for protection. He said there were 42 wheels in operation up to the beginning of this year.

The evidence was presented to the grand jury by First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley, assisted by William Crawford. They are expected to act for Courtney in the trial.

Bail was fixed at $5,000 for each defendant. None was taken into custody yesterday. Most of the owners of policy wheels fled the city when the inquiry started early in the month. Motts was the only one found by subpena servers and he refused to sign an immunity waiver, so was not questioned in the jury room.

It was believed most of those indicted would now return and surrender. Edward Jones, however, is at present in a federal prison serving a sentence for income tax fraud. His brothers, George and McKissack, escaped prison thru a compromise under which the three brothers paid $490,000 in settlement of the government's claim.

Complaint Against Policeman.

While the jurors were filing their true bill, Police Commissioner Allman acted against the first policeman involved in the gambling inquiry. He suspended Sergt. Tom Lee, formerly of the morals squad, which had been charged with suppressing gambling of all kinds.

The suspension of Sergt. Lee followed a complaint against him by the December grand jury. He and his superior, Capt. Martin McCormick, were questioned several times concerning handbooks.

"The order of suspension comes as a surprise," said Sergt. Lee, who is 48 years old and has been a policeman since 1919. "When I was on the morals detail I was a squad leader. I always did my work and followed orders."

Jury Hears 300 Cases.

The January grand jurors had an exceptionally busy month. They heard 300 cases and voted 239 indictments. They ordered the arrest of Bud Lieberman, a slot machine vendor at 831 Washington boulevard, after they were informed he had altered his books Thursday night to show that slot machines seized by Chicago avenue police had been sold to Arthur Coughlin, 2406 McLean avenue.

Coughlin testified he was employed by Lieberman and that the machines were Lieberman's. The jury recommended that the February jury consider action against Lieberman.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

THE QUESTION.

What is the most patriotic act that can be performed by those who stay at home?

WHERE ASKED.

Rand-McNally building, 538 South Clark street.

The Answers.

Mrs. Helen Delaney, secretary, 5334 Kenmore avenue—If we'd religiously practice every form of economy in the kitchen we could call ourselves real patriots. I mean economy in cooking and also in the use of metal pots and pans. We can't go wrong by carrying those ideas to extremes.

Richard Olsen, geographic assistant, 4447 Meade avenue—Think of the heaps of materials we would have for making defense products if we would all save the vital waste materials. The aluminum roundup is a good example. But it takes everybody's cooperation and we as individuals could see to it that we did our share

Jean Stevens, artist, 1715 South 9th avenue, Maywood—We civilians should try to realize that regardless of how great or how many sacrifices we may make here, they are trivial compared to the ones the boys over there are making. We should strive to do our share willingly and pleasantly.

Mrs. Henry O. Kohler, author, 6043 University avenue—I think we could eliminate much waste motion and time if we could fit ourselves into the individual positions in the defense program for which we are best suited. If it's knitting—knit. If it's organizing first aid groups—organize.

M. L. Friedlander, salesman, 585 Prospect avenue, Elmhurst—If every one at home keeps up the good work of selling and buying defense bonds they'll be doing more to help themselves and their country than anything. It will all be pooled for one purpose and we all know what that is.

Rudolph Bubenick, bookbinder, 3615 Wenonah avenue, Berwyn—There are many little things we can do to keep up the morale of the boys in service. We should swamp them with letters and gifts and encouragement. That's a small task and a pleasant one compared with the one they're doing for us.

G. O. P. TO STUDY LOCAL OFFICES SLATE TUESDAY

The semi-official slate of Republican candidates for local offices will be submitted next Tuesday for approval of the party's county organization.

County Chairman John T. Dempsey announced last night that the list of 46 entries for county, sanitary district, and Municipal court offices will be presented at 3 p. m. that day at an informal conference of all ward and township committeemen. It was a similar gathering of the 80 party officials which two weeks ago took caucus action on the appointment of a subcommittee on candidates which is winding up its work.

Dempsey said the list will be held open until Tuesday for possible changes.

BARE GAMBLING OF BROTHER HELD IN GIRL'S SLAYING

Uncover Checks Showing $1,570 Losses in Year.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 30 [Special].—High gambling losses incurred by George W. Welsh Jr. were disclosed today by authorities investigating the mutilation and slaying of his sister, Leila, for whose murder he is under indictment.

Twenty-one uncashed checks totaling $1,570 written by Welsh were found in the safe deposit box of the late Dale Hopper, who operated the Dierks Smoke Shop, a place Welsh was known to have frequented.

Welsh's attorney, Forest W. Hanna, explained that the checks were written in payment of gambling losses, "playing dice, among other things."

Drawn Over Year's Period.

The largest of the checks, all made out to cash, was for $254 and was dated Aug. 20, 1938. The smallest, for $10, was dated Aug. 3, 1939.

Police made copies of the checks and asserted that a thoro investigation of them will be made.

Welsh, 28 years old, was arrested Wednesday as the result of an inquiry by a special grand jury into the mystery surrounding the slaying of his sister, four years his junior, on March 9, 1941. Until the brother's arrest, there had been no hint that authorities had changed their original theory that the slayer was a sadistic intruder.

Assail Reed's Conduct.

The grand jury yesterday reported that former Chief of Police Lear B. Reed had information 13 days after the girl's death positively identifying her brother as the purchaser of a knife with which her throat was cut, but had not made this information public. The jury did not lodge a formal charge against Reed, now general auditor of Montgomery Ward & Co. in Chicago, but asserted he had concealed evidence and obstructed other authorities investigating the murder case.

Young Welsh was visited in a private room of the sheriff's office yesterday by his mother, Mrs. Marie Welsh, and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fleming. They brought him cigarets, cards, pajamas, toilet articles, and reading matter.

LOUISE BUSCHNER.

The greatest joy of Kurt Buschner's home life was listening to radio serials, his wife, Louise, 23 years old, 260 West Marquette road, told Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch yesterday. Not only that, but he demanded silence so absolute that he would send their son, Ronald, 3, to bed, and grew angry if she rustled a newspaper during the program. Once, she said under questioning by her attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, she rustled one accidentally and Kurt struck her. She was awarded a divorce and $15 weekly support for the child.

U. OF M. REGENTS PUSH PLANS FOR 3 TERMS A YEAR

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 30 (AP).—The University of Michigan board of regents today ordered its war committee to proceed with plans to place the university on a three-terms-a-year basis.

The university's aim, the regents said, will be "to offer training related to national or state defense and to aid those who desire to accelerate their collegiate training." The university now operates on a two-semester basis, with courses also offered during the summer.

Athletic officials announced that when the university adopts the three-term plan the athletic department will proceed with plans already formulated to continue intercollegiate athletics thruout the year.

MAYOR REQUESTS SURVEY OF MEN ON RELIEF ROLLS

Workers Needed by City to Collect Paper.

Chicago relief authorities will be asked to survey the relief rolls again to make certain that all able bodied men on the lists are working, Mayor Kelly said yesterday.

His statement followed an announcement by George J. Klupar, relief administrator, on Thursday that enough men are not available to conduct a house to house drive to salvage waste paper.

"Some 60,000 tons of paper are destroyed in Chicago every month—paper that is badly needed in the nation's rearmament effort," the mayor said.

Wardens to Be Named.

"The fact that these people are on relief has little bearing on this case," Mayor Kelly continued, "but any one with time on his hands should jump at the chance to do something for his country."

He added that pending a sustained house to house salvage campaign, block captains will be ordered to make paper collections one of the first "orders of the day." Salvage wardens will be appointed in each block to see what can be done about gathering the average of 10 pounds of paper a week now destroyed in each household.

Proceeds Will Go to City.

Under the salvage plan presented to Klupar, relief clients would make a weekly call at each household. The accumulation of paper would be gathered by city employés under the direction of Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, and the proceeds would go to the city treasury.

Hewitt had asked for 600 men from the relief rolls to collect the paper. Klupar said that present assignments absorb all of the relief clients classified as able to work.

State Rep. Ernest A. Greene [1st district] was elected chairman yesterday of a recently appointed state commission to study urban living conditions of the Negro population.

TWO CONFESS PART IN 1933 KILLING; PUT BLAME ON COMPANION

Elmer Lind, a music teacher from Rockford, was shot and killed when he resisted robbery by three men near 4625 North Hamilton avenue in April, 1933. No clew to the identity of the killers was found until a few days ago, when Detectives Ralph Miller and Dwight Webb of the Racine avenue station questioned two men who admitted yesterday that they participated in the crime.

The confessed robbers are Walter Dade, 30 years old, who is in the Bridewell for robbery, and John Schwitzenberg, 27, of 1633 Julian street, who once served a term in Joliet for robbery. They said a companion fired the fatal shots.

Lind, 25 years old, at the time was sitting in a car with his fiancée, Miss Helen Davis, when the robbers approached, ordered him out, and shot him. Miss Davis now lives at 2317 Rosemont avenue. The detectives' attention was directed to Dade by Francis Holleran, who was arrested Jan. 22 as a fugitive from Joliet prison. Holleran, who fled the penitentiary last November, admitted that he hated Dade because, he said, the latter was paying attentions to Mrs. Holleran.

DR. SCHAFFNER DENIES PART IN FATAL ABORTION

Dr. Nathaniel H. Schaffner, 53 years old, yesterday denied performing an abortion on Mrs. Emma Laisure, 27, of 6144 North Hoyne avenue, last July 7. He is on trial before a jury and Chief Justice R. J. Dunne of the Criminal court on a charge of murder by attempted abortion.

Dr. Schaffner said that Mrs. Laisure's husband had asked him to perform the operation for $40, but that he refused. Later, he said, she came to his office in great pain, but before he could make an examination, she died. Because her husband failed to return to the office, Dr. Schaffner said he took the body to the Laisure home.

Witnesses for the state testified that Mrs. Laisure died after Dr. Schaffner had tried to perform an abortion. Her death was attributed to shock.

CLOSES CAREER OF ONE MILLION ANSWERS TODAY

Railway Information Man Tells Bureau's Growth.

W. G. Davidson, who has answered more questions than all the radio quiz program conductors put together ever asked, is retiring today—his 69th birthday—as manager of the information bureau in the Union station.

W. G. Davidson.

Davidson, a slim, gray man who has been a railroader for more than 40 years, figures that he's answered about a million questions, most of them correctly. In 1925 he took charge of the information bureau and actually put wheels under some of the answers.

"In those days," Davidson said yesterday, "the bureau consisted of four or five men, a couple of desks, a handful of time tables and a vest pocket file of freight rates. Now look at it."

Use 600 Feet of Maps.

Now the bureau is a huge department. A dozen phone girls sit at long rows of desks, each pigeonholed with reams of time table information. Across these desks is a network of toy railroad tracks over which run files on roller bearings of more information. Six hundred feet of maps and charts that operate on pulleys show every railroad station in America, including the whistle stops. The walls are covered with blackboards chalked with train schedules. One file alone lists 3,000 sleeping car fares from Chicago to points in every state and Canada.

Davidson and his staff answer 6,000 questions daily. He sits at a desk with a top that can be flipped over with a push of the fingers to reveal more charts of tariff rates. This desk is Davidson's own invention.

Expects to Be Busy with Hobby.

Davidson, who lives at 1552 East 61st street, spent part of the day yesterday answering questions about himself.

Q.—What are you going to do after retirement? A.—Pursue my hobby. I've kept it a secret for 16 years.

Q.—What is it? A.—Geography. I know the capital of every state in the union and every province in Canada. I used to know the capital of every country in Europe, but what good is that? They change too often these days.

Q.—What's the silliest question you have had to answer? A.—The question by the person who asked: "When is the next train to Chicago?" The next silliest, I think, is the question: What's the fare to the west?

Q.—Have you any other plans for the future? A.—Yes. From now on I'm going to ask the questions—even if I know the answers.

John L. Fenn Is Promoted to Division Fire Marshal

Battalion Chief John L. Fenn of the fire department was promoted yesterday to division fire marshal to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Division Marshal Matthew Sweeney. Capt. Edward L. Walsh was promoted to battalion chief to replace Fenn. Two firemen were promoted to lieutenants and 30 were transferred.

LOYOLA, DE PAUL MEET BRADLEY, KANSAS TONIGHT

Chicago Five Faces Indiana on Midway.

College Basketball

GAMES TONIGHT.
Big Ten Conference.
Indiana at Chicago.
Purdue at Ohio State.
Minnesota at Michigan.
Other Games.
Marquette at Notre Dame.
Great Lakes at John Carroll.
Channute Field at Butler.
Bradley vs. Loyola in Chicago Stadium.
Kansas vs. De Paul in Chicago Stadium.
North Park at George Williams.

Monmouth at Beloit.
Michigan State at Detroit.
Wheaton at Nyack, N. Y., institute.
De Kalb at Elmhurst.
Nebraska at Iowa State.
Yale at Princeton.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The University of Kansas, defending basketball champion in the Big Six conference, faces De Paul university tonight in the first game of the double header, in the Stadium. Bradley Tech, perennially one of the better teams in Illinois, is Loyola's opponent in the second game.

While attention is focused on the west side games, Indiana university, which is fighting for a first division berth in the Western conference race, invades the south side to play the University of Chicago. Two other games will be played in the Big Ten and they are of equal importance.

Purdue at Ohio.

Purdue, now with the handicap of two defeats, plays Ohio State in Columbus and Minnesota, victor over the Boilermakers last Monday, meets Michigan in Ann Arbor. Another outstanding game in the midwest is the clash between Marquette and Notre Dame on the latter's court.

De Paul used only eight players against Long Island university last Saturday and apparently Coach Bill Wendt will follow the same plan tonight against Kansas. De Paul's one point victory over Long Island accented the Blue Demons' record since Long Island returned east to whip the West Texas State Teachers who earlier had beaten De Paul. The Teachers' only other defeat was marked up by Bradley, which indicates the job Loyola will have tonight. Bradley has won nine games since losing its first three.

Kansas Has Quite a Record.

Kansas has won six of seven games and holds second place in its conference race. The Jayhawkers have three regulars from last year's squad. Best of the newcomers is Charley Black, who has averaged 12 points a game. Kansas' average score this season is 48 points.

While Loyola now has won 12 of its 15 games, two defeats have been suffered in the Stadium. Toledo won last Saturday and Colorado took an earlier game.

The first game tonight will start at 8:15.

Indiana should be able to record its first conference victory en tour. The Hoosiers have won three games at home and lost three away from the home court. Chicago, which suffered its 23d consecutive Big Ten defeat last Monday night, probably cannot upset Indiana this evening.

Buckeyes Seek Balanced Record.

John Logan and Ralph Hamilton are probable choices by Coach Branch McCracken to start at forward. Ed Denton was to be the starting center, but was called home because of a death in his family. Capt. Andy Zimmer will replace him. Irvin Swanson and Dick Whittenbracker, a sophomore, will be guards. Indiana defeated Chicago in the final game of the 1941 campaign, 49 to 33.

Ohio State will have one change in its lineup as the Buckeyes try to pull up to a .500 average in the conference. Jack McLain will start at center. Bud Wise, who made his first start of the season last week against Iowa, and Fred Miller will be the forwards. Capt. Jack Graf and Max Gecowets will be the guards.

Gophers Win First.

Minnesota took the first game of the series with Michigan, 44 to 32, to mark up one of Michigan's six conference losses. The Wolverines have won two games, beating Ohio State a week ago, 53 to 39. This was on Michigan's floor, so it may be that the Wolverines can upset the Gophers. Minnesota now is the second place conference team.

Lineups of games in Chicago follow:

NATION'S FINEST SKATERS TO BID FOR TITLES TODAY

Big Chicago Delegation in La Crosse Meet.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 30 [Special].—Advent of colder weather cheered some 200 skaters who were gathering here today to compete tomorrow and Sunday in the National outdoor speed skating meet on the lagoon rink in Pettibone park.

After a low temperature last night of 36 degrees, hopes of any record breaking performances dimmed, but weather reports indicated the temperatures would drop and provide ideal skating weather.

Pete Miller of Chicago, president of the Amateur Skating union and former coach of the United States Olympic team and Chicago CYO squad, headed a delegation of more than 100 skaters, officials, and spectators who arrived from Chicago on a special train early this afternoon.

Officials Get Together.

Officials met tonight to organize heats for tomorrow's races, which probably will include 19 finals. Eighteen finals are slated for Sunday's program.

Ken Bartholomew of Minneapolis and Carmelita Landry of Fitchburg, Mass., defending champions, head the record field.

Chief opposition to Bartholomew, national champion two of the last three years, is expected to come from Ted Ellenwood of Amsterdam, N. Y., winner of the last two eastern states events, and Vic Ronchetti of Chicago, national champion in 1938.

Chicago Girl Is Threat.

The most serious threat to Miss Landry's supremacy in the senior women's event is expected to come from Eleanor Theil Dyer of Chicago, 1938 North American champion; Louise Herou and Martha Ryan, Minneapolis; Elaine Bogda Gordon of Chicago, and Shirley Klaris, aircraft plant worker from Hollywood, Cal.

Other champions who will defend their laurels are: Intermediate girls, Audrey Naas, Minneapolis, and Betty Knapp, St. Paul, co-champions; junior boys, Don Fahrenbach, Chicago; junior girls, Phylis Nelson, Minneapolis; juvenile boys, Don Laser, Chicago; juvenile girls, Virginia Mazeta, Chicago; midget boys, Glenn Chadima, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Lloyd Lundeen, Minneapolis, co-champions; midget girls, Garcia Rogers, Cleveland, O.

Shirley Flies In.

Miss Klaris, former Chicago CYO skater, came to La Crosse by airplane from Hollywood. She was Illinois state indoor champion in the intermediate class last year.

Chicago skaters who will compete:

SENIOR MEN—Vic Ronchetti and Steve Gadus, CYO; Don Schiline, Farragut; George Spalten, Joe Kraemer, Marv Thomson, and Bob Heckenbach, Northwest.

SENIOR WOMEN—Elaine Bogda Gordon, Northwest; Bessie Lara, George F. Barrett; Ann Vitaska, CYO; Anne Vynanek, Farragut.

INTERMEDIATE BOYS—Donald Fahrenbach, Frank Berlando, Eddie Planert, CYO; Charles Edwards, Bill Carnduff, Northwest.

INTERMEDIATE GIRLS—Shirley Jane Burnett, Northwest; Dorothy Oul and Helen Kastner, Farragut; Helen Welter, CYO.

JUNIOR BOYS—Jerry Fahrenbach and Buddy Solem, CYO; Thomas Chacharon, Northwest.

JUNIOR GIRLS—Luetta Dumes, Virginia Mazzetta, Mary Allen, CYO.

JUVENILE BOYS—Bill Levitus, Peirce playground; Jack Carney, CYO.

JUVENILE GIRLS—Mixie Kitazaki, Northwest.

MIDGET BOYS—Roy Parker, Tom Cerny, Peirce playground; James Hayes, CYO.

MIDGET GIRLS—Rose Marie Fahrenbach, CYO; Joan Musson, Northwest.

Bike Riders Finish Long Grind Tonight

BULLETIN.

Alfred Letourner and Jules Audy lapped the field early this morning and took undisputed possession of first place in Chicago's 44th international six-day bicycle race in the Coliseum.

Four teams were tied for first place in Chicago's 44th International six day bicycle race after another evening of jamming in the Coliseum last night. The race will close at midnight tonight. Sharing the lead were Charles Bergna and Angelo De Bacco, the New Jersey team; Cecil Yates and Doug Peden, the American team; Torchy Peden and Charley Yaccino, the United States Army team, and Alfred Letourner and Jules Audy, the Red Devil team.

In the last hour of the race tonight there will be a sprint every mile for points. They will be scored as follows: 72 for first, 4 for second, 2 for third, and 1 for fourth.

To Make Up Time.

In case of a spill or an accident in the final hour, time will be taken out and added after 12. If two or more teams are tied for first place, the race, will be decided on points, but if one team should gain a lap, it would win the race, distance being the deciding factor and not points.

Twenty laps were gained last night in the wild jamming, bringing the total for the week up to 141 laps. Letourner and Audy held first place in the grind for almost 24 hours, but, shortly after 9 o'clock, Peden and Yaccino dashed away to get a lap. They had caught the tail end of the field, when Bergna tumbled into the saucer, stopping the racing, but the referee awarded the Peden-Yaccino team a lap.

The Jamming Goes On.

Shortly afterward, De Bacco and Bargna rode the field dizzy to gain a lap. Then Yates, the fastest starter in the race, saw an opening and jumped the field, Doug Peden picked him up and soon they had gained a lap to make it a four way tie.

One of the biggest crowds of the week saw three spectacular spills. Bergna went down in the first to be followed by Erwin Pesek and Ed Carfagnini.

Torchy Peden has won 37 races, more than any rider in the world, but Yaccino has still to win his first. Torchy is confident he and Charley will lap the field before the final hour and win the race by a lap.

Letourner is the real veteran of the race. He has won 25 races and his partner, Audy, has won 14.

GRAF WILL GET TRIBUNE SILVER AWARD MONDAY

Columbus, O., Jan. 30 [Special].—Plans have been completed by Ohio State athletic officials for the presentation Monday of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S 1941 most valuable football trophy to Jack Graf, full back on the Buckeye team.

The presentation will be made between halves of the basketball game between Ohio State, which is captained by Graf, and Indiana. Wilfrid Smith of The Tribune sport staff will present the trophy.

Participating in the event will be Athletic Director L. W. St. John and Football Coach Paul Brown.

In commenting on the affair and Graf's winning of the award, Director St. John said today; "I don't know of a more deserving boy for such an honor. He's a hard worker, a clean player and a hard fighter. You'll go a long way to find another like him."

SHIFT HARVARD, YALE BOAT RACE FOR DURATION

New London, Conn., Jan. 30 (AP).—A decision by Yale and Harvard athletic officials to transfer the annual rowing race between the two institutions from the Thames river, New London, to the Housatonic river at Derby, perhaps for the duration of the war, was announced today by F. Valentine Chappell, honorary chairman of the regatta committee.

Present plans call for a distance cut from four to two miles and set the date tentatively for either May 16 or 23.

Chappell said it was agreed that to have the race here would interfere with operation of navy craft on the Thames.

Pastor Beats Gus Lesnevich in 10 Rounds

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—Bob Pastor tonight gave Gus Lesnevich a 10 round boxing lesson in Madison Square Garden.

The ex-New York university football player went a long way toward becoming the first fighter in history to get three shots at Joe Louis by outspeeding and outboxing the light-heavyweight champion from start to finish.

At the windup, Pastor had six rounds, with two for Gus and two even.

Pastor tamed the rugged Russian from Jersey all the way tonight. He was in trouble once—in the sixth round, when a long right made his knees buckle. But he weathered that one, and before the round ended belted Lesnevich into the ropes twice. There were no knockdowns and the only damage was a pair of slashed eyes. Lesnevich had his right eye bruised in the second and gashed in the ninth from slicing lefts. Pastor's left eyebrow was cut in the ninth.

For his victory tonight Pastor will be given serious consideration for a shot at Louis this spring if he can get by Lem Franklin in Cleveland next month. He has had two chances at the Bomber so far, but failed to come close to winning either time.

A crowd of 9,592 paid $20,728 to see the fight. Pastor weighed 183¼; Lesnevich, 181.

BATTLES SOUTH SIDERS FEB. 12 IN COLISEUM

Golden Gloves Field Is Completed.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The north and south sides have their Golden Gloves teams—and now they're heading in toward the Chicago championship tournament, which will be held in the Coliseum on Feb. 12. The north picked its representatives last night in the third consecutive evening of uproarious action in Loyola gymnasium.

Eight open division fighters and eight novices were undefeated when the last blow fell. Now it's up to them to show what they can do in the City tournament. They will go man for man, against the south siders, who emerged from the battles which were waged earlier in the week in St. Sabina's gymnasium.

The north side champions follow:

OPEN DIVISION.
112 POUNDS—Al Noto, CYO.
118 POUNDS—Harold Dade, CYO.
126 POUNDS—Elbert Adams, Savoy A. C.
135 POUNDS—Eddie Miller, CYO.
147 POUNDS—Joe Dugo, CYO.
160 POUNDS—Johnny Johnson, Savoy A. C.
175 POUNDS—Charles Crump, Trafton's gymnasium.
Heavyweight—Hubert Hood, CYO.

NOVICE DIVISION.
112 POUNDS—William Turpel, Lake Bluff.
118 POUNDS—John McMillan, Larrabee YMCA.
126 POUNDS—Robert Sheridan, 7349 North Oakley avenue.
135 POUNDS—Tim Dalton, Chicago Boys' club.
147 POUNDS—Leonard Stalker, Ashland A. C.
160 POUNDS—Harry McIlvoy, CYO.
175 POUNDS—Bernard Neiweem, Winnetka.
HEAVYWEIGHT—John Elwell, 3351 West Adams street.

There's a Lot at Stake.

The south side's representatives emerged at the end of three consecutive evenings of eliminations in St. Sabina's gymnasium, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Every member of that squad showed himself to be a spirited fighter and quite a few also displayed impressive skill and hitting power. In the course of the more recent bouts in Loyola gymnasium, the north siders have performed so well that a bitterly fought ctiy tournament is assured.

The bouts in the Coliseum will do more than decide the city titles. They also will establish the identity of the fighters who will represent Chicago in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 23, 24, and 25. Only eight boys—one in each weight class—will move up to that engagement—so they'll have to be good. In the Stadium they'll encounter the best amateur boxers which can be mustered in all the vast territory where Golden Gloves eliminations are now being conducted.

The Old Navy Spirit.

The United States navy fighters took several beatings in the semi-finals last night but they showed as much spirit in defeat as their rivals did in victory. Frank Rhodes, a middleweight, kept attacking every moment he was on his feet during his bout with Albert Cavanagh. He was knocked down repeatedly, but he kept getting up and going back for more. His seconds eventually got him out of the ring or he would have been at it right to the last bell.

Bernard Neiweem and Paul McCoy, 175 pounders, put on one of the fastest bouts of the semi-finals. The punching proceeded at the rate of a blow per second as long as it lasted. After Neiweem had knocked his adversary down twice, however, Referee Johnny Behr stopped it.

Cramer Whips Edwards.

The navy came back powerfully when Larry Cramer punched out a decision over Bishop Edwards of the Savoy A. C. in a 160 pound open division semi-final. Thruout the three rounds they slugged each other. Neither one paid much attention to defense. Both showed an amazing toughness—an ability to take one wallop on the jaw after another and still

And Now for the All-City Battles

The battle lines are drawn. The 16 best amateur fighters on the south side and the 16 best on the north side have been chosen. The rival teams will meet in the Coliseum the night of Feb. 12 for the Golden Gloves championships of Chicago. If you like a rousing battle, you will want to be there and also at the annual Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 23, 24 and 25. If you would be sure of GOOD seats, order by mail and SOON. The scale of prices:

CHICAGO FINALS, Feb. 12, $1.10 and $1.65.

TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS, Feb. 23 and 24—50 cents, 75 cents and $1.10.

TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS, third night, Feb. 25—75 cents, $1.10 and $1.65.

A Milwaukeean displaced another Milwaukeean as leader in the Petersen Individual Bowling classic when Wallie Sauer rolled a 1,724 total for eight games on last night's opening squad at the Archer-35th recreation center to take the place of Ollie Rogahn. Rogahn had moved into the top spot with a 1,720 score Thursday night.

The only other 1,700-plus score, the third of the tournament thus far, was rolled by Joe Norris of Detroit, and gave Norris third place in the standings. Joe, runner-up in the recent All-Star tournament, knocked down 1,709 pins in touring 16 alleys to complete the eight game assignment.

Fort Sheridan Beaten, 38-29, by Camp Grant

The Camp Grant basketball team last night defeated Fort Sheridan, 38 to 29, in the second game of a charity double header in the Evanston High school gymnasium. Receipts from a crowd of 2,500 benefited Camp Grant, Fort Sheridan, Glenview Naval Air station and the Optimist Club of Evanston, sponsors of the program.

It was Camp Gran't third victory over Fort Sheridan and 11th triumph of the year. The Evanston All-Stars whipped the Glenview Naval Air station in the first game, 24 to 18.

Stan Szukala, former De Paul university and Chicago Bruins star making his first start for Camp Grant, scored two baskets and one free throw. Lineup:

BASEBALL HEADS LEAVE TODAY FOR SPECIAL MEETING

Added Night Games Are Chief Problem.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The "letter" is drawing baseball's important people toward New York today for meetings next Monday and Tuesday which will fashion the pattern for 1942 in the major leagues. The letter is the one written on Jan. 15 by President Roosevelt to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, a 281 word missive in which the President heartily endorsed wartime baseball.

Because his letter contained a suggestion that an increase of night games might be advisable, to permit daytime workers to see an occasional game, the National and American leagues will attack this problem first of all.

All signs point to the American league voting for a 14 game maximum, double the present figure. No such unanimity prevails in the National league. Paradoxically, the night game pioneers, such as Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers and Branch Rickey of the Cardinals, apparently believe that, war or no war, seven games under the lights are enough.

Cubs Favor 7 Game Limit.

The leagues will hold separate meetings Monday, so that the delegates will be completely argued out when Commissioner Landis takes charge of the joint meeting the following day. The White Sox have announced their willingness to go along with the majority. The Cubs are members of the no-more-than-seven-game bloc.

The club owners, league presidents, and Landis doubtless will discuss other problems which have developed as a result of the war. Will Harridge, president of the American league, who will leave today for the meetings, says he believes there will be no necessity for retrenchment.

The New York Yankees struck a popular note when they announced their stadium would be open to service men at all times. The Cubs were among the first big league teams, if not the first, to invite soldiers and sailors to Wrigley field every day except Sunday. The service men came in groups, with one of their own men in charge. The Cubs tried to get the 10 cent government tax lifted without success. The White Sox threw open Comiskey park on the same basis.

Landis to Leave Today.

General Manager Jim Gallagher and Field Manager Jim Wilson of the Cubs will leave today and Owner P. K. Wrigley may follow tomorrow. Harry Grabiner, the sole representative of the White Sox, departed yesterday. Landis and his secretary, Leslie O'Connor, also will leave today.

CAMILLI TO FACE MacPHAIL.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 30 (AP).—Dolph Camilli, the National league's most valuable player of 1941, will talk contract with his boss, the Brooklyn Dodgers' Larry MacPhail, in the club's front office. The two have a date Feb. 16.

Camilli, down to playing weight after riding herd on his 1,700 acre ranch in northern California, believes he has a big season ahead. Moreover the fact that he had a big year in 1941 entitles him to a raise in salary, he believes. But he has received an invitation to talk with MacPhail in the Dodgers' office rather than a contract. And the fact that the club has offered him for sale has been a jolt to his pride.

Ruth's Ready for New Role---in the Movies

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—Babe Ruth, who hasn't been on the back end of a bat in nearly four years, took a few practice swings in his Riverside drive apartment today and pronounced himself ready for his newest rôle as a movie actor.

"I never felt better in my life," said the Babe, who will leave with his wife next week for Hollywood to appear in a picture based on the life of Lou Gehrig.

"I weigh 223 pounds, less than I've weighed in 15 years. If they keep taking all these young kids in the army, I guess I'll have to go back into baseball. That's if I can get some one to run for me."

He's All Better Now.

The former slugger, who came out of an orphans' home and batted his way to the position of baseball's highest paid star with the New York Yankees, started packing for his departure next Thursday, two days before his 48th birthday anniversary.

Ruth said he had recovered completely from his recent breakdown, and to prove it he wrestled the trunks around like the Bambino of old.

Since his illness, he said, he has curtailed his golfing and bowling, but not his smoking.

"I smoke cigars and my pipe all day and night. No cigarets, tho, and no spirits."

Stage Fright? Not the Babe!

Eager to begin work on the picture, in which Gary Cooper will take the part of Gehrig, Ruth said he had no thought of stage fright.

"I'm an old actor from 'way back," he said. "I've made five shorts and I was in two feature-length baseball pictures during the silent films, one with Anna Q. Nilsson. I had the leading part."

But the Babe will balk at make-up—except a little powder. "No eyebrow pencil or any of that other stuff," he declared.

PIRATES SELL KALIN.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 30 (AP).—Frank Kalin of Weirton, W. Va., Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder who played for St. Paul of the American Association last season, was sold today to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league.

Du Sable Loses to Mt. Carmel; Two Overtimes

Mount Carmel High school of the Catholic league defeated Du Sable of the City league, winning 44 to 42, in a double overtime game last night in the Mount Carmel gymnasium before an overflow crowd.

Nat Clifton, playing his final prep game for Du Sable, scored 28 points.

John Kempfer made a basket for Mount Carmel to tie the count at 40 all and send the game into overtime. During the first extra session Clifton and Morris made free throws for Du Sable, but Bill Hacker counted twice from the free throw line to send the game into another extra session.

With about a minute of the sudden death overtime gone Kempfer hooked a shot for the winning margin. Lineup:

SET DATES FOR QUEEN OF ANGELS AAU BASKETBALL

The eighth annual Queen of Angels' AAU basketball tournament will be held Feb. 6 to 22, in Guild hall, 4412 North Western avenue, under the direction of the Rev. John P. Sullivan. The games will be played at night. The tournament, which is expected to draw 32 teams is open to independent, industrial, church, fraternal, and high school teams in and around Chicago.

PLATAK DEFEATS FISKE; RETAINS HANDBALL TITLE

Joe Platak of the Lake Shore club retained his Central AAU state singles handball championship by defeating Russell Fiske of the Medinah club last night on the Midwest Athletic club courts, 21-12, 21-3.

Bill Baier of Division Street YMCA took third place by beating Paddy Cannon of the Midwest A. C., 12-21, 21-20, 21-9.

Honoring a Veteran of Basketball

Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, veteran coach of the University of Kansas basketball team, receives Naismith memorial scroll from the Chicago alumni of the school at a dinner in his honor in the Sweden house last night. The presentation was made by Allen's daughter, Mrs. Elwood R. Mons (left). Harry C. Herman, president of the Chicago chapter of the Kansas alumni, is at the right. The Kansas quintet will meet De Paul in the Stadium tonight.

KANSAS ALUMNI HONOR NAISMITH AND PHOG ALLEN

BY WILLIAM FAY.

A young fellow named Forrest Allen had an offer to coach basketball at the University of Kansas. He asked the late Dr. James A. Naismith, the inventor of basketball, what he thought of the proposition. Naismith, an outspoken Scotsman with a thick burr, roared: "Coach basketball! Why, you bloody beggar, you can't coach basketball—you just play it."

That was 25 years ago. Allen took the job anyway and he has held it ever since. Last night Chicago alumni from Kansas presented this same Forrest Allen with a Naismith memorial scroll. Allen will present the scroll to the university, when he takes his Jayhawker team back home to Lawrence after tonight's game with De Paul in the Stadium.

The Kansas alumni celebration in the Sweden House last night observed the 50th anniversary of the invention of basketball by Dr. Naismith, a member of the Kansas faculty for 41 years.

It Started in 1891.

Dr. Naismith originated basketball as a means of exercise for a class at the YMCA Training School in Springfield, Mass., in 1891. The original basketball rules called for nine men on a side because Dr. Naismith had 18 men in his class.

Altho he invented basketball, Dr. Naismith never coached a team and probably was one of the worst players in the history of the game. "There was a penalty box in the early days—just as in modern hockey—and players who committed a foul spent one minute in the box," Allen recalled last night. "That rule was the downfall of Dr. Naismith. He was a poor dribbler and every time he got hold of the ball, he ran with it. Running was a foul then, too, so the doctor spent most of his playing time in the penalty box."

He Attended McGill.

Dr. Naismith was born in Almonte, Ontario, Nov. 6, 1861. He was graduated from McGill university, Montreal, in 1887 and was director of physical education at the university for three years, transferring to Springfield where he remained until 1895.

He then studied at Gross Medical college in Denver. He was graduated as a doctor of medicine in 1898 and went to Kansas as professor of physical education. He died in Lawrence, Nov. 28, 1939.

MADAME BEY IS DEAD AND RING NOTABLES MOURN

Morristown, N. J., Jan. 30 (AP).—Madame Hranoush Bey, former concert singer who had conditioned boxers for title bouts since 1922 but couldn't bear to see her brawny boys hurt in the ring, died today of a heart ailment.

The cultured widow of a Turkish diplomat was about 60 years of age. She was brought from her training camp in the Chatham township hills to a hospital here Tuesday.

Mme. Bey was born of an Armenian father and French mother. There was a runaway marriage with Sidky Bey, and she joined the Washington society whirl in the gay '90s as the bride of the Turkish embassy secretary.

The World war set the Beys adrift and they tried farming with no success. Then they took over a health farm and a year later converted a garage into a gymnasium. Bey died in 1937.

Parker Five Deals U. High 53-29 Defeat

Francis Parker's heavyweight basketball team yesterday defeated University High, 53 to 29, in a Private School league game in Francis Parker gymnasium. It was the second victory in five games for the Parker quintet. Hugh Simpson and Jerry Wexler led the Parker attack, the former with 19 points and Wexler with 15. Francis Parker also won the lightweight game, 15 to 13.

Luther and Harvard also split a double header on the Harvard court. Capt. Albert Pahr scored seven field goals and three free throws to lead Luther's heavyweights to a 44 to 35 victory. The opener was won by Harvard's lightweights, 31 to 20. Heavyweight lineups:

Oak Park and Evanston Still Tied for Lead

Oak Park and Evanston remained in a tie for second place in the Suburban league heavyweight race with six victories and two losses by chalking up victories last night. Oak Park beat Highland Park, 42 to 25, on the latter's floor, and Evanston broke a 16 to 16 half time tie to pull ahead and win from Proviso, 44 to 29. In another league game Waukegan defeated New Trier, 43 to 33.

CUBAN CAPTURES WINTER YACHT TROPHY EVENT

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 30 (AP).—Kurush II., skippered by Charles de Cardenas of Havana, today won the midwinter challenge trophy of Cuba.

Cardenas is the first Cuban ever to win the trophy, outstanding event of the annual international star class regatta.

After finishing fifth in the morning race, Cardenas clinched the title by easily defeating Harry Nye's Gale, defending champion from the southern Lake Michigan fleet, nor the afternoon event. Nye's craft finished fourth.

John White of the western Long Island sound fleet brought his Shucks in second to Kurush after winning the morning race.

Kurush, victor of the first heat on Tuesday, sailed the final 10 mile triangular course thru moderate seas in unsteady winds in 1 hour 39 minutes 46 seconds.

MILLION DOLLAR LOAN OBTAINED ON APARTMENTS

Cash Advanced on Former Field Property.

BY AL CHASE.

A million dollar loan was made yesterday on the former Marshall Field Garden apartments. It was one of the largest to be negotiated in recent years without federal insurance. Randolph Bohrer, who recently bought the property from the estate of Marshall Field for a reported $1,750,000 obtained the loan from the Travelers' Insurance company of Hartford, Conn.

Bohrer obtained the loan as trustee for the Town and Garden Apartments trust, which holds title to the property. The loan was arranged thru the Republic Realty Mortgage corporation. It was negotiated by A. J. Mesirow and F. Z. Clifford, secretary of Republic.

Extends for 20 Years.

The loan is for 20 years beginning Feb. 1, at 4½ per cent interest. With quarterly interest and principal payments of $19,024, the million dollar loan will be completely amortized by the maturity date, Feb. 1, 1962, it was said.

Speed was a factor in negotiating the loan. An application was made on Jan. 13; a committment was made by the 20th, and the mortgage was filed for record yesterday.

Bohrer, a member of the law firm of Bohrer & Rubin, together with Louis H. Barkhausen, a retired manufacturer, on Jan. 13, bought the Field Garden apartments, built in 1930 at a cost of $6,250,000. The apartments occupy two city blocks bounded by Hudson, Evergreen, Sedgwick, and Blackhawk streets.

New Name Adopted.

The new owners renamed the property the Town and Garden apartments. There are 630 suites in ten separate buildings, of four and five stories, grouped around a central landscaped court two blocks long.

A warranty deed conveying title from the Field estate, represented by Ward Farnsworth, to Bohrer, also was filed for record. Bohrer takes formal possession of the property tomorrow.

CREDIT SURVEY FORECASTS GOOD BUSINESS IN 1942

Most of the business men contacted in a survey by the Chicago Association of Credit Men said they expect business to be good in 1942, the organization reported yesterday. The food processing, wearing apparel, hardware, machinery, printing, steel manufacturing, steel jobbing, miscellaneous manufacturing and miscellaneous wholesale industries were surveyed. The 1942 outlook was termed "excellent" by a few and "poor" by some.

The association said that increases in sales in 1941 over 1940 ranged from 22.2 per cent in food manufacturing and miscellaneous wholesaling to 113 per cent in steel jobbing.

In most cases studied, there were more accounts receivable on the books at the end of 1941 than a year earlier, indicating that payments were slower, the association said. One of the exceptions was the steel manufacturing business, with big gains in sales but fewer receivables at the year-end.

SELECTIVE RISE BY RAILS BOOSTS TRADE IN BONDS

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—Major attention in today's bond market went to a selected group of rails which attracted sufficient support to advance major fractions to more than a point.

The main list of corporates, including industrials and utilities, showed little inclination to get out of the narrow range that has prevailed most of this week and prices continued a bit irregular.

Increased activity in the rails accounted for a moderate pickup in total sales, which amounted to $8,491,800, face value, compared with $7,231,500 on Thursday.

United States government obligations were selectively higher on both the stock exchange and over the counter.

PROFIT OF ROCK ISLAND LINES BEST SINCE 1930

The Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific railroad yesterday reported net income for 1941 was $4,644,583, compared with a loss of $5,604,165 in 1940. The 1941 figure was the largest for any year since 1930, when earnings rose to $7,700,229. December net income was $276,358, against $83,721 in the 1940 month.

Canners and Other Groups Pick Chicago Again for '43

The National Canners' association, the National Food Brokers' association, and the Canning Machinery and Supplies' association informed the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday they will hold their annual conventions here again in 1943. The canners' meeting, largest of all food conventions, has been in Chicago each year since 1928. Conventions of these and some 20 other food groups have been in progress here this week.

OPA HEAD DENIES COFFEE CEILING WILL BE RAISED

Says 'Trade' Attempts to Force Boost.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today accused "trade quarters in New York" of spreading false reports of possible increases in coffee prices, and announced he was prepared to allocate wholesale coffee stocks or license imports if necessary to assure an equitable distribution of supplies.

He declared the government had no intention of increasing its coffee price ceilings and that reports to the contrary were unfounded.

Says Rumors Hamper Trade.

"All such rumors have emanated solely from trade quarters in New York and elsewhere without the slightest official confirmation," he declared. "Nevertheless, they have, by their volume confused the coffee situation and hampered the free flow of supplies."

OPA added that in many instances South American coffee growers had held back coffee from markets in this country, hoping to profit by price increases.

Blames Selfish Motives.

"This too," Henderson's office said in a statement, "is in line with the policy of those originating such rumors, who, for selfish reasons, hope to bring sufficient pressure to bear to force a change in prices, quotas or both."

Henderson announced amendment of coffee price ceilings to permit addition of any increased freight rates or war risk insurance premiums to present maximum prices. The amendment applies only when the total cost of coffee landed in New York exceeds the maximum ceiling.

Report Sale to Army.

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—Dealers reported today that the United States army had bought more than 100,000 bags of coffee in the last few days for shipment out of New York stocks.

NORTH WESTERN PLANS CAR ORDER OF FIVE MILLIONS

Preliminary steps toward acquisition of $5,100,000 of additional equipment to help handle a rising volume of traffic resulting from the war program were taken yesterday by the Chicago and North Western railway.

The road's trustee, Charles M. Thomson, appearing before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, was granted permission to file a petition to buy 500 box cars, 1,000 gondola cars, and 250 at cars. The court set Feb. 9 for a hearing on the petition.

Thomson also was given authority to go before the Interstate Commerce commission to arrange for financing the program. Under the plan, 75 per cent of the purchase price of the 1,750 cars will be covered by equipment trust certificates. Tentative arrangements for manufacture of the equipment were announced by the road.

American Car and Foundry company is to build 500 50-ton box cars at its Chicago plant. Five hundred gondola cars of the 70 ton type will be built by Bethlehem Steel company at Johnstown, Pa., and a similar order will be placed with General American Transportation company to be filled at East Chicago. The flat cars, of the 50 ton type, will be constructed by the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company at Michigan City, Ind.

CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS SET WINTER RECORD

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—Engineering construction awards for the last week totaled $221,694,000, the highest weekly volume since Aug. 7, 1941, Engineering News-Record has reported. The figures topped the preceding week's by 74 per cent and were 124 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year.

Public construction rose 69 per cent above the preceding week and 232 per cent above a year ago. Private awards were 172 per cent higher than in the preceding week but 54 per cent lower than in the 1941 period.

Construction volume for the week with comparisons (last 3 ciphers omitted):

	Jan. 29.	Prev. wk.	Last yr.
Total construction	$221,694	$127,640	$98,834
Private	17,156	6,324	37,199
Federal	187,231	109,717	27,947
State, municipal	17,307	11,599	33,688

The aggregate of construction activity for the 1942 five week period was $628,780,000, an increase of 7.5 per cent over same period last year.

FORMAL CEILING PLACED ON PRICE OF WESTERN ZINC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The government fixed prices today on primary slab zinc on a basis of 8.25 cents a pound F. O. B. East St. Louis, on prime western grade. The ceiling is effective immediately.

An informal price stabilization has prevailed at this level since last Oct. 9, altho for the 12 months before that the price was pegged at 7.25 cents a pound.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson said issuance of the formal price schedule was necessitated by continued reports that some dealers were making sales at prices materially in excess of the informal agreements.

Sales of primary slab zinc to the Metals Reserve company resulting from production in excess of OPA and War Production board quotas are exempt from the fixed price provisions.

War Labor Board Reports Bendix Dispute Settled

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The National War Labor board today announced settlement, subject to ratification by the CIO United Automobile Workers, of the wage and union shop dispute at the Bendix Products division of Bendix Aviation corporation, South Bend, Ind. It declined to reveal terms of the agreement. About 7,600 employés, working on aircraft parts and other military orders, were involved in the dispute.

HENDERSON FIXES RADIO PRICES; PRESIDENT SIGNS CONTROL BILL

Further Increases Are Forecast in Food Costs.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today fixed manufacturers' prices, effective Feb. 9, on home radio and television sets, electric phonographs, and radio tubes and parts. He said it may be necessary to extend the ceilings to both wholesale and retail markets.

Meanwhile, higher prices of food and other necessities were predicted as Henderson prepared to exercise additional economic powers, unprecedented in the history of the country, which were given him earlier in the day when President Roosevelt signed "the emergency price control act of 1942."

With this bill's enactment the administration can fix prices for the whole fabric of the nation's economy, with enforcement backed by penalties ranging to two years' imprisonment and a $5,000 fine.

Aimed to Halt Advances.

Manufacturers' maximum prices, including those on portable and automobile radios and combination radiophonograph sets, were fixed in a step to halt advances resulting from curtailed production.

The war production board recently ordered the radio industry to reduce its civilian output by an average of 40 per cent, preliminary to undertaking military contracts totaling about 2 billion dollars.

The new ceilings provide that manufacturers may charge the highest net price received last Oct. 15, or in the 90 preceding days, for any current model, for tubes, or other parts. Prices on models placed on the market since Oct. 15 and before Feb. 9 must be filed for approval by the Office of Price Administration. No new models may be marketed after Feb. 9 unless the offering price has such approval.

Exempt Commercial Parts.

Equipment and parts designed primarily for commercial, police, or military use—including coin operated phonographs—were excluded from the ceilings. Henderson ordered all manufacturers of radio sets and parts to submit revised price lists to his office by March 15.

Henderson's office said that effects of the price control act would not be immediately noticeable to the public, "since the economic law of supply and demand still functions." Powers of the law will not be invoked on articles whose prices are kept at levels considered reasonable by Henderson, his office reported.

Wages and farm produce prices are exempted from control under the law. The congressional farm bloc qualified the rule over agricultural prices so that the lowest ceiling possible will permit a rise from present prices estimated in legislative debate at 11 per cent.

Forecast Food Cost Hike.

One of Henderson's associates said the exemption from control of wages and farm prices may increase the cost of groceries for the average city family as much as 15 to 20 per cent, if supply should fall below demand. The department of agriculture, in urging farmers to increase production, has predicted America will be called upon to feed much of the world.

The OPA has issued "price schedules" for several commodities, and an attaché said these have been obeyed "fairly well." These schedules will be enforceable orders under the new law, and further orders will be issued as needs develop. Henderson's office was preparing a public statement, probably for release over the week-end, outlining administrative policy.

In addition to authority to fix prices on all commodities sold for personal consumption or use of the buyer, the new statute empowers the administrator to fix rents in "defense areas" to be designated by him.

Buyer, Seller Both Liable.

Incidentally, the buyer as well as the seller is guilty under the law for any violation of a maximum price order.

"The enactment of price control legislation," said President Roosevelt in signing the bill, "does not mean that the battle against inflation has been won. I have doubts as to the wisdom and adequacy of certain sections of the act, and amendments to it may become necessary.

"Moreover, price control legislation alone cannot successfully combat inflation. To do that an adequate tax and fiscal program, a broad saving program, a sound production program, and an effective priorities and rationing program, are all needed."

At a press conference the President was asked who will administer the act. He replied in Latin, "Ecce homo" [behold the man], indicating Henderson, who was standing behind his chair.

Henderson's appointment, under the statute, must be confirmed by the senate.

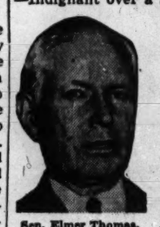
Raps Farm Provisions.

The President, after signing the bill, reiterated his displeasure with its agricultural provisions holding a ceiling described as 110 per cent of parity. Parity is a formula based on the relation of past prices paid and received by farmers. Furthermore, the market price for farm produce must not be below that of Oct. 1, 1941, or Dec. 15, 1941, whichever is higher, or below the 10 year average from 1919 to 1929.

"I feel," said the President, "that most farmers realize that when farm prices go much above parity danger is ahead. One of the best ways of avoiding excessive prices, of course, is abundant production."

Henderson also imposed price ceilings on wire, cable and cable accessories at the price level of last Oct. 15. The schedule, effective immediately, supplants an informal request made to the industry last fall.

IRATE SENATORS CALL WICKARD ON HIS PRICE 'CURBS'



Sen. Elmer Thomas.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 [Special].—Indignant over a speech by Claude R. Wickard, secretary of agriculture, that farm prices should not go above parity, and over a department of agriculture move to halt rising corn and wheat prices, the senate agriculture committee decided today to call Wickard before it in closed session tomorrow to explain his farm price views.

The decision was taken by eight of the 20 members of the committee, who were called by Chairman Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.] to what he termed an "indignation meeting."

This marked a reversal of the farm senators' attitude toward Wickard, who was one of their heroes a few weeks ago when he obtained from the senate the inclusion in the price control bill of a provision giving him veto power over any farm commodity prices fixed by the federal price administrator.

President Raps Proposal.

President Roosevelt sharply criticized this proposal, but the conferees kept it in the bill, which the President signed today. Whether Wickard's speech and his action on wheat and corn prices were the result of the President's criticism of the price bill was not clear, but many here today took that view.

Wickard, in a speech at Atlanta, Ga., last Wednesday, said that farm prices that are too high now will mean "farm prices that are too low later on; if we take advantage of the situation to profiteer an angry public will rebel."

He added an appeal that farmers be "satisfied with parity," their objective for eight years, instead of the 110 per cent of parity permitted by the price control act before any price ceilings can be imposed on a farm product. [Parity prices are intended to give farmers the equivalent of their 1909-'14 purchasing power.

Plan Sale Below Parity.

The action to prevent wheat and corn price increases was an announcement by the department of agriculture that it proposed to sell government held wheat and corn stocks at 85 per cent of parity.

Sen. Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.] said that after Wickard's speech cotton prices broke more than $3.50 a bale. Before the speech he said cotton had sold up to 20.11 cents a pound, or slightly above 110 per cent of parity, but that after the address it fell below that point, at which a ceiling can be imposed under the new law.

"It seems that the secretary is laying a basis for low farm prices," Thomas said. "We all thought he was a friend of the farmers, but now we wonder."

Sen. Guy Gillette [D., Ia.] said the department apparently intended to use stored government surpluses "to prevent prices of certain farm commodities from reaching a ceiling position under terms of the price control bill."

U. S. BUYING ALL CHILE'S EXCESS METAL OUTPUT

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 30 (AP).—The ministry of public relations announced today the conclusion of an agreement with the United States Metals Reserve corporation for the purchase of all Chilean metal production not sold to others in the western hemisphere.

Metals covered in the agreement include copper, gold ore, concentrates, manganese, lead, zinc, antimony, wolframite, molybdenum, cobalt ores, and refined mercury.

Virtually all Chilean bar copper production, at present about 40,000 tons monthly, is going to the United States but is not included in the agreement.

Chicago Business Rises

Many lines of business activity in Chicago were more active last month than in December, 1940, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday in its monthly analysis.

A notable exception, however, was the showing made by sales of new automobiles which, because of the effects of the war regulations on the national economy, dropped to 7,065, from 12,216 in the 1940 month.

Among the pace setters for the December rise were the steel mills and the electric power industry. Factory employment and pay rolls showed marked advances, postal receipts expanded, air line traffic moved up steeply, street car traffic was larger, and a big gain in outgoing telephone calls reflected the mustering of industrial forces for the war effort.

A large increase in business on the Chicago Stock exchange was recorded and gains were shown also for carloadings and department store sales.

New Security Issues by Years

New Capital and Refunding Issues Are Included in Each Case

Grain Prices Swing Widely on Day's News

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Grain dealers were pleased, dismayed, and mystified by government pronouncements from Washington yesterday. Each change in their sentiment was quickly reflected in market action. They were:

1. Pleased by the advance in parity rates for farm commodities. Prices advanced sharply as trading began, soy beans climbing more than 3 cents a bushel to a new all-time peak, May selling for $2.03½.

2. Dismayed when President Roosevelt expressed displeasure with agricultural provisions of the price control bill. Prices sagged badly.

3. Mystified as to what the final outcome of farm price control would be.

Puzzled by Bean Parity.

They were particularly puzzled by the announcement that the parity price of soy beans was $1.39 a bushel when the government has offered to pay farmers $2 a bushel for top grade beans for seed purposes, yet under the price control bill the ceiling would be around $1.54.

Market action at the close, grain men said, reflected the primary factor of supply and demand. Grain has not been moving out of the country in sufficient volume to meet expanding industrial requirements and the trade was willing to pay higher prices to obtain supplies.

Wheat finished ⅜ to ¾ cent a bushel higher with May at $1.31⅛. Corn was up ¾ to ⅞ cent and rye 1¼ to 1⅜ cents. Oats closed ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower. Soy beans advanced ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel while lard was up 5 to 7½ cents per hundredweight.

Feed Wheat Price Falls.

The grain men disclosed that department of agriculture actions of the last few days have dealt a hard blow to farmers with feed wheat to sell. Up until the last day or two the market for sample grade grain, some varieties of durum wheat, and cracked grain was around $1.10 a bushel or more. Yesterday it was down between 20 and 25 cents a bushel from these levels. The government had announced it would sell feed wheat for around 91 cents a bushel.

WESTERN RAILS MEET MONDAY ON FARE HIKE ISSUE

Hugh W. Siddall, chairman of the Western Passenger association, said the western railroads will meet Monday afternoon to determine what action to take on the refusal of the Illinois Commerce commission to increase railroad passenger fares within the state 10 per cent on Feb. 10. Headquarters of the association is in the Union station.

The Interstate Commerce commission recently granted the railroads authority to increase passenger fares 10 per cent on Feb. 10. Illinois law limits fares to 2 cents a mile. It is expected the railroads will take the dispute to the federal courts.

A spokesman for the Illinois commission said Thursday the issue may be placed before the Supreme court for a final disposition of state rights versus federal control.

TURN OUT THE STUFF AND ARGUE ON COSTS LATER, SAYS NELSON

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson, it was learned today, has told big business in so many words that he wants production, not argument, and "to hell with stopping to count the cost."

The War Production board chairman made an unannounced flying trip to New York last night and issued his orders to some 250 members of the National Association of Manufacturers. Virtually all of the nation's industries holding major war contracts were represented.

"If any of you men have war contracts pending which are being held up while you negotiate over the terms, get into production now and settle the details later," Nelson told the business leaders. "Start turning out the stuff and we can argue the terms at our leisure.

"Turn it out by inefficient methods if necessary and figure out better ones as you go along—but get the stuff moving whatever happens."

Job Slowdown by 80 Causes Layoff of 600

Six hundred employés of the sorting and shipping department of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's tin mill at Gary were laid off yesterday because of a slowdown of 80 "reckoners," who count, weight, and bundle tin plate, the company announced.

The slowdown started Thursday, officials said, when the reckoners cut their production about in half. The reckoners, who earn $11.60 a day in wages and incentive payments, have requested increases in the rates of the latter.

Officials said there was no work yesterday morning for the 600 employés, who constitute about half the sorting and shipping department, but that the reckoners continued to work at their reduced pace.

CALL SHOE PLANT STRIKE.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Frank R. McGrath, president of the United Shoe Workers of America [CIO] announced today that "shoe workers will not go to work on Monday in the plant of the United States Shoe corporation in Norwood, O., unless the company signs an agreement with the union."

He said the workers demanded a 15 per cent wage increase, recognition of the union, and other considerations, but that the company had refused to meet union representatives.

Industry Ends Output of Cars 'for Duration'

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 30 (AP).—Passenger automobile and light truck production for all practical purposes came to an end today. Even before assembly lines stopped, the nation's automotive industry, already producing tanks, aviation engines, bomber plane subassemblies, and other military implements, stepped up its tempo on these items, strange to its foundries and assembly plants.

Ward's Reports, Inc., estimated this week's production at 73,305 units, compared with 79,930 last week and 124,400 a year ago.

An all out war economy controls the industry's thinking; a "staggering" volume of arms production in the shortest possible time is its objective.

Task in No Way Simple.

Factory heads, confident of attaining his end, admitted the task was no simple one. For more than four decades the industry's principal product has been vehicles for civilian use; it's 1917-'18 war work, as one industry leader expressed it, "was nothing compared to what we are in for now."

"But don't forget," said another, "military products aren't regular products; airplane engines aren't car engines, caterpillar treads aren't wheels; machine gun mountings aren't rumble seats and cannons just aren't windshield wipers."

Some 200,000 Lose Jobs.

For some 200,000 to 250,000 plant workers thruout Michigan and others in widely separated branch assembly plants, the cessation of normal activities meant enforced idleness for an uncertain period.

Some factories sent their last passenger vehicles down the assembly lines today; some will shut down tomorrow and a few will continue into next week. The unfilled part of January's 204,848 unit quota, however, is relatively small.

Propped against the windshield of the last car down one final assembly line today was a placard reading:

"Our last great 1942 car; our tanks and our guns will be great, too; then we'll build great cars again."

Telegraph Firms to Hire More Women Messengers

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—Telegraph company executives said today they expected to hire about 3,000 women messengers this year as more men are called to military service. Under New York state law girls under 21 years old are unavailable as messengers, altho women between 18 and 21 are permitted to work in certain factory and domestic jobs. At present Western Union has about 275 girl messengers and Postal Telegraph 75. They are employed chiefly in business areas.

TAX HIKE JOLTS UTILITIES, BUT BENEFITS SOME

Viewed as Cushion for Cost Rise.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The market value of utility stocks has fallen nearly 25 per cent since Sept. 20 when the revenue act of 1941 was signed by President Roosevelt. The rate of depreciation in utility stocks has been twice as great as in the shares of industrial corporations and nearly 10 times that of rail stocks.

Among the utility stocks which have incurred big market losses are many issues long rated as blue chip investments. Some railroad issues with lower investment ratings have incurred only moderate setbacks by comparison. The explanation is found in the effects which the revenue act is expected to have on various classes of securities.

Vulnerable to New Tax.

The utility industry has been considered particularly vulnerable to the increases in corporation taxes provided by the 1941 act. Under the act the effective normal tax rate on corporation income was increased from 24 to 31 per cent and a graduated tax up to 60 per cent was levied on "excess profits."

With fixed rates, not easily adjusted to rising costs, the utility industry was singled out by investment analysts as being unfavorably situated in an inflationary war period.

The initial effect of the increased taxes is reflected in the 1941 earnings which utility companies are now reporting. Many of the companies are in the highest excess profits tax bracket. Tax accountants now emphasize that these companies, having absorbed the first impact of the new taxes, possess a partial cushion against future higher operating costs.

Government to Lose Most.

If the expenses rise more rapidly than revenue, the government will be the principal loser, not the corporation. The following illustrates the tax effect in a hypothetical case:

A corporation had taxable earnings of 10 million dollars in 1941 of which 2 million was taxable as "excess profits." On the 2 million dollars, the company incurred an excess profit tax of $1,154,000. After reducing total earnings by this amount, the remainder, or $8,846,000, was taxable at the rate of 31 per cent. This brought total tax to $3,896,000 for the corporation, leaving net income of $6,104,000 after all taxes. This was equal to $3.05 a share on 2 million outstanding.

The overall tax rate on any future growth in profits over the 1941 level would be 72.4 per cent [the combined effect of excess profit tax and income tax on earnings in this bracket].

How Tax Cushions Slump.

Thus the corporation retains only 27.6 per cent of any increase in earnings over the 1941 level. At the same time a drop in total earnings would cost the corporation only 27.6 per cent in net income as long as it remained in the top excess profit bracket. The government absorbs the big loss, 72.4 per cent of the decline in taxable earnings.

An increase of a million dollars in taxable earnings of the corporation this year would result in an improvement of only $276,000, or 14 cents a share, in net income. A corresponding decline in taxable earnings would mean a decline in net income of only $276,000, or 14 cents a share. Without the cushioning effect of the tax, a decrease of a million dollars in earnings would reduce per share earnings by 50 cents.

This tax factor is of particular importance to utility companies, tax men said. It will lessen the severity of an inflationary rise in costs not compensated by additional revenue.

Vast Financing Deal of Utility Is Abandoned

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 [Special].—Virtual abandonment by the United Gas corporation of its long pending refinancing program which called for the issuance of 75 million dollars of bonds which 14 insurance companies had agreed to buy, was announced today by the Securities and Exchange commission. The third extension of the purchase agreement, made last June, will expire Sunday.

Directors of the Electric Bond and Share company, parent holding company, the SEC said, had concluded that the program should not be approved on behalf of Electric Bond and Share because litigation might be provoked.

Unit in Bond & Share.

United Gas is a major subsidiary of Electric Power and Light, one of the holding companies of the Electric Bond and Share system.

Until proceedings last week before the SEC, United Gas had continued to hope for a compromise of the differences between Electric Bond and Share and the SEC.

"The security structure of United Gas has been badly in need of revision for many years and bond financing on favorable terms seemed an appropriate and desirable first step in this direction," the SEC said, but it objected to the plan to apply proceeds to pay $52,925,000 of indebtedness to Electric Bond and Share.

Revised Plan Abandoned.

Seeking to clear this hurdle, a program was drawn for the sale of 70 millions instead of 75 millions of bonds and use of the major part of proceeds to redeem the $7 preferred stock of United Gas.

However, the SEC said, it was advised Monday that the Electric Bond and Share management and directors had decided this program would require stockholders' approval, take too long to effect, and almost inevitably result in litigation.

PURCHASE APPROVED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission authorized Standard Gas and Electric company today to purchase at $23.50 a share those shares of Louisville Gas and Electric company common stock not sold to the public.

This arrangement grew out of a plan of Louisville Gas, approved by the SEC last October, to sell 150,000 shares of new common stock to the public at $23.50, using its own employés in a sales campaign. Up to Jan. 12 the employés had sold 13,518 shares and security dealers, under a concession thru which they received 75 cents a share, had sold 10,277 shares.

The decision to permit Standard Gas, indirectly a parent of Louisville Gas, to acquire stock not sold publicly was made to "take care of new money requirements" of the Louisville company, the commission said.

Under an outstanding order Standard Gas will be required to divest itself of its interest in Louisville Gas. Under these circumstances, the SEC added, the acquisition is not detrimental to the carrying out integration provisions of the holding company act and further, "the acquisition will serve the public interest, by tending toward the economical and efficient development of Louisville Gas."

ASK DATA FROM 10,000 FIRMS ON USES OF METALS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Questionnaires will be mailed by the War Production board this week-end to 10,000 manufacturers launching the most detailed statistical study of the metals industries ever undertaken in this country.

Information obtained from the study, board officials said, will be the basis for distribution of scarce materials during the three months beginning April 1. Manufacturers are required to make returns by Feb. 20 to the census bureau.

JUDGE ASSAILS CAR LINE FARE RULING DELAYS

Increase Petition Filed Last August.

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday directed outspoken criticism at the Illinois Commerce commission for its delay in acting on the Chicago Surface Lines' petition for an emergency increase in street car fares from 7 to 8 cents. The lines' petition was filed last August.

Judge Michael Igoe.

"Apparently the commerce commission does not believe the surface lines are entitled to a legal rate of return," Judge Igoe told surface lines' attorneys in the course of a hearing in the federal District court. "No other conclusion can be drawn after watching that outfit work."

Second Slap in Two Weeks.

This marked the second time in two weeks that Judge Igoe, who has jurisdiction over both the surface and elevated lines, had criticized the commission. On Jan. 17 he said that at the rate the commission was going it might require 10 years to complete the proposed unification of the city's transportation systems.

Judge Igoe's remarks yesterday were made after attorneys for holders of surface lines first mortgage bonds had submitted a petition asking the court to authorize payment of semiannual bond interest of $1,818,000 due Feb. 1. Judge Igoe remarked that perhaps the petition should have been presented to the state commerce commission instead of the Federal court. The attorneys said they would have no legal standing at the commission with such a motion.

"You might have as much standing as any one else," Judge Igoe remarked. "Nobody has any standing. The commission takes these things and sits on them. Thousands of deserving investors are entitled to this bond interest, but the commissioners won't allow the surface lines to earn enough money to pay it. All they do is give out statements."

Calls Criticism Unfair.

John D. Biggs, chairman of the commission, late yesterday termed Judge Igoe's criticism unjustified. He asserted that the commission has been holding hearings in a regular manner and is anxious to rule promptly on both the surface lines' petition and the request by the elevated lines for an increase from 10 to 12 cents in "L" fares.

Attorneys for the surface and elevated lines also submitted to Judge Igoe yesterday for tentative approval a draft order of the plan for financial reorganization and merger of the lines. A hearing on the plan was set for next Friday.

USERS OF WASTE PAPER TOLD TO REPORT WEEKLY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The War Production board's industry operations division today ordered all producers of paper board and roofing materials to file weekly reports covering receipts, consumption and production of waste fibrous materials, principally paper and rags.

The reports must be filed each Monday, beginning Feb. 2, with the division's pulp and paper branch.

SLOTHFUL STOCK LIST POSTS MORE DIPS THAN GAINS

Ticker Tape at Standstill Frequently in Day.

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—A few stocks contested a moderate downdrift in today's market but most failed to make much headway.

The list exhibited slothful tendencies at the start and, while gains running to a point or so ultimately were achieved by a few favorites, small fractional declines were in the majority at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .2 of a point at 37.7. The ticker tape frequently was at a standstill and transfers of 377,490 shares compared with 424,015 Thursday and were the smallest since last Oct. 1.

War News Is Uninspiring.

War news from Singapore and Africa hardly was to the liking of speculative and investment contingents, altho mild cheer was derived from reports of further Japanese ship casualties in the far Pacific. The impact of mounting taxes on company earnings was stressed in a number of 1941 statements and this helped chill the buying urge for many shares.

Soft drink company stocks were resistant, with Coca-Cola holding a modest gain. The somewhat better position of these concerns in sugar allotments was an aid here. Motors eased as this week's automotive production dipped and it was expected passenger car output would cease after next week. Union Pacific was up a point and other rails were only a shade lower.

CHICAGO LIST STEADY.

Prices were about steady on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in transactions involving 16,000 shares. Commonwealth Edison, off ¼ to 21¾, was the volume leader with 1,100 share traded.

Other active stocks included Northwest Bancorporation, up ¾; Chicago corporation, off ⅛; Alfred Decker & Cohn, up ⅛, and General Motors, unchanged. In the half hour after the close in New York, Allis Chalmers, Anaconda, General Electric, and Yellow Truck and Coach each declined ⅛, while W. B. Jarvis and Libby, McNeill and Libby advanced ⅛.

KUHN, LOEB & CO. TO OBSERVE ITS 75TH BIRTHDAY

New York, Jan. 30 [Special].—The investment firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. on Sunday will observe the 75th anniversary of its establishment. It is one of the few old Wall street firms still using its original name.

The founder were Abraham Kuhn, Solomon Loeb, and Samuel Wolff in addition to Samuel Kuhn and Jacob Netter whose names appear on the first letterheads but whose connection with the firm otherwise is not clear in the early records.

All came to New York from Cincinnati where they operated a dry goods business known as Kuhn, Netter & Co., established long before the Civil war.

Among the 11 present members of the firm are John M. Schiff and Frederick M. Warburg, great-grandsons of Solomon Loeb and Gilbert W. Kahn, a grandson of Abraham Wolff.

PROFITS OF SUN OIL, A. M. CASTLE BEST ON RECORD

Earnings of Two Other Big Concerns Dip.

A. M. Castle & Co., Chicago steel distributor, and Sun Oil company, Philadelphia, yesterday reported 1941 net earnings which were the largest in their history, but Continental Baking company and Blaw-Knox company disclosed their profits were smaller than in 1940.

A. M. Castle's net income for the year was $1,000,720, or $4.17 a share, compared with $509,662, or $2.12 a share, in 1940. The company's provision for federal taxes was $1,717,000, compared with $182,094 in the preceding year. Profit for the December quarter was $362,285, or $1.51 a share, compared with $193,724, or 81 cents a share, in the fourth quarter of 1940.

Previous Record Doubled

Sun Oil company, an integrated petroleum corporation, disclosed its net for 1941 was $16,532,540, or $6.21 a share. The company's previous record profit was $7,969,068, or $3.03 a share, in 1940.

Continental Baking company, New York, one of the nation's largest bread producers, disclosed its net for the year ended Dec. 27 was $2,861,521, or 80 cents a share, compared with $3,500,331, or $1.01 a share, in the preceding year.

The 1941 net income of the Blaw-Knox company, Pittsburgh, Pa., metal manufacturer and fabricator, was $1,568,311, or $1.25 a share. Its 1940 net was $1,360,747, or $1.02 a share.

The Blaw-Knox report showed shipments were worth about 30 million dollars, about twice the amount of the preceding year. Current orders were reported almost entirely for direct or indirect war use.

Holding Firm Earns More.

United Merchants & Manufacturers, Inc., New York textile holding company which also is engaged in a general factoring business, disclosed its net for the six months ended Dec. 31 was $2,122,000, or $3.53 a share, against $1,020,720, or $1.70 a share, in the last half of 1940.

The 1941 profit of Chicago Electric Manufacturing company, manufacturer of electric appliances and auto lighting equipment, was $90,592, or $1.62 a share, compared with $122,035, or $2.70 a share, in 1940.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore reported its net last year was $6,701,383, or $4.64 a share, compared with $6,255,324, or $4.41 a share, the year before.
